Appleton Man, Child Die in Auto Accidents

3 Others are Hurt in Car, Truck Crash

Traffic accidents this afternoon brought death to an Appleton man and boy and injuries to 4 other persons.

Emil Klein, 64, 1203 W. Lawrence street, was killed and three women injured when their car and a semi-trailer truck collided about 12:30 at the intersection of Highways 41 and 47, north of Appleton. Occupants of the car who were injured are Mrs. Klein, 65, broken left leg and arm and lacerations; Mrs. A. J. Kranhold, 728 W. Fourth street, chest injuries; and Mrs. Anna Maurer, 57, broken left leg, broken ribs, broken bones in left arm and hand and a possible fracture of a facial bone.

The other fatality was Dale Bradt, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Bradt, 1517 W. Franklin street, who was killed in an accident involving a truck driven by Robert Seidler, 919 W. Barnes avenue, on Packard street shortly before 1:30 this afternoon. Seidler was going west and the boy, according to a report from police, stepped from his father's car and started to cross the road when the accident occurred.

Crash at Fond du Lac

Two other Appleton persons were injured in a fatal traffic accident about 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon on Highway 45 four miles north of Fond du Lac. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Schutte, 1411 W. Franklin street, are confined to a Fond du Lac hospital, each with a broken leg, back injuries and cuts and bruises. Their car and another driven by Albert Wegel, 80, Fond du Lac, collided. Wegel's wife was killed and he is in a critical condition. Schutte was going north and Wegel south when the collision occurred.

Alfred Scheid, 38, Milwaukee, driver of the truck in the crash near Appleton this afternoon, escaped injury although his truck tipped over and was smashed badly. He told Captain Charles Steidl, of the county traffic squad, that he was going west on Highway 41 and that the car was northbound on Highway 47 when the collision occurred.

The Klein car, according to the truck driver, struck the trailer of his machine. The truck traveled 84 feet west before tipping over. Measurements taken by Ronald Decker, traffic policeman, immediately after the accident showed that the Klein car skidded 53 feet in the intersection and then traveled or was carried by the impact, 84 feet westward. Automatic traffic signals at the intersection were in operation at the time of the accident, the truck driver said.

Two of the persons in the car were taken to St. Elizabeth hospital in the Kunitz ambulance, while the other two were rushed to the hospital by Sheriff John Lappen and Undersheriff Fred Frank.

Lappen said a coroner's jury was to be drawn this afternoon, and that inquests would be held in both the Klein and Bradt deaths.

David Petznick, about seven years old, 419 E. Spring street, escaped serious injury at 12:55 this afternoon when he ran into the side of a car driven by Raymond Goss, 169 W. Foster street.

Goss was going south on N. Oneida street when the Petznick boy ran from the east to the west side of Oneida street at the Spring street intersection. Goss took the boy to St. Elizabeth hospital, where he was reported "not badly hurt."

Steels and Aircrafts Lead Exchange Rally

New York—(AP)— Steels, aircrafts and rails paced a broad upturn on the stock exchange today in one of the busiest sessions of several months.

Brokers said a combination of improved political prospects, as Wall street sees it; a greatly expanded business picture, and an apparent lull in the European war, brought out the buying.

Gains ran from $1 to $3 a share or more at times for U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Youngstown Sheet and Tube, J. I. Case, International Harvester, Douglas Aircraft, United Aircraft and American Telephone.

Britain's Plan to Order 12,000 More U.S. Planes Has Roosevelt Backing

Predicts Nation to be 'Strongest Air Power'; More Bombers to be Built

Washington —(AP)— War department was reported today to have planned production of 12,000 additional bombing airplanes largely with the aid of the automobile industry.

This program, to cost possibly $2,000,000,000, was described as separate from the 12,000 warplane order which President Roosevelt said last night Great Britain has proposed to place in this country.

Recent conferences of William S. Knudsen, defense commissioner in charge of production, with automobile industry leaders, were concerned with plans for the new American bomber production.

The program was reported to call for erection of two large plants to assemble parts manufactured in automobile factories.

No delivery dates for the new planes were indicated.

Persons familiar with the plans said the defense commission turned to the automobile industry when indications developed that regular aircraft plants could not be expanded further without delay and heavy expense.

The proposed new bombers would more than double the number of planes at present on order for the army air corps.

Of more than 20,000 planes of all types under contract for the air corps, at least half are trainers and not more than a fourth are bombers, the remainder being pursuit and other types.

Boston —(AP)— President Roosevelt has given his support to a proposed step which he said would let Great Britain order 12,000 more American planes and, by building up production capacity, help make the United States "the strongest air power in the world."

He selected a political speech in the Boston garden last night to announce that he had asked the defense priorities board to give "most sympathetic consideration" to a British request for permission to order the planes.

When these orders were approved, he said—adding "I hope they will be"—Britain would have undertaken to purchase a total of 26,000 American planes; and still more new plant facilities would be needed.

"The productive capacity of the United States that I talk about, which has made it the greatest industrial country in the world," he said, "is not failing now. It is going to make us, it is making us the strongest air power in the world."

The president returned to Washington for a speech at 3:15 p. m., C.S.T., today, dedicating the National Institute of Health, and a final brief interlude in pre-election campaigning before traveling to Brooklyn for another political address at the Academy of Music tomorrow.

Hits GOP Farm Record

The Boston speech ended a day in which he campaigned in Connecticut and Massachusetts, which have a total of 25 electoral votes, and appeared in Boston before crowds which Police Superintendent Edward J. Fallon estimated at 500,000.

In his address he denounced what he said was "the record of Republicans on farm legislation," and

Laval Tells About Confab

Discussed Economic, Colonial Questions, Vice Premier Says

Vichy, France—(AP)—Vice Premier Pierre Laval said in a statement published in Paris newspapers last night that he had conferred with German military authorities in Paris on economic and colonial questions with particular reference to practical means of carrying out France's "collaboration" with Germany.

Laval before his historic interview with Adolf Hitler told the Associated Press he believed democracy in the modern world, in all countries, was dead, and that he was staking France's future on collaboration with nazi Germany.

Laval said he based his belief on the almost unopposed victories marked up by the totalitarian powers in the last year.

Laval said the future of France depended on the friends she made at this time.

The vice premier's dislike for the English has not lessened.

Charges Contract Broken to Force Sale Of LaCrosse Theaters

Madison—(AP)—Robert Hess of Milwaukee, counsel for the LaCrosse Theatres company, charged in federal court today that the Paramount Pictures Distributing company canceled a contract with the LaCrosse concern with advance notice because it wanted to buy the local firm's movie houses.

Hess made this charge in his opening statement to the jury of 11 men and one woman impanelled to hear the theater company's suit for $1,472,000 damages against the distributing company and four other picture firms. The original action, filed in July, 1938, asked damages of $1,050,000, but this was raised yesterday in an amended complaint.

The defense was expected to make its opening statement late today.

Hess said the contract, which bound the Paramount firm to supply the LaCrosse company pictures, was broken in March, 1933.

English Fliers Attack German 'Invasion' Area

Nazi Raids on London Brought to Halt After Bombing During Night

London — (AP) — The British air ministry said today that the R. A. F.'s bombers had scored many hits overnight on the docks and ship berths in the "invasion" harbor of Ostend, which the Germans had repaired following earlier bombings.

British bombers also attacked the naval base at Emden, Germany, near the Dutch coast, and "heavily bombed," docks in Antwerp and Flushing overnight, the air ministry said today.

Cherbourg was reported to have been attacked in daylight operations yesterday, and the air ministry news service said dockside buildings were hit and a heavy salvo of bombs dropped among four torepdo boats cruising about 20 miles offshore.

One German plane was said to have been shot down, and one British plane failed to return.

The R. A. F. also attacked German-held channel ports and communications in western Germany in the night, the ministry said, in spite of adverse weather.

Bomb Libyan Bases

Heavy attacks by British bombers yesterday on Bardia and Tobruk, major Italian bases in Libya, were reported today in a communique on British aviation activities in the Near East.

A fire visible for 30 miles, which destroyed a huge dump of military stores, was reported in the Bardia

Party Leaders Facing Probe

Subpenas Issued After Flynn Charge At Press Conference

Philadelphia—(AP)—A federal grand jury investigating charges of violations of election laws sent out subpenas today to leaders of the Republican and Democratic parties in Pennsylvania in what a spokesman termed an "unprecedented" action.

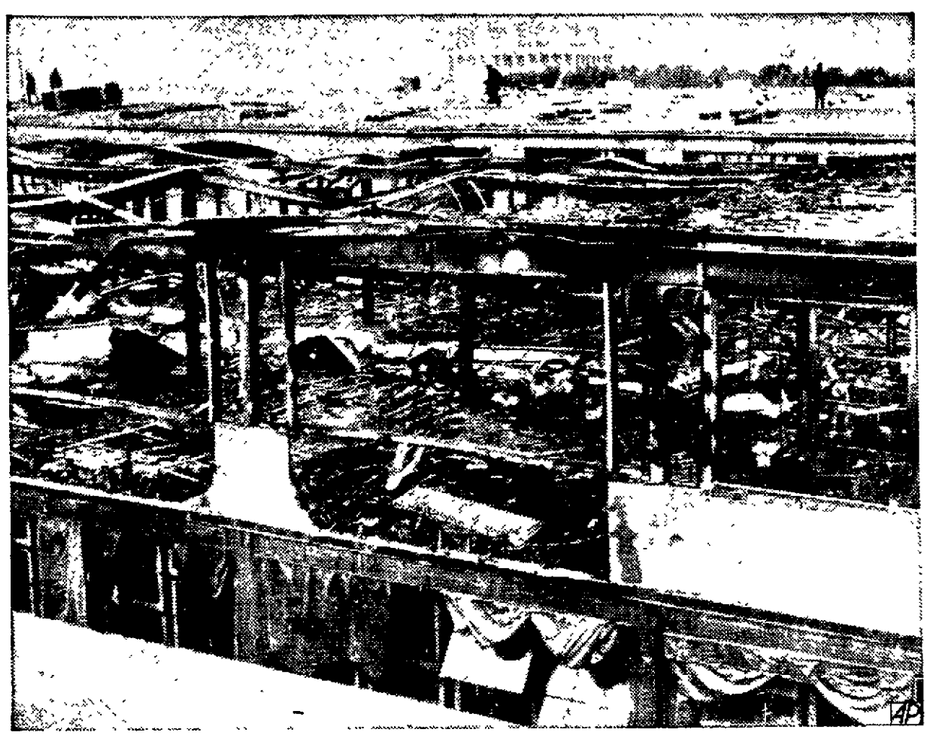

Announcement of the move was made after Democratic National Chairman Edward J. Flynn told his press conference in New York yesterday that Republicans "intend to buy this election." He added "the evidence is pretty positive" that Joseph N. Pew, Philadelphia industrialist and Republican leader, "has raised $2,000,000 to buy the election in Pennsylvania."

Summoned to appear Nov. 7—Two days after election—together with Pew were Democratic State Chairman Meredith Meyers; Jay Cooke, Republican candidate for the United States senate and city chairman; James F. Torrance, Republican state chairman; and Luther Harr, Democratic state campaign manager.

The jury also subpenaed, by title, treasurers of the city and state committees of both parties, the chairman and treasurer of the Willkie clubs, the chairman and treasurer of the Democrats-for-Willkie organization, and the chairman and treasurer of the Republicans for Roosevelt.

Pew termed Flynn's accusations "too ridiculous for comment."

Italians Driven Back in Greek Counter-Attack

Don't Need Help, Athens Tells Turks

Athens, Greece—(AP)—Greek troops were reported today to have counter attacked north of the besieged town of Ioannina (Janina), and sources regarded as reliable said they had stormed and recaptured a hill.

The Greeks, rushing the hill under heavy fire, were said to have seized large quantities of abandoned arms and equipment from the Italian invaders.

The Ioannina sector, on the western frontier with Albania, still was the scene of the heaviest fighting of this four day old war, but there had been little change in the line. Along the rest of the front, the Greeks said the action was limited to sporadic firing and skirmishes between advance units of the two armies.

Ankara, Turkey—(AP)—Greece has informed the Turkish, government she can resist Italian pressure alone, semi-official sources in Ankara asserted today.

These sources declared Turkey would enter the war only "in case of a Bulgarian attack on Greece or if Turkey's national interests are endangered."

However, Turkey cannot remain disinterested in developments in the eastern Mediterranean, they said, and has informed the Athens government she will give Greece every help possible, even if she does not enter the war.

The official Turkish radio, in a discussion of the Greek campaign, said Italy was facing an important test of her military prestige, but thus far has not "shown up brilliantly."

The announcer declared that the best way for Britain to aid Greece was by bombing Italian air bases, protecting Greece against air attacks and also by "attacking Italian cities, including Rome."

The radio asserted that Italy apparently had attacked Greece independently of Germany as a matter of prestige.

Meanwhile Turks awaited the results of the sudden trip home of the German ambassador, Franz von Papen, who left yesterday presumably to report to Adolf Hitler on Turkey's situation.

British Troops Land

Salonika, Greece—(AP)—Britain, invoking the power of her Mediterraean fleet, was reported today to have landed troops on strategic Greek islands as this little kingdom's hardy mountain men fought to stem Italian troops pounding at her northwest frontier.

For military reasons, the islands where the landings were said to have been made under the big guns of British warships could not be identified by name.

Occupation of the islands presumably would give the British bases from which to launch the aid they have promised their newest ally.

Reports from the warfront 100 mile west of here, meanwhile, indicated the Greek continued to hold their own.

Check Italians

A communique said that Greek forces in the Epirus sector on the southern end of the Albanian border had kept the Italians in check all day yesterday.

The Italian offensive in this area was reported taking the form of a two pronged drive aimed at the industrial city of Ionannina, 30 miles from the frontier.

Little military activity was reported elsewhere, though unofficial sources estimated the Greeks had captured 800 prisoners during the last few days.

The high command accused the Italian air force of bombing Patras "indiscriminately" and machine gunning the population.

The loss of one Greek plane which engaged Italian fighters over Albanian territory was acknowledged.

Mobilization proceeded at top speed.

Army Calls First 30,000 Draftees to Training Camps

Estimate Outagamie County Would Furnish 5 Men; 3 Boards to Have Appleton Offices

Outagamie is one of 18 counties in the "Wausau center" which together will furnish 45 men of the 278 from the state of Wisconsin to be called for military service next month, Walter J. Wilde, state draft administrator, announced today, according to the Associated Press.

The official quota of 278 Wisconsin men in the first draft of 30,000 was received from the Sixth corps area today at Chicago. The figure 278 is only a little more than twice the number of local draft districts in the state, which total 134.

The quota will be filled between November 22 and November 30 at four induction centers at Milwaukee, Madison, Wausau, and Eau Claire.

Besides Outagamie, the 17 other counties in the Wausau area which together will furnish 45 men are Waupaca, Shawano, Portage, Oneida, Vilas, Ashland, Iron, Price, Forest, Florence, Marinette, Oconto, Langlade, Lincoln, Marathon, Wood, and Clark.

Each draft board will be given its pro rata share on the basis of total registration cards, but a few districts, having a small number of registrants, will not have to supply any men for the first call, Wilde said.

He estimated the quota for the average local board with about 3,000 registrants would be two men.

This would mean in Outagamie county that two men would be taken each of District 1, (Appleton) and District 2 (Little Chute).

In District 3, which has had its headquarters at Stephensville, there are little more than 1,800 men registered. This might mean only one man would be taken from this district.

Witness Is Slain, Suspect Seized

Salem, Ind.—(AP)—The fatal shooting of a witness as he emerged from the grand jury room in the Washington county courthouse brought a state police guard today around the jail where his alleged assailant was lodged.

William Gibson, 45-year-old World war veteran and wealthy land owner, was felled by a single bullet from a pistol late yesterday.

Sheriff Charles W. Moore said he saw the shooting and that it was done by Arch Bishop, 41, whom he disarmed and placed in jail. Moore reported that Bishop admitted the slaying. He was held without charge.

Sheriff Moore said the grand jury was investigating a disturbance last Saturday night at a tavern at Millport owned by Gibson which ended with Gibson's firing a shot into an automobile occupied by Bishop's son. The officer said no one was wounded.

Bishop already had testified before the grand jury and was waiting in a courthouse corridor when Gibson came out.

Report Requested on 'Kneeing' of Negro Officer in New York

New York —(AP)— District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey's office today asked Police Commissioner Lewis J. Valentine for the police department's report on the admitted "kneeing" of an officer by Stephen Early, a secretary to President Roosevelt.

This was announced by Milton Schilback, acting district attorney in the absence of Dewey.

The officer, James Sloane, 42, a Negro, was injured at Pennsylvania station Monday night a short time before President Roosevelt's train left for Washington.

A police report said that the policeman had "received his injuries with kicks by one Stephen Early."

Early, however said at the White house the next day that he had been pushed by several policemen and had "given the knee" to one of them in attempting to fend them off.

Carol Asks Interview With Spanish Minister

Seville, Spain—(AP)— Carol, exiled ex-king of Rumania, 'personally solicited an interview today with Ramon Serrano Suner, Spanish foreign minister, to seek permission to proceed to Portugal. No reply has been received.

Carol and his two companions, Mme. Magda Lupescu and Ernst Urdareanu, one time minister of the palace in Bucharest, have been under a polite form of arrest for more than a week while Spain has debated their fate.

Defense Housing Jobs Approved

Roosevelt Puts O.K. On Projects in 63 'Vital Areas' in U. S.

Washington —(AP)— Charles F. Palmer, defense housing coordinator, announced today that President Roosevelt had approved "immediate construction of housing projects in 63 vital defense areas" with $45,762,500 of defense funds.

This money, Palmer told a press conference, will provide 13,315 family dwelling units scattered throughout the United States. The contracts will be handled by the federal works administrator, John M. Carmody, he said.

The coordinator estimated that all the projects would be completed within four to twelve months.

Palmer said the largest of the 63 projects would be at San Diego, Calif., west coast defense center, where the navy already is constructing 1,200 family dwelling units. The new program calls for construction of 2,000 additional dwelling units.

The defense housing coordinator said that the projects approved by the president would not exceed a maximum cost per unit of $3,000.

Congress provided a total of $290,000,000 for defense housing construction, he said, and estimates indicate that a total of $560,000,000 will be needed eventually to complete the job.

Coordination of defense housing, Palmer said, will assure adequate housing for army and navy men and workers in civilian defense industries. None of the dwellings will be sold, he added, "until after the emergency."

Willkie Asks Roosevelt to Explain Lack of Jobs Under New Deal

Trenton, N. J. —(AP)— Wendell L. Willkie told a cheering crowd today that when "absolute power comes to any man he becomes corrupted and leads the people down the road to war."

The Republican presidential nominee, in a brief speech outside the war memorial building said, "you can see with your own eyes what the indispensable men have done to the people of Europe."

"The question in this campaign," Willkie said, "is whether the free way of life and government shall continue. In Europe you see the indispensable men. All three of them obtained their power first by peaceable means, convincing the people they loved them and wanted to do only good.

"When a man becomes too absolute in power, he always takes the people to the shambles of war."

Aboard Willkie Train Enroute Camden, N. J.—(AP)—After contending President Roosevelt's reelection might bring war by April on the basis of his "past performances and pledges" Wendell L. Willkie expressed hope today the chief executive would answer these questions before election:

"1. Why it is that after having spent 60 billion dollars, there are over nine million men still unemployed in the United States — approximately the same number as when he ran for president in 1936?

"2. Why it is that we have stayed in a condition of chronic depression for seven and a half years when every other country in the world, proir to the outbreak of the World war, showed greater progress toward recovery?

"3. Why it is that although he has failed to build an adequate defense for the United States he told congress last June to adjourn because there was no necessity of its staying in session. Since that date he has requested of congress billions of dollars in appropriations for the building of a national defense program.

"4. Why it is that he should be permitted to violate a principle of 150 years against a third term—especially at a time when democracy is already in peril without the added menace of long-term personal power?

"5. How does he justify his alliance with the most corrupt political machines in America? How does he explain his first-name intimacy with their bosses?"

Willkie asked the questions in a statement issued from his special

Driver Was Drunk but Sober Man Caused Crash

Winston, Salem, N. C. —(AP)—A patrolman's report on an automobile accident upset precedent.

He said evidence at the scene indicated that a drunken driver was proceeding correctly on the right side of the road when a sober driver came along and crashed into him, head-on.

U-Boat Torpedoes Under-Water Net

La Linea, Spain —(AP)— A daring Italian submarine destroyed part of the metal under-water net which protects the harbor of Gibraltar with a torpedo yesterday, reports from the rock said today.

The submarine escaped after firing a second torpedo at ships in the harbor. It ran up on shore without exploding.

The harbor net was repaired quickly. (A British official naval announcement last night said the torpedoes, operated from "a special device," failed to do any damage).

Early today, many merchant ships left Gibraltar with a heavy escort of war vessels. A single plane circled the rock, drawing anti-aircraft but dropping no bombs.

2,000 Chinese Troops Join Chiang's Forces

Hong Kong—(AP)— Two thousand Chinese troops recruited by the Japanese in eastern Shantung province were reported by the Central (Chinese) News agency today to have surrendered to the forces of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

To demonstrate their new loyalty to Chiang, the agency said, the troops later participated in an attack on Japanese positions near Kiaochow bay.

The agency estimated the Japanese had suffered 2,500 casualties in battle at Shaoshing.

Justice Department Orders Deportation of Mrs. Browder

Washington —(AP)— The justice department today ordered deportation of Mrs. Raissa Berkman Browder, wife of Earl Browder, general secretary of the Communist party in the United States, on the ground that she had entered this country illegally.

The order signed by Attorney General Jackson also denied application for suspension of the deportation order on the ground that Mrs. Browder's "evasive testimony regarding her relationship to the Communist party had created doubt as to her eligibility for leniency."

Immigration officials said that Mrs. Browder, who is 43, would be given a "reasonable time" in which to present herself for deportation to her native Russia.

Mrs. Browder and her husband, the Communist party candidate for president, were married in Moscow in September, 1926, and have three sons. Two were born in the Russian capital. One was born in New York city in 1934. The family resides in Yonkers, N. Y.

Earl Browder, a native of Kansas, is under sentence for passport fraud. He is now at liberty pending action on an appeal granted him by the supreme court.

Mrs. Browder had asked leniency on the ground that she was the wife of a native-born citizen of the United States and the mother of American-born offspring, but the board of immigration appeals held that that had "no bearing upon the question of her deportability."

She disclosed that she had last entered the United States in the fall of 1933 by train from Canada and intended to remain here permanently although she did not then have a valid immigration visa.

One possibility remained for further delay. The attorney general said that Mrs. Browder could move, prior to her deportation, to reopen the hearing if she had further evidence to produce.

Traffic Deaths This Year Slightly Over 1939, Council Reports

Chicago —(AP)— The National Safety Council reported yesterday that traffic deaths in the United States during the first nine months of 1940 numbered 23,830—an increase of seven per cent over the total recorded in a similar 1939 period.

The organization pointed out that if the nation is to make a better safety showing this year than last, drivers and pedestrians alike must exert extra caution in the normally hazardous months of November and December.

September accidents alone, it added, cost 3,260 lives, a loss that was seven per cent greater than in September, 1939.

Urban safety leaders during the first three quarters of 1940, with their annual death rates per 100,000 population as computed by the council, included:

Group one (over 500,000 population)—Buffalo, N. Y., 9.6; Milwaukee, 10.5; Boston, 10.8.

Both Candidates Touch On Possibility of War

Charges and Counter-Charges Fly As Campaign Enters Final Stage

New York—(AP)—President Roosevelt last night reaffirmed his pledge that United States "boys are not going to be sent into any foreign war," but almost at the same moment Wendell L. Willkie was saying: "If you elect him (Mr. Roosevelt), on the basis of his past performances and pledges to the people, you may expect war by April, 1941."

The two contenders for the White House spoke a little over 400 miles apart the Democratic nominee addressing one enthusiastic party rally in Boston while his Republican rival spoke before another enthusiastic gathering at Baltimore.

Mr. Roosevelt's Boston speech which also discussed the topics of defense and agriculture, capped a campaigning day which took him through Connecticut and Massachusetts, two states that represent a total of 25 electoral votes on Nov. 5.

Willkie on a companion stumping tour, campaigned for support in West Virginia and Maryland.

President Roosevelt used the Boston address to announce that Britain had requested permission to negotiate for 12,000 more planes in the United States and that he, in turn, had asked the proper defense officials to give Britain "most sympathetic consideration" in the matter.

"Political Shenanigans"

The Democratic nominee accused Republicans of "political shenanigans" on the defense effort, saying that they opposed the program in congress but during the campaign were bemoaning that "we are not doing enough for our national defense."

Turning to agricultural problems, he said Republican "crocodile tears" on the subject were "ridiculous" because he charged, the first one the Republican party "forgets after election day is the farmer."

Willkie at Baltimore meanwhile said that he wanted to know whether his opponent's "pledge for peace is going to last any longer than his pledge for sound money" in the campaign of 1932. He charged that the Democratic nominee had abandoned the sound money pledge in April, 1933, five months after he said it was made.

Willkie pledged his efforts for "maintenance of peace in the western hemisphere," and announced opposition to any appeasement policy.

His speech also contained a promise to furnish assistance to Britain "to the limits of prudence for our own safety."

Campaign Statements

Campaign statements vied with speeches for attention elsewhere on the political firing line.

Irving Fisher, Yale professor emeritus of economics, said in a statement issued by the Republican national committee that "our negative program of not producing has retarded us. A positive program of producing is needed. This is a job for a business man and a man who sees this need clearly. Roosevelt is not such a man. Willkie is."

Attorney General Jackson, in a statement at Washington, termed "political humbug" a comment by Representative Barton (R-N. Y.) on the handling of a critical letter sent to President Roosevelt by Mrs. William H. Fain of Greenwich, Conn. Barton had said in a radio speech that when Mrs. Fain requested a copy of her letter to refresh her memory she received a photographed copy from the justice department bearing a stamp which said "criminal division."

Barton, a candidate for the senate, said handling of the letter was "something to make our ancestors turn over in their graves."

Jackson said the letter was "perfectly proper" and was turned over to the justice department's criminal division for acknowledgement "simply because that division has a correspondence section" and the White House clerical force was overburdened.

In Baltimore, Governor Herbert R. O'Conor read to a Democratic labor rally a letter from Mr. Roosevelt saying that "forward steps" taken by the administration in the last eight years would be continued.

second and last add both candidates.

"The gains we have made we shall hold, I pledge you," the president's message said.

Denounce Circular

In New York, both Democratic and Republican leaders denounced a circular attacking the Georgia warm springs foundation, an institution for infantile paralysis sufferers whose growth, Mr. Roosevelt has furthered, as a "private business operated for profit."

The circular, which Democratic National Chairman Edward J. Flynn called "the filthiest thing that ever has been done in American politics" bore the letterhead "Independent Young Americans Inc, W. E. Porter, chairman."

"The only reason why this circular is being brought out," Flynn said "is to smear President Roosevelt."

Representative Joseph W. Martin Jr., Republican national chairman, condemned the circular and said that it had no connection whatever with the Republican organization.

Included among last night's speeches:

New York—Senator Wagner (D-N. Y.), assailed Willkie's record as president of commonwealth and southern corporation, saying that he did not help the investor, the consumer, or labor, and adding that the Republican nominee's record as a business man "marks him as the last man to be entrusted with the lives and welfare of 130 million people."

East Liverpool, O.—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) said president Roosevelt "called those of us liars who have said the rearming of America was slow and that it is hamstrung and impeded by the character and policies of the present administration."

Glens Falls, N. Y.—Senator Russell (D-Ga.) termed Willkie a "Miracle man" who "has been on both sides of every question."

St. Louis—Joe Louis, heavyweight boxing champion, blamed Mr. Roosevelt for the lack of a federal anti-lynching law and urged Negroes to vote for Willkie "because he will do what the president has failed to accomplish."

Wallace Is Delayed By Train at Chicago

Marquette, Mich. — (AP) — A late train at Chicago kept Henry A. Wallace from making his scheduled appearance in Marquette county yesterday.

The Democratic vice presidential candidate arrived at Iron Mountain by plane to begin his tour of the upper peninsula.

Rep. Frank Hook, of Ironwood, and Rep. Wendell Lund, of Escanaba, candidates for re-election in the twelfth and eleventh congressional districts respectively, took over the speaking duties that Wallace was unable to assume.

Appleton Woman in Hospital After Fall

Mrs. John Gerrits, 111 E. College avenue, is in St. Joseph's hospital, Aurora, Ill., suffering from a hip injury.

Mrs. Gerrits was injured several weeks ago at Aurora when she slipped off a step and fell. She will return home in about two weeks.

It's Stalin's Move But He's Still Sitting Tight

BY DEWITT MACKENZIE

New York—(AP)—President Roosevelt's announcement that he is supporting a British request for 12,000 more warplanes—bringing to 26,000 the total contracted for—is likely to boost England's stock considerably among wavering European non belligerents.

Mackenzie

The obvious fact that this huge fleet may make the difference between victory and defeat is bound to have an effect on Russia, Turkey, Spain, Portugal, and even defeated France.

All these countries Hitler is trying by every means to bring into his camp, at least so far as moral support is concerned. His purpose, of course, is to consolidate his gains and create a unified Europe to support his "new order."

The Russian attitude naturally is a matter of paramount concern to England at this crucial moment. One of the gravest threats hanging over the British is the possibility that Hitler may be able to force the Bolsevists to throw their full support to the axis powers.

Stalin Sits Tight

Russia's whole inclination should be to smite Hitler, whose recent operations are a direct challenge to Soviet interests, but apparently communist chief Stalin is sitting tight because he hesitates to tangle with Hitler's mighty military machine until a more favorable moment arrives.

Just after Hitler's Munich triumph, I toured most of Europe.

Everywhere the talk revolved about Hitler's growing strength and ambitions, and what attitude the Reds would take towards this new personality, who obviously was going places.

That brings us up to the Russo-German anti-aggression pact which Hitler sought and which enabled him to assault Poland. Note that Hitler himself obviously wasn't convinced that the Muscovites were incapable of making war.

Stalin's reasons for signing that extraordinary pact were two fold. First, he figured that plenty of blood letting in Europe would create conditions favorable to the spread of communism. Second he was shrewd enough to recognize the vast strength which Hitler already possessed.

Stalin's Move

Where Stalin's plans went awry was that he couldn't foresee the collapse of France, which enabled Hitler to roll up one of the most amazing victories of history, and create a menace to Russia.

From then on we see Messrs. Stalin and Hitler jockeying for position against each other, but always avoiding war. They have maintained the tone of friendship—but their thin lipped smiles couldn't fool anybody.

And now we have Hitler poised and apparently ready to strike at the Dardanelles — one of Russia's life lines and an essential bulwark to her safety. It's Stalin's move to counter this threat and you'd expect him to strike quickly if he could.

The risk is so great that he is waiting for a better opportunity—probably hoping that Britain will be able to break, or at least weaken, Hitler.

English Fliers Attack German 'Invasion' Area

raid, while at Tobruk the communique said "many bombs fell in the target area."

Successful raids on several Italian bases in Eritrea also were announced.

A lone German air raider opening the daylight attacks on England today dived within a few hundred feet of the ground to drop high explosive bombs on a southeast inland down.

Early in the afternoon the air raid sirens screamed in the London area, and nazi planes were reported over the midlands and a west coast town.

The famous center court at Wimbledon, where American tennis stars have helped make sports history, has been damaged by German air raiders recently British authorities disclosed.

Other famous landmarks damaged in recent air attacks were London's Leicester square, St. Bartholomew's medical school; the seventeenth century Stationers' hall; and the Dutch church at Austin Friars.

The fifty-fourth successive night of German air raiding on London tapered off into complete silence since early today and although 47 districts of England were bombed the night's attacks were described as among the lightest since the aerial blitzkrieg began.

The government said the night's attacks were confined mainly to "the London area and eastern and southern England, though some bombs were also dropped on the midlands . . . Damage as a whole was slight and casualties were few."

In spite of adverse weather conditions, the air ministry said, R. A. F. bombers ranged over the channel again, attacking "channel ports and communications in western Germany."

The air ministry said nine German planes were shot down yesterday, to five British.

Health Minister Malcolm MacDonald announced that some 70 per cent of London's children in areas hard hit by German air raiders had been removed to the country.

Authoritative military circles in London said today Italian troops invading Greece had not yet reached the Greeks' main defensive line.

The main fascist advance since the attack began Monday has been along the left of the Greek line on the southeastern borders of Albania, they added.

Berlin —(AP)— The German high command reported today nazi artillery on the Flanders coast had repelled British speedboats creeping close to shore under cover of a thick channel haze and probably had destroyed one.

Describing German air raids on Britain it said explosions and fires had been observed in industrial plants and docks on both sides of Thames, and that British west coast ports and central England armament centers had been successfully attacked.

The high command said the British lost 13 planes yesterday and acknowledged loss of five of its own.

German officials reported wintry weather conditions drove British bombers home early after scattered raids over Germany last night.

The official German news agency, DNB, reported that nazi long range guns on the French coast had shelled the harbor of Dover yesterday.

Mrs. Roosevelt Asks Women Learn What to Do in Event of War

Waterville, Me.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt held today that women and others outside the armed forces should learn "what to do in an emergency" and predicted that a community training program toward that end probably would be the next step in the defense program.

"In case of attack—and I hope that horrible day will never come—it would be a great help to have women know what to do, as well as men," she said in an interview.

War Situation Today

Greeks Confident They Can Hold Off Italian Invaders

A Greek counter attack north of the besieged town of Ioannina (Janina) was reported to have thrown back invading Italian troops on the northwest front today, with Greek soldiers storming and recapturing a hill.

Dispatches from Athens said Greek warriors rushed the hill under heavy fire and seized big quantities of abandoned arms and equipment.

Previously, the Italian high command had reported only a five mile thrust into that sector, reaching to the Kalamas river.

Greek troops fighting in rain and mud along a 100 mile front, well out ahead of the $6,000,000 Metaxas line, were reported resisting the Italian invasion so successful today that Greece has decided she does not need Turkish help.

Semi official quarters in Ankara, capital of Turkey, said Greece had informed the Turkish government that she could stem the Italian assault alone.

As a result, these quarters said, Turkey will enter the four day old Balkan struggle only "in case of a Bulgarian attack on Greece, or if Turkey's national interests are endangered."

While Premier Mussolini's high command reported fascist legions had made a five mile advance to the Kalamas river, the Greek general staff said the Italian invaders had been held in check throughout yesterday.

Greek strategy, it was said, was to lure the fascist columns into narrow mountainous bottlenecks, where Greek sharpshooters on the cliffs above could pour down a murderous fire.

London, on the fifty-fourth consecutive night of German bombing had one of the quietest nights of the air siege.

Some bombs fell in London during the early evening, but from about midnight, all was quiet.

The Royal Air Force continued its attack on German held channel ports and communications in western Germany last night despite adverse weather conditions, the British air ministry reported.

President Roosevelt said last night he had asked the defense priorities board to give "most sympathetic consideration" to a British request for permission to order 12,000 more American planes.

This vast new air fleet—along with 14,000 others already contracted by the British in this country—may help Great Britain fulfill Prime Minister Winston Churchill's forecast of British "command of the air in 1941."

Health Minister Malcolm MacDonald announced that 563,000 children have now been removed to the country from bomb smashed sections of the empire capital. About 279,000 remain to be transferred.

The Rome newspaper Il Piccolo said the entrance of other nations into the triple alliance of Italy, Germany and Japan may be impending—possibly referring to soviet Russia or Bulgaria.

A Reuters (British news agency) dispatch from Salonika said 134 Russian planes have arrived in Greece in the last few days under a recent Soviet-Greek agreement—despite, true, Russia's professed "friendship" with the Rome-Berlin axis powers.

Tass, the official soviet news agency, later described the Reuter report as "a fantasy" and said "does not correspond to the facts in any extent whatsoever."

The Greeks reported 800 Italians have been taken prisoner in the fighting so far.

Heil Defends Record At Republican Rally

Its strongest bid for votes in the current campaign was made by the Outagamie county Republican party with a torchlight parade and rally last night.

The event held all the appeal of the old time political rally. As thousands watched, with the blare of bands, the ear-splitting crack of pound bombs and sky-lighting fireworks, the Republicans paraded down College avenue to Lawrence Memorial chapel.

Climaxing the parade was a speaking program at the chapel with Governor Julius P. Heil, candidate for reelection as the principal speaker. A buffet dinner was held earlier in the evening at the Conway hotel.

Cars bedecked with balloons and signs urging the citizenry to throw its support to the Republican candidates traveled in low speed before the crowds that lined College avenue to witness the spectable. Among bands showing in the parade was the home guard of the 120th Field Artillery band. Other bands were Menasha St. Mary's High school band, Kimberly Village band, Kimberly High school band, Kaukauna High school band and Little Chute band.

A hit of the parade was "Zeke," a dog which trotted along side the car of Undersheriff Fred Frank, candidate for sheriff. The dog sported a blanket advertising Frank's candidacy.

Buffet Dinner

State and county Republican candidates met informally with the persons who attended the buffet dinner held from 5 to 7 o'clock at the Hotel Appleton.

Governor Heil opened his speech by ending some mild attempts of a couple youngsters to heckle the speakers at the chapel program. He threatened to have the "young Americans" put out of the chapel.

Stating he knew but one citizenship in the state, Governor Heil defended his record of the last two years and said that he was "at your service 24 hours a day and 365 days a year." He said he was glad he could make an appearance on the same platform he did two years ago with a "keen eye and clear heart" because he did not lie to the people.

"We have gone beyond the stripes of politics—we are trying to save America," he declared.

Talks also were given by Fred Clausen, candidate for the senate, and Congressman Joshua L. Johns, candidate for reelection. They were introduced by Dr. F. L. Gullickson, state Republican chairman. Dr. C. L. Kolb, county chairman, presided at the meeting. Invocation was given by the Rev. Dascomb E. Forbush. Mrs. Florence Krabbe sang the "Star Spangled Banner" with the crowd joining in for the chorus.

Candidates Introduced

Dr. Kolb introduced county candidates including Fred Frank, candidate for sheriff; Miss Marie Ziegenhagen, candidate for reelection as treasurer, Sydney Shannon, candidate for reelection as clerk of courts; John E. Hantschel, candidate for reelection as county clerk; Stephen M. Peeters, candidate for reelection as register of deeds; Mike Mack, candidate for reelection to the state senate; Mark Catlin candidate for reelection to the assembly in the first district; Lloyd Lang, candidate for the assembly in the second district; Oscar Schmiege candidate for district attorney; and Dr. H. E. Ellsworth, candidate for reelection as coroner.

Dr. Gullickson introduced Fred Zimmerman, candidate for reelection as secretary of state; John Smith, candidate for reelection as state treasurer; and several other prominent Republican officers. Dr. Gullickson stated that "Heil has kept his word and has brought back economy in state government." He said the governor stood for reelection on his record and urged a straight Republican vote to "retain the American way of life."

Governor Heil cited figures to show that he kept his campaign promises made two years ago.

Cut Pay Roll

"I hold no ill will toward anyone who worked for the state," he said. "I am sorry it had too many. There are 1,055 less on the state's pay roll than when I took over as manager. It costs about $2,000 a year per person on the state's pay roll, so this is a saving of two million dollars per year. Of course, this job was not done the first day after I took office."

One of the first jobs he tackled, Governor Heil said, was the highway department where he thought too many people were employed. He said he cut the number from 740 to 430 and still gave the people of the state efficient service.

He said he wrecked the "gravy train" connected with the purchases of road oil for the state and effected a savings of about a half million dollars in the last year by having specifications made so that legitimate companies could bid.

"Not one contract for the state is made that doesn't go over my desk," he declared, "and I use no rubber stamps. A square jaw is needed to break the machine on the gravy train that has operated for years. The train is in a marsh and the boys can't get it out."

"Trying to be neutral to all counties of the state is a helluva job," he declared in a laughing tone, "and I use the word so you ladies know you have a man for governor."

He scored the record of his opponent Orland S. Loomis, Progressive, in listing figures of cost to the state which he said were caused by Loomis in the teachers' fund case. Fees paid to lawyer friends of Loomis, who was attorney general and had turned the case over to them, amounted to $9,284, Heil charged.

Striking a humorous note, Heil brought cheers and laughter from the large crowd with the statement that he was "a lucky devil."

"Here it is Nov. 1 and you have alfalfa six inches high and cows still in the pasture," he said laughingly. "Your cows are producing better than they ever did on Nov. 1, and you are getting a better price for your milk and butter. It is because 47 other states today are friendly to Wisconsin because of its present management."

Scores LaFollette

Clausen said that "LaFollette got his position in the senate by inheritance but now after 15 years he must keep it on his record." The Republican candidate for the post scored the New Deal record of the senior senator and his stand on the third term. Clausen said his campaign had two objectives—to replace LaFollette in the senate and to help Willkie.

Johns said that his opponent, Michael Kresky, Progressive, had only one objection to his record and that was regarding pay of employes of his plant at Algoma. Johns said he paid "all the business could afford." He quoted a letter of the president of the American Federation of Labor showing that his labor record was "favorable."

The congressman said he opposed the conscription bill because it meant "11 years instead of 1 year of service." He said that youths would spend one year in training and 10 additional years on the reserve list.

"I favor military training in schools and colleges where the youths are away from the militaristic spirit which has caused the trouble in Europe," he said in promising to send no American boy to fight on foreign soil.

H-E-A-R CONGRESSMAN JOHNS AND THE TRUTH!!

TUNE IN Radio Station WTAQ Green Bay
6:45 to 7:15 P. M.

- TONIGHT -

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 31st

Congressman Johns Will Convince You That He Is the Man For Re-Election

Even Mr. Kresky's friends were shocked to realize that he could sink to the low level of personal attack displayed in his recent speeches!

BUT

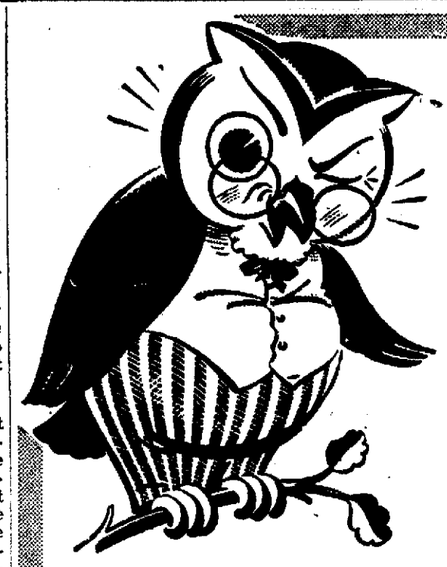

Because Candidate Kresky has seen fit to falsify the record, the friends of Congressman Johns insist that he give the voters of the district the truth to which they are entitled and answer Candidate Kresky's groundless attacks. In his radio address Mr. Johns will show you that:

(1) He has always been a fair employer and obeyed every law of the land.
(2) He has always paid his men a living wage above any requirement of law.
(3) The employees at the Johns' factory and on his farms have endorsed him for re-election.
(4) That Johns' Company in Algoma has earned less than an average of $1800.00 a year for ten years, and yet, in 1939, Mr. Johns voluntarily gave his men a wage increase amounting to $4200.00 per year.
(5) That Governor Heil, in Green Bay, Monday night, October 28, 1940, put his approval on Johns' wage scale and stamped Kresky as a "wolf in sheep's clothing."
(6) Candidate Kresky has consciously violated the Corrupt Practice Act of the State of Wisconsin by stating that $4885.63 had been spent to nominate Johns in the primary, while the public record in Madison shows that only $1018.69 had been spent.

Sufficient Sleep Essential To Every Growing Youngster

Madison — "Without enough sleep a child cannot get the best out of other aids to growth — adequate and proper food, sunlight, fresh air, and exercise," the state medical society declared in a health bulletin today

The most important single thing you can do to help your child to do his day's work efficiently is to set his bedtime—set it and see that the child goes to bed at that time every night Youngsters just starting to school — the 6 year-olds — should get around 12 hours of sleep or at least 11 If you rouse your family at 7 30 in the morning, for example then you should put the 6 year old to bed around 7 30 in the evening so that he will get his full share of sleep.

Sufficient sleep is essential to the 6 year old for several reasons First, up to this period of his life he has most likely had his regular afternoon nap and now he has to conform to school hours and the school program Second he is growing rapidly or should be, and sleep is one of nature's aids to growth Without enough sleep a child cannot get the best out of other aids to growth — adequate and proper food, sunlight, fresh air, and exercise So give your child plenty of sleep and you will be helping him grow taller stronger and heavier — his basic job during this period

Varies With Age

As a child grows older he can get along with less sleep At 9 or 10 years of age 11 hours of sleep are enough at 12 10 hours at 14 9 and a half hours and 9 hours at 16, 8½ hours

Now these rules are not absolutely right in the case of every child They simply make a table of reasonable hours of sleep for most children Some children need more Some seem to need less, but physicians are always a little skeptical about those children who seem to need less sleep

Many children who seem to be able to do without the required hours of sleep for their years more often than not are nervous, irritable youngsters who are more readily disturbed by such things as noise or excitement or worry, and so they are more likely to be roused from sleep by disturbances that would not rouse a more emotionally stable child

An alarm clock should never be necessary to rouse a school child If your child needs an alarm clock, it is an indication of your inability to plan his day right Plan the bedtime hour insist on its being observed and the matter of getting up on time will take care of itself.

Hereditary Officeholders In America

No fair Democrat will deny that Mr. Roosevelt wouldn't be president of the United States today had it not been that a man who bore the same name made a wonderful record in that office 35 years ago.

The fatal error in choosing a name is made evident by a few comparisons from the record, comparisons that can be disputed by no one.

Theodore Roosevelt's four sons put on the American uniform long before the gong of war startled the land with its dull echoes. They entered combat service. They had been brought up to accept responsibility. No American soldier of the four million that wore the uniform in 1918 accepted greater perils or faced higher dangers. The reader is aware of the record of the present president in this regard and that of the members of his family. That record is comparable to the Hohenzollerns during the World war. For the Hohenzollerns wore uniforms and pinned on medals but they never received a scratch. They didn't go where scratches might be had.

When Theodore Roosevelt was president of the United States he made an engagement to speak at Chicago. The Committee on Arrangements announced to the press the names of those who would sit on the platform with the president and it naturally included the name of Senator William Lorimer of Illinois, Republican.

President Theodore Roosevelt then wired the Arrangements Committee that he would consider it a personal affront to him if Senator Lorimer were permitted a seat on that platform. There had been no political or other quarrel between the President and Lorimer. But the President took this means of telling the people of Illinois and the people of the nation that he heartily disapproved of filthy political bosses. Lorimer was the Flynn of that day.

Nowadays when our present president goes to Chicago he is feted and dined and wined by a rottener political machine than Sodom or Gomorrah ever saw.

And there still rings in our ears that recent statement by Tom Dewey—no great criminal racket can operate without the consent of a political monopoly.

We in America better get this idea of nobility and lines of succession and political dynasties out of our minds.

Let us not return to the Europe our sires abandoned and to all the festering sores its aristocracy, its nobility and its royalty, soft-handed and soft-headed, brought the people.

"Then, Venom, to Thy Work"

A young man by the name of Sola went to hear Mr. Willkie speak down in Ohio. He carried missiles to fling. He never tossed any, however. But the police became suspicious of him and when they spoke to him and found him carrying eggs and the like they asked him what it all meant. Then he confessed that his purpose was to fling them at the Republican nominee but "after I saw Willkie and listened to him a while I was sorry I had even thought about it, he seems such a fine and fair man."

Sola was only a youth, not yet of lawful age. But the Ickes and the Nashes and Kellys and Hagues and Flynns and Gufeys, and all the other money changers, corruptioneers and Fellow Travelers had poisoned his mind with fraud and falsity.

Easily could he say in the language of Schiller, "To rankling poison has thou turned in me the milk of human kindness."

Why should we be constantly turning our condemnation upon those purple faced sprayers of poison in the Nazi regime and conceal the same sort of paris green spreaders here at home?

But America has the advantage of trying at least to get the truth to the people and in spite of the fogs of untruth. Sola saw the candidate and with more intelligence than many of his elders he knew that everything told him was false.

Sometimes this great flood of poison loosened at a million taps and spread at the expense of the government foams up and, impregnated with enough oxygen, turns upon and overcomes those responsible for it. The hope in America is that this reaction will set in by election day as effectively as it did in the little ditty:

"While Fell was reposing himself in the hay,
A reptile concealed bit his leg as he lay;
But, all venom himself, of the wound he made light,
And got well, while the scorpion died of the bite."

The Sensation of Being Bombed

The chairman of St. Dunstan's Society which cares for the British soldiers who were blinded in the last great war has written out his sensations during an air raid. They are of more than passing interest because this chairman fought all through the last war and became quite familiar with hissing, screaming, shrieking and exploding noises.

He writes:

"I happened to be awake and was standing outside the shelter having a cigarette. Two or three bombs dropped, but I could hear by the noise they made coming down that they were some distance away. . . . I threw away my cigarette and went into the shelter, sitting on the step with the door open. Then I heard this bomb coming down, and immediately recognized that it was coming near. The whistling, sizzling noise increased terrifically as the bomb drew nearer. I had time to wake my wife up, tell her to put her fingers in her mouth, which is a good way of insuring that the mouth is open to protect the ears, and to shut the door of the shelter.

"If you really hear the bomb as I did from the time it leaves the airplane, it is surprising how long it takes to come down. I think a bomb falls at 150 miles per hour, whereas sound travels at about 700 miles per hour, so that the noise comes well in advance of the missile. One of the St. Dunstan's buildings was between us and the bomb, so that we did not receive the direct blast, but it was sufficient to shake the whole shelter and fill it with dust. Apart from this we had no other experience, except that of anxiety followed by relief. A second or two after the explosion a large quantity of rubble and other debris came down on the shelter."

This particular bomb made a crater 36 feet wide and 15 feet deep and that is quite a hole in any man's country and must have been caused by an explosion, the shock and rip back of which were almost stupefying.

But the English are a very stubborn people. They realize that the explosion itself is the real McCoy and if one is near enough to it his lights go out forever. But they also know that the terrifying whistling, the ripping as of tearing linen, the sizzling and the howling, are caused by the purposeful construction of the bomb to frighten them.

And in such a situation they just wouldn't give the other side the satisfaction of being frightened.

Beyond Greece

Ghosts of the Spartan youths whose inflexible courage made Greece a great country in the dim past will be proud to see resistance offered to Axis aggression.

Fortunately no one pays any attention to the claims from Rome of Greek attacks. When totalitarians move in hostile fashion it is because they have definitely planned to obtain some objective. Then they create an alleged attack as balm for the feelings of their own people who suddenly will become enraged at the abuses inflicted by the enemy without provocation.

The Axis, although hitting Greece, is probably aiming at Yugo-Slavia which has been a burr in its side for long and is powerful from a military standpoint because of its rugged terrain.

But beyond Yugo-Slavia lies Constantinople and the Dardanelles which mercenary European powers have long looked upon with gloating eyes. In an important, though lesser, sense the Dardanelles may be compared to Gibraltar.

Any idea that the wolf pack on a rampage is about to tear and rend itself is without sound foundation. Means will be found to grease the Russian palm. There is something for everyone when other nations are torn apart. And even though the share be not always satisfactory something is better than nothing in the eyes of Marxian socialists in full power.

What Might Have Been

Always along the painful road the people travel after a war is concluded they conjure up the things that might have been had the wealth destroyed in war, and coined from past or future toil, been employed for generous purposes among deserving but unfortunate people.

We have literally blown in about 25 billions in the last decade, and it looks as though we are about to blow in another 50 billions, or even 100 or more, if we go to war.

But it is not too fantastic to let our minds play with what could have been done with the 25 billions, so much of which has sifted away through ratholes, if our course had been directed by calm and practical thinkers. We still have a third of the nation or more "ill housed." The 25 billions would have purchased a $5,000 home for five million families and we could have erased the term "ill housed" from our vocabulary.

The country cannot be blamed for spending upon armament what appears in view of world conditions, should be spent for an effective defense against all comers. But those 25 billions—it was a shame to waste them and to find at the conclusion of the spree that practically the same people are ill-housed today that were ill-housed when the big economic carouse was started.

The Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Madison, Wis—For more than thirty years there has been a LaFollette in the senate, but this year the famous crusading dynasty is in real danger of being unseated.

"Young Bob" LaFollette, able, courageous, conscientious son of the late great Progressive, is fighting for his political life. In the past two weeks, Bob's prospects appear to have improved, but the final outcome of the close struggle is still doubtful.

Bob's opponent is Fred H. Clausen, wealthy farm-implement merchant, and regular Republican, who long has been a LaFollette foe. Clausen, however, is not the real source of Bob's difficulties, although he is their beneficiary.

Bob's difficulties stem from various factors unrelated to Clausen. Chief of them are:

(1) Deep-seated antipathy toward LaFollette's glib, ambitious, younger brother Phil, twice governor of Wisconsin; and

(2) A strong undercurrent of hostility toward Bob, because of his extreme isolationist stand, among the large Scandinavian population which has been the backbone of the Progressive movement in the state.

Phil LaFollette was defeated in 1938 by a wave of resentment against him, personally, and against the peculiar National Progressive party which he launched that spring with suspiciously fascist trappings and ideological rhetoric. Phil denied that his movement had any fascist aims, but veteran LaFollette leaders refused to have anything to do with it just the same. William T. Evjue, two-fisted editor of The Madison Capital Times, official daily of the LaFollette organization, openly assailed Phil and the NPP.

This widespread feeling against Phil still is prevalent, and, curiously, is being taken out on Bob. Definitely abetting this is the known fact that Bob is swayed politically by his flashy younger brother.

Privately, Bob did not approve of the National Progressive party plan. But when Phil insisted on going through with it, Bob did not demur.

Bob may yet skin through the election on November 5, but if he does he'll know he has been through the toughest fight of his fifteen-year senatorial career.

COUGHLIN AND MICHIGAN

Detroit—A once shrill and widely feared voice is silent in the hot campaign melee churning up the hustings of Michigan. Father Charles Coughlin, whose radio bombardment and presidential ticket in 1936 had politicos literally talking to themselves, now is both off the air and, politically, as flat as a pancake.

The politicos don't give Coughlin a thought and neither does the electorate of this great motor state. This was strikingly demonstrated in the Michigan primary, when two of his most intimate henchmen, squat, wordy Louis Ward, editor of Social Justice, and wispy George Herman Derry, Coughlin's braintruster were thumpingly licked for congressional nominations.

Four years ago, Ward came within an ace of winning the Democratic senatorial nomination. When he tried again this year, Democratic leaders were worried. But their fears were groundless. He ran a poor third against two little known opponents.

Derry tried for the House on the Republican ticket, but did no better than Ward. He ran a poor third.

Note—Coughlin is in strong disfavor among the Catholic clergy in this diocese. Archbishop Mooney is credited with keeping a firm restraining hand on him.

DOUBTFUL INDIANA

Indianapolis—In one particular the Democratic campaign in Indiana differs from that of any other state in the Middle West.

Here the Democrats have a real go-getting state organization. It is on its toes. And it is fighting militantly for the national and state ticket against concededly tough odds.

Credit for this belongs largely to Chairman Fred Bays, one of the most colorful figures in American politics. Handsome, dapper and dynamic, Bays is a former showman and circus owner, who applies to the political arena all the hoopla and zing necessary to his former profession.

Bays' basic belief is that the way to win votes is to entertain folks. He tours the hustings with a troupe of circus and vaudeville performers whom he carefully rehearses daily. He also writes the script for the half-hour barn dance which he stages and broadcasts with a cast of sixty-five. Tickets, given away free, are at a premium.

Bays' shows go off like clock-work. Several hours before a performance, the ornately painted truck of the state committee pulls up, a crew of decorators with bunting, pictures and sound equipment takes charge of the hall, and the actors go through a rehearsal. On the dot of schedule the show opens. Bays makes a brief political talk and the performance begins, closing with a boy soprano singing "God Bless America." This wows them.

Bays' drive and talents so impressed Henry Wallace, when he campaigned in Indiana, that he tried to get the ex-circus man to manage his own campaign. In fact, Bays has attracted the attention of Roosevelt and other leading Democrats who are not averse to naming him as successor to National Chairman Ed Flynn if and when Ed steps out after the election.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

Washington—It will surprise no one if some of the Latin-American military men now touring the U. S. as guests of the army will participate in the occupation of Martinique under joint Pan-American auspices. Roosevelt is anxious to make the taking over of French possessions a truly good-neighbor enterprise. . . . It looks as if Democratic boss Hague of Jersey City were going to give the run-around for Senator Cromwell in his senatorial race by passing the word down for Senator Barbour, Republican. . . . If Jimmy loses, his wife, Doris Duke, tobacco millionairess, probably will go through with the rumored marital break. . . . Bess Farley, wife of the ex-Postmaster General is wearing a Willkie button, but her husband has really been rolling up his shirt-sleeves and working for F.D.R. Jim has been working at his desk until 2:30 a.m. As head of the New York State Democratic organization, he can't afford to see a break in approximately twenty years of Democratic rule. . . . Mrs. Joe Davies, aunt of Barbara Hutton, came through with $5000 for Roosevelt the other day, while her husband, ex-Ambassador to Belgium, has promised to raise $50,000. . . . At least some business men are warming up to F.D.R. a bit since the John L. Lewis broadcast, among them Marshall Field, Gerard Swope of General Electric, Walter Teagle of Standard Oil, and Henry Harriman, former president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce. . . . The Democrats sent a friendly judge to southern Illinois to make sure the coal miners stayed with Roosevelt, but it looks as if the judicial advice was spurned.

A Bystander In Washington

BY JACK STINNETT

Washington—Finley Peter Dunne's Mr. Dooley was speaking over his bar to Hennessey. "Soon," said Mr. Dooley, "the election will be over and after that Dooley goes back to his beer pumps and Hennessey goes back to his slag pile and the old flag'll continue to wave over us all."

Stinnett

Mr. Dunne apparently knew his history as well as he knew his Irish Americans. There have been 37 national elections. With the exception of the first none has been unanimous. Invariably election campaigns have been marked with bitterness. Some have been muddy. Some even have been bloody. Ripe eggs and overripe vegetables have been thrown—many times.

But only twice in the history of the United States have election battles resulted in post-election hangovers and from one of these the sick nation emerged healthier and happier than it had been for decades.

Every four years Johnny Q. Democrat and Richard R. Republican strip to the waist and go at it tooth and nail with no holds barred. Socking below the belt is common. Every four years—except in two instances—they've dragged their aching bodies out of bed the morning after election to get back to the united task of seeing that America carries on.

One of those two instances, of course, was the Civil war when the boys got mixed up in the slavery question and had to call on Joe Public to go out on the field of battle and settle the fight once and for all.

1876 Was Acid Test

The other was the exception that proves the rule: the great Hayes-Tilden dispute in 1876. Then a presidential election hung in doubt nearly four months while charges and counter-charges blistered the walls of Congress, the paving stones of the cities and the fields of the farms. By a carpet-bag count in Louisiana, Florida and South Carolina, Rutherford B. Hayes had stolen the election, the Democrats screamed. By threat and intimidation of the Negro voters in those same states, Samuel J. Tilden had stolen the election, shouted the Republicans. With a Democratic House of Representatives and a Republican Senate, the deadlock remained unbroken until almost the day of inauguration. The threat of civil war appeared again.

Then as quickly as the clouds gathered, they were dispelled. Hayes, who on the face of things had only 184 electoral votes to Tilden's 185, and about 300,000 fewer popular votes, was declared elected president of the United States. Within a few weeks the troops were withdrawn from the three states in question and their state governments given back to the Democrats. Following one of their bitterest battles in history, the boys had met the acid test. Joe Public's will be done.

20th Century Scraps

There had been bitter election fights before. The rise and reign of Thomas Jefferson—of Andrew Jackson, at the beginning of whose second administration a famous tariff compromise scotched secession of South Carolina—of Abraham Lincoln, who went into office with a million fewer popular votes than the total cast for his opponents.

There have been campaign wars since the time when mud flew freely and bruises marred the body politic. Within our own time there was the three-way Roosevelt-Wilson-Taft battle of 1912—the sometimes almost vicious Hoover-Smith contest of 1928.

Sitting on sidelines here in Washington, the impartial political graybeards several times have wagged their heads and dubbed the 1940 campaign one of the tougher scraps. Through this focal point passes all the charges, flows all the mud and smear of every presidential campaign.

And if you stay away from the boys in the thick of the fray and ask the graybeards, they'll tell you Mr. Dooley was right. If you don't believe it, they say, just look in the history books.

Just a Step Behind the News

By Dave Boone

That's quite a spectacle going on in New Jersey, with boss Frank Hague loudly shouting his defiance of a subcommittee of the United States senate campaign expenditures committee, threatening senators and calling the investigation into corrupt politics, "a 10-cent picayune investigation." But Frank gets pretty hot when anybody hints that he would ever stand for the slightest dishonesty in elections.

Frank says he doesn't know of any cases of election frauds in Hudson county, and that if there are any there or in any other parts of New Jersey, the Republicans are to blame. The poor Republicans. They are getting blamed for everything bad that's happened under the Democrats.

"I am giving the people conscientious, clean and moral government," Mr. Hague shouted at the senators, without cracking a smile. There hasn't been any show with so many laughs in it in Newark in years.

I see there were six numbers missing when they got all through drawing for the draft, so they had a "junior drawing" of the lost capsules. This is one time Washington is determined to add correctly, and not just laugh off any mathematical errors.

I wish this political campaign was over. My radio set is beginning to unravel at the seams under the strain.

Two Questions Beyond the Greek Front

Under the Capitol Dome

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison—Because for the first time in many years Wisconsin will be without a state militia on call during the next 12 months, executive office and military authorities of the state government are studying the possibilities available under new federal legislation recently enacted providing for the establishment of temporary home guards to fill the places of the mobilized regular militiamen.

Wyngaard

As far as Wisconsin is concerned, however, that federal legislation was not vitally necessary, for the Wisconsin statutes already give Governor Heil authority to organize special military units to replace the absent national guardsmen. The section of the law is embodied in the chapter of the statutes covering the organization and duties of the regular Wisconsin national guard.

Just what the state government expects to do in the situation is not yet apparent, although applications for service and queries continue to pour into the adjutant general's department at the capitol. Adj. Gen. Ralph M. Immell is telling all inquirers that he is waiting for word from the war department in Washington before making specific plans.

JUDGE FOWLER

The impression is growing that Justice Chester D. Fowler of the Wisconsin supreme court will be a candidate for reelection next spring.

Although nothing resembling an official statement has yet come from his office, some of his friends have been given hints that he does not intend to retire. They have been told, by the veteran jurist, about his good health and vigor, and have drawn their own conclusions.

OLEO AGAIN

Evidence that the Progressives' concentrated attack on Heil for his alleged friendship toward the people who would repeal the oleo tax is nettling Republicans can be found in the manner they are fighting back.

It remained for Maurice Coakley, astute private secretary to the governor, however, to seize upon the most obvious and one of the most effective rebuttal arguments in the contest with the Progressives to determine who is the best friend of the farmer by most vigorously defending the oleo tax levy.

Coakley simply pointed out that one of the principal movers against the tax in the last legislative session was a Progressive assembly leader, Henry Berquist of Rhinelander, who presented many of the arguments of paper manufacturers who claimed that they are losing business in southern states because of a boycott inspired by resentment against the Wisconsin tax on the southern product. Berquist asked for a popular referendum on the tax which would guide the legislature. He was turned down.

NO MENTION

It may be that Julius Heil is unconsciously emulating one of the habits followed by the elder LaFollette throughout his long political career—that of never giving an opponent free publicity.

Heil has scarcely mentioned Orland S. Loomis by name thus far in the campaign, and Loomis has noticed it and wondered. As far as this column knows, Heil's first public mention of Loomis came about here this week when he attacked him and other Progressive orators for going about the state "telling lies about the old man".

The elder LaFollette figured that to attack a rival by name was giving him gratuitous publicity, and put him in the public eye. It is an established axiom of politics that the man who is best known is the best vote-getter, all other factors being equal. Perhaps Heil senses that too.

Personal Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
Noted Physician and Author

AIN'T IT THE TRUTH?

Chairman of Dental Health Committee of a Dental Society writes: You said that one who ventures to limit his practice to preventive medicine should have a private income to live on for the first forty years or so. I am a dentist and experience has taught me that one who practices prevetive dentistry should have some such means of support or he will practically starve. It seems to me the public is more willing to pay for preventive medicine than to pay for preventive dentistry. Some laymen are willing to pay a minimum fee for having their teeth cleaned, scaled, polished and examined for cavities or other beginning trouble; they are not willing to pay for instruction as to how to keep their teeth and mouths clean. . .

Darn it, for the first paragraph or so I thought the Chairman and I were going to harmonize very well—an experience I could enjoy for once—but right here I drop out and leave the dentist to sing solo for a while. . . .

Correct foods and mouth cleanliness are the foundations for dental health. Yet a dentist gets little thanks and less pay for whatever work he tries to do along that line. Relieve a patient's pain, give him a filling, inlay, bridge or plate he can see and he pays for the work and praises the dentist for his skill.

Diseased teeth and associated mouth unhealth is at least 50 per cent preventable, but a dentist can't make a living practicing prevention. (C. B. F., D. D. S.)

Correct diet and the use of the teeth for chewing natural food constitute the foundation for dental health, in the opinion of Ol' Doc Brady. I think correct diet and mastication will keep the teeth and mouth as clean as they should be and that artificial cleaning by beans of dentrifrice and brush, floss and so on is a matter of individual taste and has nothing to do with the conservation of the teeth.

From what I have observed of the reluctance of laymen to pay for preventive medicine I believe Dr. F. is right about the shortsightedness of the public in regard to preventing the loss of teeth.

To combat that attitude I wrote the booklet "Save Your Teeth," which I am glad to send on request to any dentist who asks for it on his professional stationery or encloses his professional card and a 1-cent stamped envelope bearing his address, or to any layman who incloses twenty-five cents and a 1-cent stamped envelope bearing his address.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Save Your Teeth

When I wrote you some months ago, if you remember, I took exception to your attitude toward the dental profession and to your teachings. I received the booklet "Save Your Teeth" which you kindly sent me. Now I want to apologize . . . . . I believe you are accomplishing a good deal with this booklet toward educating the public in the conservation of the teeth. More power to you. (. . D. D. S.)

Answer—Thank you, Doctor, I am happy to send a copy of the booklet with my compliments to any member of the dental profession who asks for it on his professional stationery or card and encloses a 1-cent stamped envelope bearing his address. Others who want the booklet enclose twenty-five cents coin and stamped addressed envelope.

Gray Hair

Has the Iodin Ration been known to restore natural color to hair that has turned gray, in some cases? I am 36 and my hair is beginning to turn gray, without apparent cause. (D. H.)

Answer—All I know is what I read in my letters. Many correspondents have assured me that their graying hair regains some of its original color when they take the Iodin Ration for a considerable time. Then, an entity or factor in the vitamin B complex (called anti-gray hair factor in the experimental laboratory) may prevent hair from turning gray or even restore natural color. Send stamped envelope bearing your address, and ask for Instructions for Taking an Iodin Ration and information concerning vitamin B complex.

Reduce Gently

I am thirty pounds overweight and would like to reduce to normal before Christmas if I can. (H. M.)

Answer—Take it easy. Reduction at the rate of not more than a pound a week is best in the long run. Send a stamped envelope bearing your address, enclose twenty-five cents for booklet "Rules for Reducing."

Why Have Headache?

I have been a sufferer with sick headaches for many years. I have attacks nearly every week.

(Mrs. R. A.)

Answer—Send a stamped envelope bearing your address and ask for monograph "Why Have Headache?"

Looking Backward

25 YEARS AGO

Thursday, Nov. 4, 1915

After months of demonstrations and weeks of negotiations, the Killen-Strait Manufacturing company had received an order for a large number of Strait gasoline tractors to be sent to Europe for use on the battlefields. Shipments of from 30 to 35 tractors a week were to begin immediately. The capacity of the local plant was one tractor a day but arrangements had been made with other concerns in the United States to build additional tractors.

Greek entrance into the war was regarded as almost certain to follow the overthrow of the Zaimis cabinet. Greece was in a position to put 400,000 excellently equipped troops into the field. That Greek entrance into the war would mean an immediate change of utmost importance in the Balkan situation and render the Teutonic position there extremely precarious was the general opinion.

10 YEARS AGO

Thursday, Oct. 30, 1930

After changing its name from the Wisconsin Teachers association to the Wisconsin Education association, the group elected Miss Blanche McCarthy, history teacher at Appleton High school, as its first president at a meeting of the representative assembly of the association Wednesday evening.

A concentration of police forces to prevent property damage Halloween night was being planned by Police Chief George T. Prim.

The Community Artist series in Appleton was to open that night with the appearance of Heinrich Schlusnus, leading baritone of the Berlin State opera, at Lawrence Memorial chapel.

Beauty and You

APPROPRIATE PERFUME—Excitement shines in the eyes of this young beauty as she scents herself with a lovely new fragrance brewed especially for the young to wear to gala first parties!

Show me the woman who is not thrilled with a perfume perfectly suited to her taste and beauty and I will tell you whether she is ill or defeated? For every normal woman adores a lovely fragrance either in a sachet, cologne or perfume. And women for ages past have adored women who adored lovely fragrances!

Perfume, an exquisite, lasting brew, does two things for a woman. It makes her pleased with herself and it greatly adds to her attraction. Even the youngest of children are attracted by a sweet scent and long remember grandma "who always smelled so nice"—perhaps of lavender, verbena or carnation!

There are numerous brews on the perfume counter so many in fact they are bewildering to a woman who has no definite choice in mind when she shops for one "to do something for her."

Good old brews, like good old wines, are expensive and cherished. Make no mistake about that. Newer perfumes make their bow constantly but many of them cannot measure up to the old favorites. Therefore if you are confused about a choice, ask your salesgirl to show you five of the most popular, expensive perfumes. Sniff each and choose the one which pleases you the most. As you are testing your reaction to it buy the smallest quantity you can. Wear it, decide whether you like it and make note if friends say "How lovely, what perfume are you wearing?"

Lighter Mixtures for Young

Parfumers have recently been considering the very young females and have introduced several delightful fragrances appropriate for their tender years and fresh beauty. The more potent, heady mixtures, are not for young girls, but there are at least fifty lighter essences from which they may choose.

And a word about how perfume should be worn. It is not sufficient to put a drop behind one ear and expect to radiate an exquisite aroma for hours. No indeed. Perfume must be used generously if you wish it to hang about your person for some time. Too much has been said about "over-perfuming." After all it is difficult to get too much of an exquisite fragrance. If a fragrance is cheap or repulsive then little of it can be too much!

It is rather nice to be consistent about your fragrance radiation. Use one lovely scent on your afternoon clothes and your evening clothes Use another outdoor perfume for your tailored and sport clothes. If you have the space keep your dressier things in one closet and your sporty things in another—then the fragrances will not fuse

Spray around the hems of your dresses, your handkerchiefs, inside your handbags, in your glove drawer or box. Then spray perfume on your person after your grooming is complete. In back of your ears, on your wrists, in your hair. Thus every movement you make will "swish" a bit of lovely You into the air!

Have you my Perfume List for Moods and Personalities? You may have it if you write for it care of this paper and enclose a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope.

WHO "THEY" ARE

I don't know who "they" are—sometimes I have been told "they" are me! This is in answer to the mother of a bride-to-be who asks me to explain who is meant by this nebulous "they." "In my daughter's vocabulary," she writes, "it is always 'they' who don't do that any more, and 'they' who are doing it this way now." Her letter goes on to ask why "they" are not marking linen with the bride's own initials any more, but using her married initials? So to this, I can answer that I am in this particular instance at least one of those who have encouraged future initial marking, because otherwise all through life the Smith family are always using towels and napkins and sleeping between sheets and on pillowcases, all marked with a big J for Jones, which looks as though they had got them at auction. As a matter of fact, marking them with her present or her future initial is considered equally correct. And answering seriously on the "they" subject—"they" means consensus of well informed opinion.

Mr. and Mrs.

Dear Mrs. Post: When do a wife and husband call each other Mr. and Mrs. before other people? In the days before yesterday, wasn't it the practice in the best circles for them to call each other Mr. and Mrs.—even when addressing each other?

Answer: It was an American provincialism, much ridiculed by Charles Dickens in his "American Notes." Further back than that, the characters in Jane Austen's novels called each other Mr. and Mrs. But I myself have never heard anything of the sort, and have no idea where the custom began—or ended!

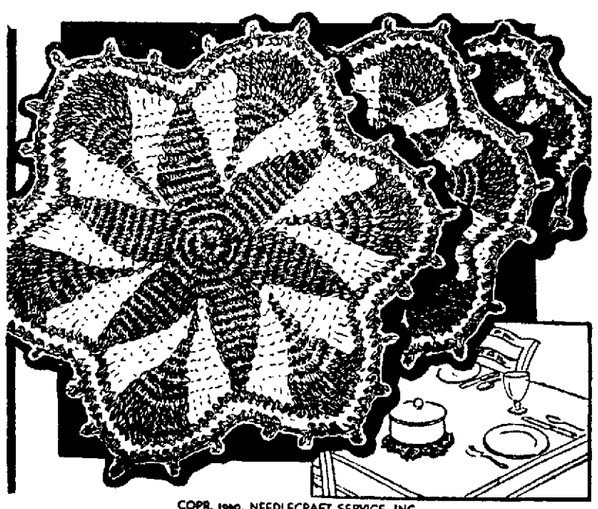

Mrs. Mary——"

Dear Mrs. Post: When the bride-to-be's father has been dead many years, and her mother has, during her widowhood, become well known as Mrs. Mary Blank in civic and philanthropic work in the city, so that no one any longer knows her as Mrs. John Blank, does the notice sent to the newspapers about the daughter's engagement have to say that she is the daughter of Mrs. John Blank, instead of Mrs. Mary Blank? Doesn't this situation alter the ruling of taste?

Answer: It might alter the situation of convenience, but it does not alter the rule of taste.

Mrs. Post is sorry she can no longer answer personal letters. She is glad however to have many printed slips on a variety of subjects to offer to her readers. Today's slip is "Names and Signatures." Be sure to send a three-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Mrs. Post, in care of this paper, P. O. Box 150, Times Square Station, New York, N. Y.

Bid Made if East Plays Low Heart

BY ELY CULBERTSON

LAST THURSDAY'S QUESTION

Question 28: You are West, declarer at a four spade contract, the bidding having gone:

North	East	South	West
3 hearts	Pass	Pass	4 spades
Pass	Pass

Your hand and dummy are as follows:

West [declarer]	Dummy
♠ A K Q J 10 8	♠ 9 5 2
♥ 7 3	♥ K 5 4 2
♦ A Q	♦ 7 4 3
♣ Q J 9	♣ K 10 2

North leads the heart ace, all follow. North then leads the heart queen. What card do you play from dummy, and why?

Answer: A low heart. To play dummy's kind is virtually to beg South to ruff it. (North must have had six hearts for his three bid) Then, if the diamond king is off side, you will still lose a diamond and a club, and your contract. By failing to put up the heart king, you preserve it for a future discard of your diamond queen. Naturally, if North leads a third round of hearts, you duck again in dummy and ruff in your own hand. (25 points demerit for playing heart king before trumps are drawn.)

Today's Question

Question 33: Rubber bridge. You are West, declarer at a three no-trump contract. (The opponents made no bid). Your hand and dummy are as follows:

West [declarer]	East [dummy]
♠ A 6 5 2	♠ 8 7 3
♥ A Q 5	♥ 6 2
♦ Q J 8	♦ K 10 7 4 2
♣ K Q 7	♣ A 9 8

North leads the spade four, South plays the queen. Do you play your ace, or hold it up?

Today's Hand

South, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

♦ K 10 5
♣ J 10 8 6

SOUTH
♠ A K 10 7 2
♦ J 4 2
♣ A 7 5 3

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1 spade	Pass	3 spades	Pass
4 spades	Pass	Pass	Pass

West opened the three of diamonds, dummy played low and East's king won. East's diamond return was won by dummy's queen and a low spade was led to the ace. When East failed to follow suit, declarer saw that his contract was in danger, with the loss of one trick in every suit appearing probable. Nevertheless, he did not give up. He merely looked around for "possibilities." West's opening lead and his play to the second diamond trick had strongly indicated an original holding of four diamonds. With that one likelihood to go on, declarer now led the nine of hearts, which was taken by East's king. A third round of diamonds went to the ace and dummy's remaining heart was now ruffed in the closed hand. Next, the king of trumps was cashed, followed by the ace and king of clubs. Having set the stage as well as he could under the circumstances, declarer now led a third round of trumps. West, on lead with the high trump, had no club to exist with, hence had to return a red card which permitted the discard of dummy's losing club while declarer ruffed. Thus, despite the bad trump break, declarer lost only three tricks and brought home his contract.

Case Records of a Psychologist

By Dr. George W. Crane

Psychologist, Northwestern University

The influence of our environment, including the new hormones and vitamins, is causing us to stand in less awe of heredity, especially as regards insanity, epilepsy and such mental disorders. Sarah has asked a common question which I encounter from many wives who want to have babies but are afraid. What is your personal view about the inheritance of epilepsy and insanity? What would you feel inclined to do if you faced Sarah's dilemma?

CASE S-116: Sarah T., aged 26, has been married for three years.

"Before I was married, I knew that an aunt of my husband was born an epileptic," she began.

"At that time I gave it no thought, but now that I am considering having some children of my own, I am quite concerned.

"I also have a great aunt who is in an institution for the insane. Because I have heard that these are hereditary afflictions, must I be deprived of having children, Dr Crane?"

DIAGNOSIS:

Until comparatively recently, any illness of the mind was regarded with awe and abhorrence.

The general public drew a sharp and distinct line between ailments of a physical sort and those involving the intelligence.

If your family ancestry was marked with appendicitis or peptic ulcer, it caused no worry regarding your children. Diabetes and heart disease likewise were not investigated prior to marriage, nor was high blood pressure or deafness.

Yet all of those diseases seem to run in families and thus have a tendency to be visited from parent to child.

If you suffered a nervous breakdown, however, or had spent a few weeks in a mental hospital, then the neighbors whispered about you, and people wondered if your children might not be unhappily marked with similar disorders.

Science Versus Superstition

Nowadays we are beginning to turn the coldly analytical spotlight of modern science upon these mental ailments.

Epilepsy comes under this category. It is currently looked upon as allergy in which the brain or nervous tissue seems sensitive, possibly to some protein factor, as in food or bacterial poisons.

It is regarded as a first cousin to eczema, hay fever, asthma and migraine, which are considered to be the other allerfies. Sometimes, however, there may be a specific cause of the epilepsy in the form of a depressed skull fragment, following a fracture.

Occasionally, too, impacted teeth seem to upset the nervous stability of the patient and throw him into his convulsions.

Late investigations are throwing doubt upon the specific hereditary nature of epilepsy. It seems true that allergic parents may have children with allergy, too, but an epileptic parent might have a hay fever child, and vice versa.

Facts About Insanity

Many cases of insanity are traceable directly to organic and germ factors. Syphilis, for example, is one of the big causes of insanity. Here the syphilis spirochete attacks the brain tissue.

The excessive use of alcohol is a chemical poison which likewise can produce insanity. Certain other chemicals and even hardening of the arteries can eliminate functional units of the brain with a resulting mental derangement.

Obviously germ and chemical causes of insanity are definitely not hereditary, so parents need not worry about the transmission of this type of insanity. We are even growing dubious about the specific inheritance of any type of insanity.

My advice to Sarah is to go ahead and have her babies. Neither the parents nor grandparents of herself or her husband have such defects, so her children should be the fourth generation of clear stock.

Dr. Crane will give personal attention to questions on Psychological problems. Write him, in care of the Appleton Post-Crescent, enclosing a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope and a dime to cover printing and typing costs Letters and readers's names are never published.

Moody Child Made Happy When Given Creative Work

BY ANGELO PATRI

Helen is sixteen, pretty, anxious to be liked and not quite sure of how to go about it. She goes to high school and gets good marks, not the highest, but high enough to pass without causing the teacher any anxiety. The daily routine of school—lessons, home for lunch, back to school, home for no special purpose, study an hour or so of no special interest, bed, and the routine over again—palls upon the girl and she grows moody.

"What's the matter with that girl?" asks father.

"I really can't make her out," says mother. "She has everything a girl her age needs—a good home and good clothes; she is pretty, and she does well enough in school. But I don't know. Somehow she just isn't happy. Doesn't seem to be going anywhere with it all."

"Huh. If she rolled up her sleeves and set to work and washed the dishes she'd not have so much time on her hands. Make her do something."

Creative Work Essential

That's an old style recipe for moody adolescents and it has its good side. At least it did at one time. Dishes are soon washed these days, and they're not enough to fill any girl's life. Washing the dishes, to be of any use to the dishwater, must imply having had something to do with the job that made them ready for washing—hence, preparing the meal. This creative effort is what is denied many young people and they don't get spiritual satisfaction out of clearing away the signs of other folks' creative work.

What the moody adolescent boy or girl needs is the chance to do creative work and the usual school and home routine does not offer it. It is this lack in the lives of our young people that is forcing them into the ranks of do-nothings, movie fans, idlers and hangers-on. It is this lack that creates moody, brooding, miserable young people for whom the world seems to have no use.

Routine Becomes Monotonous

If there is an adolescent child in your circle check up on his day to discover what opportunities he has had during the day for creative work, for a job, a bit of service or a lesson that involved initiative, self-direction, responsibility and the feeling of personal achievement. You will discover if the situation is at all usual, that this young person, so alive and so eager to do and to be, has been obliged to follow an ordered routine all day long with no chance whatever to discover a way for himself, or to carry out an idea of his own. When you remember that all mental and spiritual growth must depend upon activity, self-direction, responsibility for one's personal actions, you can begin to see why we have so many discouraged, helpless, useless adolescents.

A boy or girl is willing to clear up after a job he does under his own power because his spirit has been fed through self-directed personally initiated work. That child, so cheerful when at work of his own, becomes a moody, protesting, soured child when made to clean up after work with which he had had no association, in which he has had no partnership.

The idea is this: Don't order a child to wash the dishes, in any field of activity, until you have granted him a share in the creative side of the job. Do that and you have a healthier, happier, far more useful person to deal with. Usefulness is a cure for moods, but it must be real and creative to be effective.

Needn't Wreck Marriage To Take Care of Elders

BY DOROTHY DIX

Dear Miss Dix—My father died very suddenly two days after my marriage and in order to give my mother a chance to get rehabilitated we invited her to stay with us until she got over the first shock. She owns a very comfortable small home and it was our thought that she would go back to it and we would help her financially to maintain it, but she has made no attempt to go home. Her presence in our home has caused unhappiness, due mostly to the fact that she never gives us any privacy, and when I saw that her being with us was beginning to break up my marriage I made arrangements to have her board with a very nice family living nearby where she would have a beautiful, large comfortably furnished room and would be treated as a member of the family. This I thought would give her the companionship she sought and which she did not receive in my home because both my husband and myself are in business. Because of the fact that I insisted on my husband and myself living by ourselves and because I have made arrangements for my mother to board out, I have been condemned by practically all but one or two friends. I have been accused of being cold and heartless. Have I been wrong? Must I sacrifice my happiness so that my mother may have hers? As long as I provide for her so that she has everything for her comfort, am I expected to do anything more when it will wreck my marriage to a man I love very dearly? My mother was never content even when she was with me. She has been spoiled all her life. My father was a slave to her. Must I continue on? F.J.D.

Dorothy Dix

Answer:

I say "no." When you have provided for your mother's physical comfort and well being, and especially when you have established her in a home so close to you that you can see her several times a day, you have done your full duty to her, and you are certainly not called upon to add to it the costly sacrifice of the wreck of your marriage.

Duty of Children

This problem of what is the duty of children toward mothers who are breaking up their homes is one that we have regarded heretofore solely from the sentimental point of view. And in it we have given mother the count.

We have sung songs about mother's devotion, and mother's sacrifices for her children, and we have pictured Mother as coming into her children's houses to bless them and the little grandbabes about her knees, and we have berated the sons and daughters who did not welcome mother at their firesides.

But we have said very little about mother being a trouble maker, and we have ignored the fact that in tens of thousands of cases husbands and wives see that mother is the rock on which their homes are going to pieces, and that they have to decide between their husband and wives and mother.

In such a contingency we have good Biblical authority for husbands and wives cleaving to their mates and forsaking all others, and reason backs up this verdict. It does not make sense for the happiness and the well being of a young man and woman and little children to be sacrificed to the whims of an old woman.

Not Ungrateful

We hear a lot about ungrateful children and selfish children, but much is to be said about ungrateful and selfish old women who insist upon living with their children when they know that their in-laws loathe them; and who deny their children all privacy because they do not like to spend a moment alone.

Why shouldn't a mother consider her children as much as she expects them to consider her, and after they have provided her with all the comforts of life and made it possible for her to be near them? Why shouldn't she feel that she is in honor obligated to accept the arrangement gratefully and show appreciation of their affection, instead of complaining because she has had to give up her plan for theirs? All children should feel that it is their sacred obligation to their mothers to take care of them to the best of their ability, but it is a fantastic stretch of duty to consider that they have to martyrize themselves for their mothers.

Divorced Husband

Dear Miss Dix—I am happily married to a wonderful man and have had two years of wedded bliss, but this problem has come up: I have two children, 12 and 8 years old, by a former marriage and my husband is generous and good to them. Once every week their father is allowed to visit them and pay me their support money. Now my husband's business takes him away for five weeks at a time and it irks him to have me entertain my former husband while he is gone. Also, if he happens to be at home when the boy's father comes, he is much displeased if their father corrects the children in any way. I can understand my husband's point of view about disliking having him here when he is away, but the father is in his rights to come to see the children. What shall I do?

ANXIOUS.

Answer:

Divorce is always a pretty complicated business, isn't it? Especially when there are children. But it seems to me that you can settle your problem easily enough. Have your former husband telephone when he is coming to see the children and you get off the premises. Probably he would like to have the children to himself for a little while without either you or your present husband being around.

Child Marriage

Dear Miss Dix—A girl got married to a college student when she was 18 and her mother had the marriage annulled, or at least the girl thought so. The couple went their separate ways and the girl married another young man whom she divorced. Now the girl is very much in love with her first husband and wants him to come back and live with her, but he has fallen in love with another girl and is contemplating marrying her, but finds that the supposed school girl and boy marriage hasn't been annulled and that he is still married in the eyes of the law. Inasmuch as the girl has been married to another man and in turn divorced he feels that he has grounds for divorce The question is: Does he? And does the second husband have grounds for a divorce? JOSEPHINE

Answer:

Maybe they know the answer in Reno—but I don't.

Memory of the Moon

By Jeanne Bowman

YESTERDAY: Torn by doubt and conflicting loyalties, Constance hesitates to tell Pedro about her agreement with John. Unexpectedly the Cabrillos arrive, and John takes Constance in his arms in front of Pedro's contemptuous eyes.

Chapter 24

Avalanche

"—All right, take her mount on," ordered John, and flipped a coin at Pedro, whom he had scarcely seen.

"Gracias, senor," said Pedro who pocketed the half dollar and rode off.

"John," groaned Constance, "that was young Taylor"

"What?" John looked after the departing figure. "It was? Oh, well, I'll explain to him later," and he chuckled. "Good sport, he took it like a gentleman; or have the Taylors taking ways with more than money?"

"Must you jump at conclusions?" asked Constance. "But come in Where are the others? How did you happen to come west?"

She plied him with questions while her heart sank lower and lower. For Pedro to have seen John's greeting after their own scene on the mountain. How could she explain? Fatherly friends do not embrace their charges as John had embraced her, nor call them darling?

John had never embraced her in that fashion before

She couldn't explain. Pedro would laugh at her. Pedro wouldn't believe her and she wouldn't blame him.

"Chee-ta!"

Constance gasped. Donna, who hadn't bothered to bid her farewell, was running to her with wide open arms. "Oh, you're exquisite. You look so . . . so dude ranchy. Darling, who was that simply perfect specimen you rode in with? Don't tell me he was a mere cowhand, because my heart wouldn't stand it. He's real, isn't he? I mean . . . well you know?"

"I know," affirmed Constance dryly, "the perfect specimen is Peter Taylor, junior, the ranch manager's son, and to save your aristocratic nose from touching midheaven, he is a college graduate and his father has more money than the Cabrillos. Now, is there anything else you'd like to know about him?"

"Who's his current heart interest?"

Constance thought she had never seen her sister look as piquantly beautiful. She was so perfectly groomed, so vivacious, black eyes sparkling, black hair so sculptured to her pretty head.

"I wouldn't know." Constance evaded. "We discuss dairy herds."

"I'd like to believe that," offered John.

"You can," laughed Donna "For I warn you, from now on Peter Taylor and I shall be exhausting the more important subjects."

El Cabrillo buzzed, it hummed, it bubbled. The Cabrillos were home. Constance, enroute to her mother's quarters, fell over servants at every foot of the way. She gave thanks that the Pedersons had moved to their own house; there wouldn't be room for children here.

"Hi' sis," shouted Don from the patio.

"Hello, Don." Timidly Constance made her way towards him. Eagerly, anxious to be friends. "It's good to have you here."

"Some dump," complimented the young squire. "Say there, Juliano, how about a long high one for a dusty throat."

Juliano bent from the waist, nearly to the floor and when he straightened his old eyes were proud—"Si, Senor Don Cabrillo, for you, muy pronto."

Bewildered

"Well, kid, how are things going?"

John sat on the edge of the stone table, once pounded by the fists of Constance and Pedro, and studied Constance and smiled paternally at Don. Don was obviously "feeling his oats." He lolled in a basket chair, long legs thrown over the arm.

Constance started a report of the ranch, but Don interrupted.

My Neighbor Says—

Ripe or pimento stuffed olives added to French dressing and poured over vegetable salad give a good flavor, rather piquant and one that blends well with roast, chop or fowl dinners.

To glaze doughnuts while they are still warm dip in bowl in which 3 tablespoons butter have been mixed with 4 tablespoons boiling water and 1 cup sifted confectioner's sugar. Let doughnuts "dry" on waxed paper.

When ironing dresses, blouses or jackets, have coat hangers in the kitchen and slip the garment on as it is ironed. This prevents any unnecesary folds or wrinkles and after airing they are ready for the closet with no further handling.

"How many rooms here? I mean how many guests can we house?"

"Guests? Why, Don, I don' know—"

"Senor Cabrillo," Juliano, with the highball, was bowing before him—"in the days of your father' elder brother when I was so, and he indicated small stature, "we have entertained of fifty people over the night."

"Swell, then fifteen won't strain the walls. Our crowd, fifteen of them, are flying up from Santa Barbara for the week end," he explained to Constance, and to Juliano "I can trust you to do right by them, Juliano."

"Si, si, senor!"

Constance feared for the hips of Juliano, and then her heart seemed squeezed with a sudden fear But this was Don's home, it wasn' hers alone.

"Where is mother?" Constance asked.

"The Senora Cabrillo, is take la siesta," Juliano informed her "She is not to be interrupt!"

Constance sat down.

"Mutual," murmured Constance "Where is Lamson""

"Getting my things squared around."

Don absorbed the conversation while John sat, sending humorous glances of sympathy at Constance

And Constance sat confused, bewildered. She felt she had been dropped from some cool mountain peak into a valley of turmoil. Her thoughts ran around chaotically Ten minutes ago she had been in Pedro's arms, now she sat facing John Rasksthorne, who had appeared out of thin air to interpret to Pedro the wrong definition of her silence.

And Don's lofty assumption of ownership. Fifteen guests over the week end, the cost. The Cabrillo credit in Beachport was high; Don could have what he asked for. And once learning that, he'd ask for everything he wanted

Why hadn't she foreseen this?

Why had she merely worried over John's loan. She looked at him anxiously quickly, and found such an expression of tender concern in his gray eyes, that she looked away.

That handsome distinguished looking man in gray slacks and darker coat was John Rasksthorne the man who believed in her, loved her, and she had doubted him She had even begrudged him the kiss he'd taken . . . not the kiss . . but Pedro's having seen the caress.

She must find time alone to sort her thoughts, to regain her poise After all the family's visit need not disrupt everything It wouldn't affect the dairy farm, she could keep that separate from the manor affairs She must

Donna, having changed to apricot velvet lounging pajamas, sauntered in and gave Don some competition, and then Juliano, who had been in and out a dozen times, approached in official dignity.

Celebration

"Judge Franck to see Senorita Conchita Cabrillo," he announced.

"I'll be—" Constance spoke to Juliano's back It appeared that Juliano had his own ideas of where the senorita was to talk to the judge.

"I'm going to take that honey back with me when I go," purred Donna 'Imagine the girls' faces when they hear 'Senor-eeta-Donnita Cab-reelo'"

"So you've gone back to your right name," muttered Constance. "Who told you Donna means Mrs.?"

"Wet blanket," spat Donna. "I suppose you'll want Don to be called Donald . . . nasty Scotch name."

"The only thing Scotch about our brother," countered Constance, "is his appetite for it" And then she sighed. They were quarreling again. She didn't have time to say sorry, for Juliano was approaching with Judge Franck.

Donna paid little attention to the visitor in his rumpled sack suit, very little attention until he turned to Constance to tell her the reason for his visit

Swing Band, Vocal Talent Feature Sophomore Show

Some modern swing, a dash of the gay nineties and a sentimental ditty or two—polish them off with spot lights and shadows and you have the annual talent show presented by the sophomores of Appleton High school. The underclassmen had their day Wednesday afternoon when they performed for the general assembly.

In the dusk of the blue stage lights overhead Carol Jury opened the program with a vocal solo, "Blueberry Hill," accompanied by Jennie Marie Jury at the piano. She was introduced by the jaunty master of ceremonies, James Hammer, and Janet Jones was her coach.

"The Barefoot Trail Goes Winding" sang Ruth Robertson and Lorraine Whiting, properly costumed for their rustic duet. Ila Steuck was at the piano. The girls were coached by Betty Van Gorp. Calvin Johnson played a medley of favorite Stephen Foster melodies on his harmonica. He was assisted in his preparation by John Leonard. An old-fashioned trio, George Weinfurter, Robert Vander Linden and Roman Meier, sang "I Want a Girl" in the true barbershop manner.

Costumed like an Italian flower girl, Harriet Krug sang "I Love Life," with the true flourish of a professional. Her accompanist was Myrna Steffen and her coach Frances Galpin. "I'll Never Smile Again" was Jean Risse's mournful lyric. Her accompanist was Norma Reuter and her coach Rosemary Hopkins.

"Leave Everything to Mother" was the moral of the original dramatic sketch presented by Mary Jo Donohue, Faye Rosenbohn and Jerry Driscoll. The director was Elizabeth Haug. Betty Starks sang "I'm Nobody's Baby," and just to prove that she was wrong the audience called her back for "Fools Rush in."

Swing Band

The swing band for the occasion was directed by Hammer, who was at the piano. His swingsters were Sherley Eisch, Victor Barth, Norbert Delrow and Keith McClusky. They accompanied Miss Starks and Betty Pograndt, who received cheers with her tap dancing. Edgar Thomas and Kenneth Thompson did the coaching.

A patriotic finale brought the show to a close. Peggy Stevenson sang the full-blooded melody, "I Am an American," accompanied by Miss Steuck, and Yvonne Dedecker, garbed in the satin coat and trousers of Uncle Sam himself, tapped to "On Wisconsin." The band was still "swinging" when the assembly was dismissed.

Miss Ruth McKennan, head of the speech department, managed the vaudevil show. She was assisted in the technical direction by Jack Burroughs, biology instructor, and by senior members of Curtain Call, dramatic club of the high school. Joseph Merkes was stage manager and Jean Balliet collected the properties.

Appleton council, United Commercial Travelers, will have a separate meeting at Odd Fellows hall at the same time as its auxiliary. The executive committee's appointment of a senior counselor to succeed Ward Swartz, who is moving to Milwaukee, will be announced, and plans for the booster meeting Dec. 1 in Appleton will be discussed.

Before the separate business sessions the council and auxiliary will join for a pot-luck supper at 6 o'clock, and after the meetings, they will have a joint card party. On the committee for the supper are Mrs. Bert Bewick and Mrs. R. C. Breitung, co-chairmen, Mrs. William C. Lemke, Mrs. E. M. Schreiter, Mrs. Anton Olson, Mrs. George Nolting, Mrs. Nora Krueger, Mrs. E. P. Grignon, Mrs. A. A. Krueger and Mrs. William Laux.

Celebrating the birthday anniversary of Theodore Roosevelt, Charles O. Baer camp and auxiliary to United Spanish War Veterans and their wives and husbands met for supper last night at the armory. Seventy persons were present and the Americanization committee, of which Mrs. Carl Schwendler is chairman, was in charge of the program.

C. B. Peterman spoke on the life of Theodore Roosevelt, Jacob Meyer and William Lloyd sang three vocal duets, "A Thousand Years," "In the Land Where We Never Grow Old," and "Help Somebody Today," with Mrs. Evangeline Farwell playing the accompaniment, and Mrs. Marie Otto played three piano numbers, "I Am an American," "Onward Christian Soldiers" and "Marching Through Georgia."

John Freude, Jr., gave two song and dance numbers and the audience sang "God Bless America."

The auxiliary will meet at 7:30 Friday night at the armory.

Mrs. Edward Lutz won the bridge prize and Mrs. Rex Spencer and Mrs. Robert Merkle the schafkopf awards at the meeting of Rainbow Veterans auxiliary last night at the home of Mrs. Walter Melchior, 162 N. Harriman street. The next meeting will be Nov. 27 at the home of Mrs. John Hantschel, S. Oneida street.

Appleton Contract Bridge Players to Enter Tournament

Several of Appleton's top notch contract bridge players plan to enter the Wisconsin open pair championship master point tournament Nov. 9 and 10 at the Cavendish club rooms in the Shroeder hotel at Milwaukee.

Conducted by the American Contract Bridge league and sponsored by the Milwaukee Bridge association, the tournament will open at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon Nov. 9 with a qualifying session. Play will be continued at 8 o'clock that evening, and the final session is scheduled for 1:30 Sunday afternoon. An individual game for those who disqualified in the pair matches or did not play Saturday is on the program for 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Play in the qualifying sessions will be in the McKenney-Baldwin movement and in the final session, in the Howell movement.

National master points will be given in accordance with attendance requirements and other regulations specified by the American Contract Bridge league. The winning pair will earn title for one year of a silver trophy, suitably engraved. Individual replicas for winners and runners-up will be awarded for permanent possession.

Baron Albert von Stronstaff and Arthur Grau, both of Racine, are the defending champions, and Colonel and Mrs. C. Dudley Peirce, Fort Moultrie, S. C., were the runners-up last year.

HURT IN SCUFFLE — This picture of Negro Patrolman James Sloan was released by the New York City police department. Sloan, injured in a scuffle near the train of President Roosevelt, refused to speak of the affair. In Washington, Steve Early, White House press secretary, said he "gave the knee" to one of several policemen who pushed him.

FDR, Jr., Says Willkie Has No Youth Program

Milwaukee — (AP) — Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., campaigning for his father's re-election to the presidency, told a state teachers college audience yesterday that the nation's youth has the responsibility of making democracy work.

Youth, he said, must "put democracy on a secure footing for those who follow us."

Young Roosevelt went through a hurried 15 hour campaign in Wisconsin yesterday and answered quips and sallies from various youthful audiences with a ready wit. At Fond du Lac he said that the New Deal is the friend of labor. At Oshkosh he met state teacher's students and in Milwaukee he told a state teacher's audience that Willkie had no program for youth.

In the less serious side of his platform addresses he referred to "us kids" and "my old man."

Called to Oshkosh

Madison—(AP)—The Rev. Carl A. Becker, associate pastor of St. John's Lutheran church here, has received a call to the pastorate of Christ Lutheran church at Oshkosh, it was announced today.

College Gives Willkie Heavy Lead in 'Poll'

Thomas Receives More Votes From Lawrence Faculty Than F. D. R.

Wendell L. Willkie had little trouble winning the Lawrence college presidential "election" held this week.

In the balloting held during convocation at Memorial chapel, Lawrence students gave Willkie 74 4 per cent of their votes Roosevelt 15 6 per cent, and Norman Thomas, the Socialist candidate, 10 per cent.

The faculty of the college gave the Republican candidate the smallest majority of any group on the campus, 55 per cent. But at the same time the faculty gave Thomas more votes than Roosevelt, 23 5 per cent to 21 2 per cent

In the survey conducted by the Lawrentian, college weekly administrative officers gave Willkie 80 per cent of their votes, Roosevelt 16 per cent, and Thomas 4 per cent.

The women in the Lawrence student body gave Willkie a greater majority than the men, 85 1 per cent. The women gave Roosevelt 9.8 per cent of their votes and Thomas 5 1 per cent

The men in the student body divided their votes as follows: Willkie 62 3 per cent, Roosevelt 22.2 per cent and Thomas 15.5 per cent.

The Way They Stood

Voting by classes, with numbers indicating percentages, follows: Freshmen—Willkie 83 4, Roosevelt 12.9, Thomas 3.7; sophomores — Willkie 72 8, Roosevelt 18 1, Thomas 9 1; juniors—Willkie 68 3, Roosevelt 14 9, Thomas 16.8; seniors—Willkie 71 9, Roosevelt 15.7, Thomas 12 4

Julius P Heil, Republican candidate for reelection as governor of Wisconsin, received 67 per cent of the student votes, with Francis E. McGovern, Democratic candidate, and Orland S. Loomis, Progressive candidate, running about even.

In the senatorial race, the results were: Clausen, Republican, 63.1 per cent; LaFollette, Progressive, 31.6 per cent; Finnegan, Democrat, 5.3 per cent.

Survey Shows 223 Dwelling Units Vacant

Appleton has 8,018 dwelling units of which 223 are vacant, according to a survey made by the census bureau.

The number of vacancies represents 2.8 per cent which is well below the average of 4.9 per cent of vacancies in the provisional list of cities of over 25,000 population.

The majority of vacancies in Appleton are dwelling units, houses or apartments, which are for sale or for rent although some vacancies are caused by absent families, the survey showed.

There were 412 cities covered in the census, which listed 14,354,514 dwelling units, including 744,879 vacant units.

In Wisconsin, the cities besides Appleton covered by the housing census, the total dwelling units tabulated and the number and per cent of vacancies were:

Eau Claire, 8,061 and 109 or 1.3 per cent; Green Bay, 12,454 and 315 or 2.5 per cent; Superior, 9,872 and 255 or 2 6 per cent; Wausau, 7,287 and 156 or 2.1 per cent.

Army Calls Out First 30,000

with Captain Walter Seaman, draft officer stationed at Madison, that the three Outagamie county boards will set up headquarters on the fourth floor of the Irving Zuelke building.

Not until the district boards receive their master lists from Washington, which will be early next week, can the work of assigning order numbers to registrants begin, Captain Seaman told the Appleton board this morning.

Draft order numbers must be attached to the cards, and questionnaires sent to registrants to determine their eligibility for service. According to instructions from national headquarters, the local boards will send the questionnaires in small batches to men whose numbers were drawn early in the lottery and thus lead off the local list. The boards will continue to distribute questionnaires until they find sufficient Class 1A men—those who have no dependents or physical or occupational deferrments — to fill the army's requisitions.

Gets Five Days

Every man has five days in which to fill out and return his questionnaire and the regulations provide that those eventually called for service be given five days immediately prior to induction in the army in which to wind up personal affairs.

Draft officials estimated that men whose numbers were not in the first 1,500 drawn in the lottery will have very little chance even of getting questionnaires, much less being called for service, at least as far as selection of the first 800,000 trainees is concerned. It is entirely probable that some conscription eligibles may not receive questionnaires for a year or even longer.

Preparations have been completed, it is said, to attach the draft order numbers to registration cards in accordance with the lottery as soon as the list is received.

The first call for men came from Major General George A. Wooodruff, corps area commander at Boston, who told six New England governors to provide 984 men by Nov. 18 under the selective service system.

Called In West

Simultaneously on the Pacific coast the Ninth corps area at San Francisco dispatched to the governors of seven far western states its opening requisition for a total of 1,630 men to report to induction stations between Nov. 18 and 22

The Eighth corps area headquarters at San Antonio issued notifications to the states in the southwest on the number of men they were to furnish. Other army areas either were following suit, or planning to swing into action before Saturday

This first selective service call—designed to bring 30,000 young men—was in accord with the war department's previously announced plan of inducting approximately that number of trainees into service between Nov. 18 and Dec 1.

Most, if not all of this pioneer contingent was expected to be filled by selective service volunteers—men who want to take their year's training immediately, even though their conscription numbers may be so far down the list that they might not be called for months or years

A second and numerically larger call for selective service registrants, it was indicated, will be forthcoming about Dec. 2. With this call, the sizable flow of non-volunteers was expected to begin. Officials estimate that about 1 in every 20 registrants will be in uniform when the first year's quota of 800,000 is filled

The three other induction centers in Wisconsin, the number of men involved, the date they will report, and the counties from which they will come follow:

Milwaukee center, 130 men, November 22: Door, Kewaunee, Manitowoc, Calumet, Sheboygan, Brown, Winnebago, Fond du Lac, Washington, Ozaukee, Waukesha, Milwaukee, Racine and Kenosha.

Madison center, 64 men, November 25; La Crosse, Monroe, Juneau, Adams, Waushara, Marquette, Green Lake, Dodge, Columbia, Sauk, Richland, Vernon, Crawford, Grant, Iowa, Lafayette, Dane, Green, Rock, Jefferson, and Walworth.

Eau Claire center, 39 men, November 29: Douglas, Bayfield, Burnett, Washburn, Sawyer, Polk, Barron, Rusk, St. Croix, Dunn, Chippewa, Pierce, Taylor, Eau Claire, Pepin, Buffalo, Trempleau and Jackson.

Execution of Nurse Cavell Topped War News 25 Years Ago

BY VIOLA HELLERMANN

The execution of Nurse Edith Cavell in Belgium and alleged German bomb plots in the United States were among the more spectacular news stories in World War No. 1 during the latter part of October, 1915, just 25 years ago this month.

The execution of the British nurse by Germans, who said she was a spy, and continued Zeppelin raids on London boomed enlistments in England to such a degree that the cabinet decided it could postpone conscription.

On Oct. 25 Robert Fay, an alleged German army officer, and Walter L. Scholtz were arrested in New Jersey charged with a bomb planting conspiracy. Quantities of explosives and a high powered motor boat were found in their possession, and Fay admitted he came to America to stop the shipment of war munitions to the allies. The prisoners were turned over to the federal authorities the next day.

The United States was not as united then as it is today in its belief that a strong national defense is the best guarantee of peace. While Woodrow Wilson's administration was making plans for a $400,000,000 army and navy expansion program, William Jennings Bryan and his adherents declared "preparedness makes for war, not peace."

Dr. Jenkins Lloyd-Jones, Chicago, secretary of the Carnegie Peace Foundation, expressed the same view in a lecture Oct. 27 at Lawrence Memorial chapel. "Armaments always have and always will be irritants," he said. "This war is on because the nations are over-prepared."

Heavy Casualties

In Europe the war continued with no signs of abatement. Premier Asquith announced Oct. 9 that British casualties to date were 423,294.

Heavily beset on three sides, Serbia was making a last fight for her life. By the end of the month it was admitted in Paris that Serbia was doomed

A repulse by the Austrians of an Italian general attack with enormous Italian losses was repeated Oct. 22 at Berlin.

The entire French cabinet's resignation was announced officially Oct. 28. President Poincare asked Briand to form a new ministry. The shake-up was attributed mainly to general dissatisfaction with the government's foreign policy, especially in connection with the German diplomatic victory which brought Bulgaria into the war. In France as well as in England the decision of Bulgaria, which had been wavering between joining the allies or central powers, to cast its lot with the latter was attributed to diplomatic blundering.

Counting on the success of the Teutonic-Belkan campaign, a high official of the German foreign office declared, "Within two months Germany will really begin to fight the British." In five more weeks, he said, a way would be opened through Serbia to Bulgaria and Turkey, where large supplies were stored.

Blue Bulbs May Stop Strange Trips to U. S.

Glass Bubbles That Ride From Japan to Coast May Play Out

Portland—(AP)—The blue bubbles that ride the ocean currents from Japan to the breakers of Oregon and Washington may soon play out.

The "bubbles" are glass net buoys from 3 to 15 inches in diameter. They have been washing ashore on the American north Pacific for 15 years, to the delight of vacationists and collectors.

Source of the bubbles long was a mystery. Finally the family of Mrs. Elizabeth Olsen of Portland, which collected hundreds of them, wrote the U. S. consul at Tokyo. Mrs. Olsen suspected the bulbs were buoys of some sort and guessed that they washed across the Pacific.

Information came from Consul General Arthur Garreis, who said that Japanese fishermen began using glass net buoys about 20 years ago, but that cost prevented their general use until about 1925. Since that time fishermen along the islands of Hokkaido and Sakhalin, the Kamchatka peninsula and the Okhotsk sea have purchased about 2,000,000 of them annually. When nets are lost, net buoys break free.

For several years Japanese glassblowers blew the trade characters of the fishing companies into the glass.

Fishermen use the glass buoys mainly on drag nets. A "necklace" of glass is affixed to the upper edge of the net, heavy weights to the lower. Thus the nets move through the water submerged several feet, a wall of mesh to trap the fish. Larger glass buoys mark the net position.

But soon, wrote Garreis, the buoys may float across the Pacific no more, for the Japenese have developed a paper type of net float, more durable, cheaper and easier to reclaim than the blue bubbles.

Protection for The 'Protector'

Aiken, S .C. —(AP)— A drapery, operated so the public may see but the judges may not, is the Treasury department's solution to objections raised by federal jurists to a mural in the federal courtroom here.

The mural, designed as a background for the presiding judge, purports to represent "Justice — the Protector and Avenger."

The late Judge Frank Myers objected particularly to justice being portrayed as a barefooted woman. He ordered the mural covered.

Now the Treasury department has installed a drapery operated by a cord which will allow the public to view the Stephen Hirsch painting but at the same time allow it to be covered whenever a judge appears.

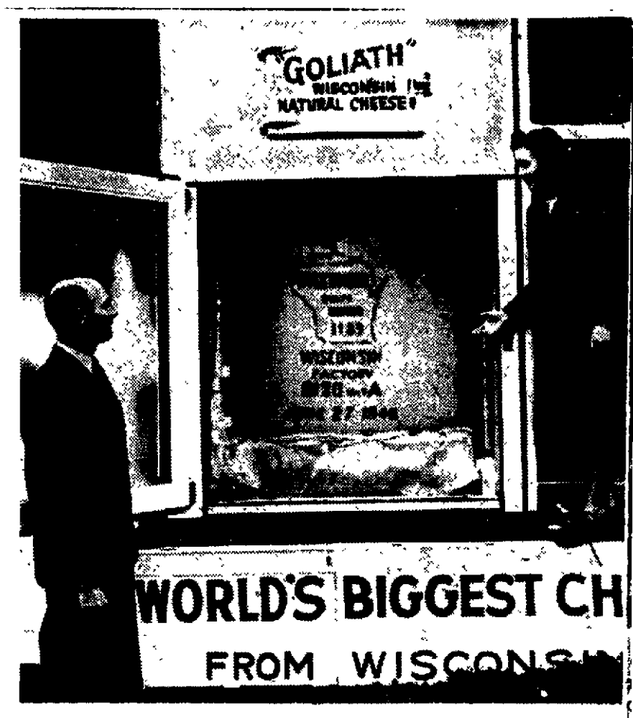

Wild Goose Is Given Credit for New Corn

Hattiesburg, Miss.—(AP)—An unsuspecting wild goose may have introduced a new kind of rainbow-hued corn hereabouts.

E. L. Bass, a farmer near Sumrall, said he extracted some seed from the craw of a wild goose two winters ago. From them, he has grown corn that has purple cobs, purple shucks and white grains that turn red when wet. Bass said the corn silk at first is white with black tassels, changes to purple as the stalks grow.

Says Britain Won't 'Crack' Under Raids

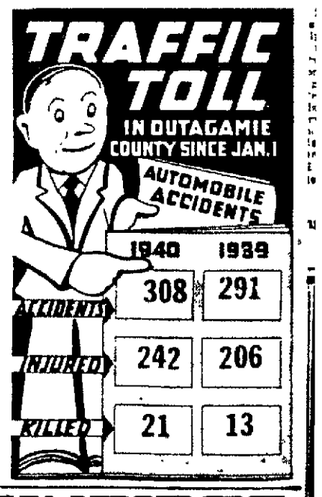

London —(AP)— Herbert Morrison, minister of home security, declared today that while Britain has "no cause for complacency," he nevertheless detected "no sign of cracking under the strain of night bombings and over-crowded shelters."

"We'll hold on," Morrison said.

"We are grateful to the American people (for supplies) and when the time comes for the British army to strike," he said, "we can thank the efforts, courage and guts of our people and the cooperation, good fellowship and friendship of the United States."

The minister said the civil defense organizations, derided before the aerial siege of Britain began, had shown "heroism worthy of the best soldiers in the line in London, Liverpool, Birmingham and various parts of the country."

The morale of the civil population he said, was "magnificent."

Printer is Heavy Buyer Of Appleton Products

(What would happen to Appleton if suddenly it should lose one of its major industries? Just how much do Appleton industries contribute to the community in the way of wages and salaries, taxes, expenditures for materials, transportation and services? This article is one of a series prepared to show just what Appleton's larger industries mean to the economic life of the community. Another article will appear shortly.)

There's a long list of high schools in three states that depend on the Badger Printing company, 213 E. Washington street, for their annuals.

The Appleton company printed 42 school annuals last spring, representing schools in Wisconsin, southern Minnesota, and eastern Iowa.

School year-books comprise a good-sized share of the printing company's business, but there's a lot of other things going on in the modern plant.

School text books, general commercial printing and specialties keep the presses humming at the Badger plant, which was founded in 1923 and now employs 42 people, with an annual payroll of nearly $70,000.

The Badger Printing company depends almost exclusively on the Fox river valley for its raw materials, book, coated, bond, cover, and offset papers. Last year, for example, it spent nearly $43,000 on materials and it is estimated that more than 90 per cent went to paper industries in Appleton and vicinity.

Bert Martin, Herman Schommer, and Arnold Jacobs founded the company in 1921, erecting a frame building on Washington street between Richmond and Locust.

Smith Enters Firm

In 1923, Martin and Jacobs sold their interests to David Smith, who had been affiliated with the Banta Publishing company of Menasha.

The company in 1927 purchased the business of the Meyer Press and in January of 1939 bought the Langstadt-Meyer building at 213 E. Washington street.

The company was the first printing firm north of Milwaukee to go into lithograph work, taking the step in 1930. Before moving into the present building, the firm's lithograph plant was on Atlantic street.

The number of employes has grown from 15 in 1925 to the present 42. The buildings and equipment represent an investment of $115,000. The company's annual tax bill is in the neighborhood of $5,000.

Present officers are David Smith, president; E. A. Boettcher, vice president; Herman Schommer, treasurer; and Erik L. Madisen, secretary.

The company produces a long line of specialties that have a wide market. Here are some of them: Golf score cards on which the name of a company is printed, baseball and football schedules and bowling record books for "good will" distribution by firms, menu booklets, shopping lists, milk cards, profit and mark-up scales, mileage tables for distribution by service stations and a host of others.

Claim That G. O. P. Blocked Defense Is Untrue—Johnson

BY HUGH S. JOHNSON

New York City—At Madison Square Garden the president alibied his defense failures by saying that he did provide a fine defense, and anyway the Republicans prevented him from providing defense.

If he did provide defense, why did we have to appropriate or authorize upward of eleven billion dollars in 1940 after disclosures that, on land and in the air, we were practically without any modern fighting equipment at all. The truth is that on the one hand we had no defense and on the other, both the president and his secretary of war repeatedly assured us that we had.

Johnson

He dragged out the ancient alibi that we are unprepared because, prior to 1933, the Republicans didn't build up our defense. As had been repeatedly shown, the Republicans constantly appropriated for defense a larger share of the national budget than the New Deal did in any fiscal year up to 1940, and a larger absolute amount than did the New Deal in the fiscal year 1934.

But the real reason is that Hitler didn't start to arm until 1933. Until then, Germany was wholly helpless, disarmed and surrounded on all sides by hostile bayonets in overwhelming strength. Up to 1936, France with her allies plus England could have cut through Germany like a hot knife through butter. As to the navy, the London limitation treaty was still in effect. The Republicans couldn't legally and shouldn't morally have started rearmament. That part of the Madison Garden speech is rank deception.

The second leg of the Rooseveltian alibi is that congress wouldn't let him rearm. The answer to that is that in the recovery act of 1933, congress gave him authority to spend any part he wished of the bulk of $3,300,000,000 for the "mechanization and motorization" of the army and building up the navy and heavier-than-air-craft for defense. Except for about $230,000,000 for the navy much of that money went for raking leaves "Motorization and mechanization" means the dreaded panzer divisions. He built not one of these.

Says Roosevelt's Alibi Is Like Chamberlain's

His third alibi is that a "little group of wilful men" (Republicans) in congress prevented defense. That is exactly Chamberlain's alibi, but in the mouth of Mr. Roosevelt it is much more absurd. He had a rubber stamp congress. He could have had whatever he wanted as the record proves. He didn't try. On the contrary, he consistently ignored or pruned out request after request of the army for defense funds. He continued to do that right up to January of this year. If he foresaw, as he says he foresaw, this dreadful situation overseas, his lack of leadership and courage is utterly inexcusable. He had no plan as late as June 1940. He asked for a pittance for defense and told congress that was all he needed and to go home. He didn't lead defense. Republicans in congress did, at popular demand.

He says the "reactionary" Republicans stopped him just as (he says) a reactionary government weakened France to its fall. Apart from the fact that the Republicans were a pitiful minority and couldn't stop anything, is the gross deception that a "reactionary" government weakened France. It was an imitation French fourth New Deal government that boondoggled while French defense went to seed just as it was an American fourth New Deal government that boondoggled while our defense languished. And that Republican sabotage of defense he has the cool, grass nerve to call

Willkie "Miles Ahead" Of President In Urging Defense

The president quoted the individual expressions of a few Republican congressmen as opposed to defense. He isn't running against them. Willkie is the other candidate's name. He has been miles ahead of Roosevelt in urging defense—just as congress and the people have.

He gave one hint of what will happen to critics and truth tellers on defense if he is elected. He says that to tell the truth about defense will scare and divide our people.

He should take a look at Churchill and the English. They are united and strong because they trust him. They trust him because he keeps his promises and tells the truth about their weaknesses, however bitter. We are weak and not united because millions of Americans don't trust Mr. Roosevelt, because he doesn't keep his promises and is careless with the truth. Americans are no more afraid of truth than the English. That is why "we Want Willkie"

Willkie Asks About Lack of Jobs in Nation

train after he listened on the radio to the president's Boston address. The Republican nominee had just returned from an address in Baltimore, where he told an audience which cheered him repeatedly:

"If you elect him (Mr. Roosevelt), on the basis of his past performances and pledges to the people, you may expect war by April, 1941."

Willkie's original text read, "on the basis of his past performances with pledges to the people, why shouldn't we expect war by April, 1941, if you reelect him?"

He mentioned April in connection with an assertion that Roosevelt in April, 1933, "abandoned sound money" five months after he "had pledged himself to sound money."

Willkie's statement about the president's Boston speech said he was disappointed and added that Roosevelt was running for chief executive, "not for a member of the house of representatives."

Declaring the address attacked Joseph W. Martin, Republican floor leader and the party's national chairman, Willkie said Martin had been voted the ablest house member by Washington newspapermen.

Assails Flynn

The nominee, saying he subscribed to that judgment and that he was glad Martin was managing his campaign, continued:

"The campaign of Mr. Roosevelt is being managed by the chairman of the Democratic national committee, Edward J. Flynn of the Bronx. Mr. Roosevelt did not characterize Boss Flynn, but Mayor LaGuardia did in the following terms: 'Ed Flynn of the Bronx is as low and as vicious as Croker or Tweed.'"

In closing the statement, Willkie said the president's speech instructed him on one point.

"I had assumed," he said, "that the ambassador to the court of St. James (Joseph P. Kennedy) was the ambassador of the people of the United States and not the personal representative of the president. I, at least, would consider all government representatives to be servants of the people rather than of myself."

Willkie told a cheering crowd at Wilmington, Del., today that if he were elected president a British request for 12,000 American planes would be "insignificant" because, he declared, production would be geared to a new high.

Speaking to a crowd which filled city hall square, the Republican presidential nominee quoted President Roosevelt as saying he wanted sympathetic attention to such a proposal.

Planes by Hundreds

"Well, who wouldn't" Willkie asked, "if you elected me president, such a request will not even be news, because it will be so insignificant. We will be turning out planes by the hundreds where we now are turning them out by ones."

Willkie said that if the issue in the campaign were whether Mr. Roosevelt "has a better type of campaign manager than I have, I would be glad to have the issue determined by the American people."

"If it's Joe Martin against Boss Flynn, the vote will be 99 to 1," he said with a smile.

Democratic speakers, Willkie continued, now agreed with him that the question of whether the nation would come through the present period depended "upon America becoming productive."

Willkie said he was "the only candidate" who could bring labor, industry and agriculture into a united movement "to make America strong."

"Upsurge" Grows

At Chester, Pa., Willkie addressed a street corner audience, saying that "all over the country the upsurge is on."

President Roosevelt, he declared, "has not offered a single reason for violating the anti-third term tradition. At first he tried to create the impression that he was being drafted but the military inspection trips made that a little thin. Now he is out beating the hustings like a candidate for representative."

Willkie reiterated his contention that he was the only presidential candidate who could unite the country, "make it productive and keep it free.

"Here is an administration," he said, "that has antagonized a large section of American labor, industry and agriculture. It cannot make us strong, it cannot keep us free."

Illinois Farmer Sets New Record in Cornhusking Meet

Davenport, Iowa —(AP)— The corn belt acclaimed a new national husking champion today in Irving Bauman, youthful Illinois farmer who became the nation's top "farm athlete" on his third try.

He bested 20 opponents in the 17th national cornhusking championship yesterday to capture the title that eluded him in 1935 and 1938, when he finished second.

Bauman, a slender 27-year-old tenant farmer, set a record of 46.71 for the event. The old mark of 41.52 was established in 1935. The new king of the nubbin pickers operates a 160-acre central Illinois farm near Eureka, is married and has one child, a boy of three.

He won the Illinois state title twice, but this year finished second to Ecus Vaughn of Piatt county. The latter scored 41.62 for fifth place in the national derby.

Marion Link, 25, Iowa State champion of Ames, scored 46.36 to finish a close second to Bauman. Ivyl Carlson of Madrid, Ia., was third with 44.97 bushels.

Net Load

Bauman's net load was 3,269.9 pounds after deductions of 89.1 pounds for husks and gleanings. Link's net was 3,245.1 after deduction of 93.9 pounds.

The 21 contestants were the best of approximately 6,000 aspirants who competed in county elimination contests in 12 states. A crowd estimated by police officials at 125,000 watched them compete for the coveted title, gold trophy and $100 first place prize.

The husking contest is called the world's most gruelling sport because it exacts sustained speed for a longer period than any other. Huskers work without pause for 80 minutes.

Huskers move along rows of corn, seize the stalks, strip off the corn, husk it and pitch the ears into a wagon. The staccato sounds of corn hitting the sideboard of Bauman's wagon came at the rate of nearly one a second—the champion being timed at 58 ears to the minute near the end of the contest.

The huskers train for weeks to develop speed and the ability to husk cleanly. Gleaners follow each contestant to pick corn he misses. This counts against his score, as does everything over five ounces of husks.

British Plane Order Given Roosevelt O.K.

singled out for criticism their national chairman and house leader, Representative Joseph W. Martin, Jr., whose home state is Massachusetts.

Republican campaign orators were "ridiculous." Mr. Roosevelt declared, "when they shed those old crocodile tears over the plight of the farmer."

"The American farmers will not be deceived," he asserted, "by pictures of old guard candidates, patting cows and pitching hay in front of moving picture cameras."

The president cited Republican votes which he said had been cast in congress against the first and second agricultural adjustment acts, "parity payments," the stamp plan to distribute food to the needy, and commodity loans.

Cites His Program

He listed what he contended his administration had done for the farmer, including the distribution of surpluses, not needed for reserves, to the hungry.

Republicans, the chief executive said, did nothing to stop the downward "slide" of agriculture between 1920 and 1933, but before every election day they "uncorked the old bottle of soothing syrup and spread it thick."

"Our school luncheon program will this year reach three million children with milk and other foods," he said, "And milk does those children much more good than political soothing syrup."

The mention of Martin's name as among Republican leaders who had voted against commodity loans brought boos from the crowd.

"I wouldn't single him out," the president said, "except that he is of national interest now because at the time of his appointment as Republican national chairman there was pinned on him the following handsome verbal bouquet, this expensive orchid: 'In public life for many years Joe Martin has represented all that is finest in American public life'."

Considering the sources of the "orchid," he added, Martin must be slated for a cabinet post.

Mr. Roosevelt said the Republican chairman had "voted against every single one of the farm measures recommended by this administration."

"Perhaps he will be rewarded for this loyal service to the principles of his party by being appointed secretary of agriculture," he added.

Farmer Committee To Back Roosevelt

Organization of the Wisconsin Committee for Agriculture, an independent farmers' organization working for the election of Roosevelt and Wallace, was announced today.

Representing the committee in Outagamie county is George Schaefer, Greenville. Emmet O'Connor, Grand Chute, is a member of the state committee which works in conjunction with a national committee with headquarters in Chicago.

Representatives of the Wisconsin Committee for Agriculture now are in nearly every county of the state, according to Paul A. Horlamus, West Bend, state chairman. They are calling on fellow farmers, conducting meetings and distributing literature.

Industrial Relations Group Holds Meeting

The Industrial Relations group, composed of personnel and industrial relations men from paper mills in central and northern Wisconsin, met last night at the Conway hotel.

Italy Claims Gains

Rome —(AP)— Italian troops fighting through mud and rain have pushed forward to the Kalamas river in Greece, five miles from the Albania frontier, the high command reported today.

Italian warplanes, despite adverse flying conditions, were reported to have bombed loaded troopships at the port of Patras, the Lepanto naval base on the Gulf of Corinth, a barracks at Metzevo pass in western Greece and highway junctions in the Kalamas valley.

The newspaper Il Piccolo said today the entrance of other countries into the tri-power pact linking Italy, Germany and Japan was possible.

Whether the newspaper referred to negotiations to be undertaken by the axis powers with soviet Russia or to some smaller country such as Bulgaria, was not disclosed, but Il Piccolo said it would be a great "disappointment" for Britain.

Several "enemy" planes were shot down during these bombing operations from which only one of the Italian planes failed to return, the communique said.

In East Africa, the Italians said, their forces fought off attacks by British columns in the direction of Gadura on the Kenya colony border. The British were acknowledged to have carried out scattered air raids on Italian African positions.

Berlin —(AP)— German officialdom appeared confident today that the Italian-Greek conflict would be localized.

The conviction here was that Turkey would become involved only in case Bulgaria did. Information from Sofia is that Bulgaria intends to remain neutral.

The conclusion therefore was drawn that, barring unforeseen developments, neither Turkey nor Bulgaria would take a hand.

Informed sources pointed out that Turkey studiously has avoided doing anything that might draw her into war. Both Bulgaria and Turkey are regarded by Wilhelmstrasse as neutral.

Rely on Metaxas Line

Budapest, Hungary —(AP)— Greece pins her initial hopes of resisting Italian invasion from Albania on natural fortresses of her mountainous northwest augmented by the extensive system of "the Metaxas line."

The Metaxas line, named after Premier John Metaxas, runs the length of the Albanian-Greek frontier from the Ionian coast to Lake Ventrok—about 100 miles as the crow flies—and stretches along the Yugoslav and Bulgarian frontiers to the Turkish border.

But when Italy seized Albania in April, 1939, the Greek government built new fortifications, at a reported cost of more than $6,000,000, to defend her northwest frontier against the new threat.

Details of the line are secret but it is believed to consist of strategically placed concrete fortifications, earthworks, pillboxes and barbed wire tank traps—all designed to supplement the natural defenses afforded by the rugged upland country.

The mountains make northwestern Greece a natural walled fortress and apparently the Greek army's general plan is to force attackers into narrow mountainous bottle necks.

So, once again, the Greeks are defending their mountain passes, as did Leonidas at Thermopylae, where 300 Spartans held the narrow defile against Xerxes' "innumerable" Persians.

Appleton Dog Guards Institute Treasures

Utz von Stornfels, 7-year-old German shepherd dog, which was given to the Art Institute of Chicago by Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Kornely, Appleton, has been put to work with two other dogs to help guard the treasures of the institute at night, the institute reported today. Utz comes from a registered line of police dogs, weighs 100 pounds and is specially trained, powerful and keenly alert. The institute says Utz is a valuable addition to the police dog staff.

usually show for a fiesta of any kind, and it remains for the Cabrillos to give the affair the finishing touch

"They would like you, Miss Cabrillo, to bring the first train of logs from the camp, across El Cabrillo, and into Beachport."

"Bring . . . a train of logs?" asked Constance.

"Oh, there would be an engineer with you, but they'd like to have you in costume, purportedly at the throttle."

Somehow Donna covered the distance between her chosen chair and the Judge in one quick, fluttering movement. "I'd love it," she cried. "And Judge, I have an adorable costume, black lace over scarlet, and an exquisite mantilla. And could Don ride with me?"

Judge Franck looked beyond Donna to Constance. "The invitation is to Miss Constance Cabrillo. Will you come, Michael?"

"Michael!" shouted Don, and began to laugh. "Boy-oh-boy, is that something! Little Mickey Mahoney. And the lumber company wants a Cabrillo; you'd better let Sis do the honors."

"Don, what are you saying?"

Everyone turned and the Judge arose. Mrs. Cabrillo had quietly entered. "What is the disturbance?" she asked, after greeting the judge and brushing the cheek of Constance, lightly.

Explanations came from every side. Judge Franck cleared his throat. "Mrs. Cabrillo, I think you should be one to make the decision. Miss Constance has been very loyal to our community, and the Longshore Lumber Company wants a Cabrillo to officiate. They want to restore, for an afternoon the early days."

"Then Donna should be the one," stated Mrs. Cabrillo. "Constance is our little business woman, but she is not a true Cabrillo. I mean, she doesn't resemble the Cabrillos any more than I do."

Judge Franck sent Constance one astonished look. She knew he had hoped to help her out of the dilemma, but having asked for Mrs. Cabrillo's decision, must abide by it.

John Raskthorne, had somehow, reached her side. His hand lay warm on her shoulder.

"The judge," he said, addressing Nadine, "was asking you to suggest Constance. The lumber people, specifically asked for her. You'll accept, of course, Conchita."

The Liberties of the American People Are in Danger!

(From the New York Times, Sept. 19, 1940)

The NEW YORK TIMES supported Franklin D. Roosevelt for the Presidency in 1932 and again in 1936. In 1940 it will support Wendell Willkie.

It has made its choice, as all Americans must make their choice, in one of the great crises of this nation's history. The liberties of the American people are in danger. A hostile Power, openly proclaiming its hatred of the democratic way of life, has swept across Europe and is now battering at the gates of England, seeking to grasp the eastern approaches to that Atlantic world in which our own democracy has lived and prospered.

On Oct. 11, 1940 — the Press carried a reprint of Dr. Wirt's Prophecy made as far back as 1934 — and based on his conversations with certain Brain Trusters of the New Deal, which is as follows:

"The fundamental trouble with the Brain Trusters is that they start with a false assumption. They insist that the America of Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln must first be destroyed and then on the ruins they will reconstruct an America after their own pattern.

"Last Summer I asked some of the individuals in this group what their concrete plan was for bringing on the proposed overflow of the established American social order.

"I was told that they believed that by thwarting our then evident recovery they would be able to prolong the country's destitution until they had demonstrated to the American people that the government must operate industry and commerce. I was told that the government must operate industry and commerce.

"The most surprising statement made to me was the following:

" 'We believe that we have Mr. Roosevelt in the middle of a swift stream and that the current is so strong that he cannot turn back or escape from it. We believe that we can keep Mr. Roosevelt there until we are ready to supplant him with a Stalin. We all think that Mr. Roosevelt is only the Kerensky of this revolution.'

"I asked how they would explain to the American people why their plans for retarding the recovery were not restoring recovery. 'Oh,' they said, 'that would be easy.'

"All that they would need to do would be to point the finger of scorn at the traitorous opposition, these traitors in the imaginary war against the depression, would be made the goats. And the American people would agree that they, the Brain Trusters, should be more firm in dealing with the Opposition.

"They were sure that the colleges and schools could be kept in line by the hope of Federal aid until the many New Dealers in the schools and colleges had control of them.

Hitler has expressed the view that in a democracy the people have no real convictions. Harry Hopkins' view is that people are just "too damn dumb!" If Hitler and Hopkins are right, free enterprise in America is doomed. General Hugh Johnson truthfully pointed out that if Roosevelt cannot be beaten " . . . . we have seen the last of the American democracy we have known and loved."

The House of Representatives voted 330 to 42 to deport Harry Bridges unconditionally. The bill remains on the Senate calendar awaiting action. President Roosevelt vetoed a bill for the deportation of aliens engaging in espionage and sabotage.

Since 1935 there were 13,696 strikes with 78,970,000 man days of employment lost.

Says Democratic Mr. Dies: "Communists have risen high in the government and hold important key positions."

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt has sharply criticized the Dies' committee and openly championed the Communist led American Youth Congress, entertaining its leaders in the White House.

AMERICAN WAY OF LIFE IN DANGER

Dr. Evans, president of the Wisconsin Willkie for President Club and head of Ripon College says:

I Am Voting For Willkie Because I Am A Democrat

"I am voting Republican to save the principles of democracy."

Eight years ago the Democratic Party drafted a fine platform. Mr. Roosevelt promised to carry out that platform 100%.

Alfred E. Smith pointed out that with one exception, all of these promises were not only forgotten but CARRIED OUT IN REVERSE.

NOW—The Third Term Candidate promises never to send our boys across the ocean to fight on foreign soil. In view of previous promises made and broken —

What Do You Think?

The Reader's Digest asked Mr. Willkie to state the basic practical problem of this moment in America.

Here is his response (Oct. 1940 issue).

In My Acceptance Speech I said:

"It is from weakness that people reach for Dictators and concentrated government power. ONLY THE STRONG CAN BE FREE AND ONLY THE PRODUCTIVE CAN BE STRONG. That is our basic need today: Production.

Base Argument For 3rd Term on Personalities

New Dealers Regard Tradition Issue as Irrelevant—Lawrence

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington— Unintentionally, of course, the New Dealers in this campaign have furnished the strongest arguments against the third term. Instead of meeting the issue head on and defending what to them seems a desirable change in tradition, the contention has been offered that the choice is really between two personalities, between two rivals for the presidential job, and that hence the necessity for choosing between two individuals makes the third-term issue irrelevant.

Lawrence

But this has brought back vividly the whole Chicago convention, for at that time the Democratic party had an opportunity to choose some one else. The American people are confronted with a choice between Willkie and Roosevelt only because Mr. Roosevelt insisted on nominating himself through his federal officeholder influence and delegate strength.

If Mr. Roosevelt had not intervened, Cordell Hull would today be the nominee of the Democratic party and James A. Farley would today be the vice presidential nominee.

The third-term tradition grew up because its sponsors from the time of George Washington felt that an ambitious president might use his official power to continue himself in office. It was precisely because they wanted to prevent a political party from giving anyone a third nomination that throughout our history political parties have recognized the danger of renominating an incumbent executive.

Alert Congress

If it be conceded that the choice is between two personalities, then the question really is whether the difference between the two men is enough to accept for all times the consequences of the breaking of a tradition. No one can hurt the progress of the government of the United States if there is an alert congress just as one man is not indispensable to it.

Ambassador Kennedy in his radio speech stressed the importance of experience in international affairs, but time was when members of the senate foreign relations committee and the house foreign affairs committee worked in close cooperation with the department of state and the White House and knew intimately what policies were being formulated. Republicans and Democrats were called into counsel when international situations arose. The government was not a 1-man affair, but a collaboration of all party leaders. Nothing of this kind has happened under President Roosevelt, who only occasionally has called leaders of the Republican party into conference.

The theory that the government operates under one man in an administrative sense is all wrong. The administrations and executives are many in number. Under the New Deal, one man makes the policies and that is exactly what is causing so much controversy in America. Policies in times of crisis should be crystallized after consultation with all groups and classes, and particularly with the leaders of all political parties.

Neglecting Job

Today Mr. Roosevelt has given the impression that he alone is capable of making vital decisions of international policy, and yet on national defense he is neglecting the important administrative job that should be done. He has called business men to Washington, but he has not delegated to anybody the job of coordination or appointed anyone chairman of the defense commission. He has kept a balance between right and left wing, and it so happens that a consumers' counsel has just as much voice in deciding what shall be done about a job of mechanical production as does Edward Stettinius or William Knudsen. This is what is meant by playing politics with defense. Anybody who cared only for national defense would not worry about pleasing right or left-wing advisers in time of emergency. He would certainly give full power on production problems to those who know defense.

Irrespective of the outcome of the election, there must be a change in the national defense set-up. Fundamental decisions will have to be made without regard to political or class cleavages. Indeed, the third-term campaign which has been going on now for nearly two years has prevented efficiency in public policy evolution.

When it is complained that the weaknesses in our defense situation are being revealed to foreign governments through campaign speeches, the situation in Britain and France is recalled. There was so much hush-hush that only the British and French peoples were kept in ignorance. The nazis knew all about the French and British weaknesses, and all they need to do now about American weaknesses is to read official reports and public documents and the proceedings of our congress and its committees these last two years.

Facts And Figures

It is the interpretation of those facts and figures which is rightly coming to the front in this campaign. The foreign governments with their military and naval and aerial experts made their own interpretations long ago.

If the choice is between two personalities, when the American people might well ask themselves which candidate, if elected, will do a business-like job in getting weapons of war produced—a man who thinks constantly in political terms, or a man who thinks in economic terms and has been a business executive dealing with problems of business where it was not possible to get limitless funds from stockholders or to appeal for power over heads of the taxpayers to whose who do not pay taxes. The third term race has impaired the efficiency of the administrative machine and has introduced political ambition at a time of national and international crisis, all of which would have been avoided if Mr. Roosevelt had permitted the Chicago convention to select its own nominees for president and vice president. The only way to prevent this from ever happening again is to refuse to elect the man who seeks a third term, no matter how much better he may appear to be in theory to his supporters of other days.

Clapper Wants Roosevelt to Lay 3rd Term Cards on Table

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER

Washington—Considering that President Roosevelt wants the country to break an honored two-term restraint upon the growth of excessive personal political power, it is about time he stated to the country the reasons why he believes that should be done.

The burden of proof is upon him.

Clapper

I have criticized the Willkie campaign but have delayed until now any fundamental criticism of the Roosevelt campaign. That is partly because I have had a good deal of trouble coming to a conclusion. Also it is partly because the president has spoken less frequently than Willkie and he was entitled to take his time in reaching the main question.

However, Roosevelt has made several speeches since the Chicago convention and has now made two frankly political campaign speeches, and he has not yet got around to the real question. He has still given no reason why we should break down the two-term restraint which has been deemed by some of his most illustrious predecessors to be a most vital safeguard to our free institutions, and which has been so endorsed, at different times, by both houses of congress. Perhaps they were wrong. But it would seem to be incumbent upon Roosevelt to say why he thinks so. Instead, he just ignores the whole business.

Roosevelt thus far has devoted his campaigning to saying that he has been a good president. With that I agree fully. Yet in the past that has not been considered sufficient reason for perpetuating a president indefinitely.

Roosevelt has said also that some of the Republicans in congress have been shortsighted about defense and foreign policy. Again I agree. Some Republicans have been as shortsighted in these matters as a number of Roosevelt's own Democrats. Willkie has not. He has, in the essentials, stood shoulder to shoulder with Roosevelt. He has stood there despite the strenuous efforts of some of his own Republican leaders to pull him away. He has furthermore repudiated the support of Father Coughlin, an action which almost caused a sensational explosion within the Republican organizaton. Yet for all of this the only recognition Willkie has received from the administration is to be called an appeaser.

Roosevelt has hinted and his spokesmen have emphasized that Willkie is inexperienced. That is true, and it has given me pause as it undoubtedly has given others pause.

Willkie has allowed it to be known privately to friends that he intends to continue Hull as his secretary of state. The defense setup, manned largely by pro-Willkie business men, will be left virtually intact except probably to increase its powers and give it a head with more authority. The army and navy, being professional services, will not be affected. Much of the present government personnel will have to be retained if Willkie is elected.

Willkie recognizes his lack of experience. When the British destroyer deal was first proposed to Roosevelt, the reply was that it would be political suicide unless Willkie agreed to it in advance. An emissary sounded out Willkie. He said he did not have the technical information upon which to base a decision, but that he favored all possible aid for Britain and that if Roosevelt felt we could safely spare the destroyers he would go along and not make a political issue of it. Later it was explained that Willkie had not expected it would be done without the consent of congress, and he complained of that feature. But the incident suggests Willkie's sense of responsibility and his recognition that he could not have cocksure opinions on such matters without the technical knowledge.

There would be some lost motion while a new administration was acquiring the feel of affairs here. But Roosevelt himself took over with a green crew in the midst of a panic in 1933, and it was a good thing a fresh hand did take hold.

As against the slowdown during a changeover, there is the awful possibility that if Roosevelt was in for a third term, every single action of his from then on, every single request for new authority, would be subjected to suspicious scrutiny for hidden, ulterior motives. There is likely to be less reluctance to give the additional power to Willkie than to one under suspicion as a third-term president. We recall the overly suspicious southern Democrats during the supreme court and reorganization-bill fights. Will they be any less suspicious during a third term? Are we now facing under Roosevelt the possibility of four years of paralyzing and disrupting suspicious?

Perhaps Roosevelt has the answers to such questions. If so he should speak now. It would be the height of arrogance to go into a third term without having even attempted to give the American people his reasons for asking this special favor at their hands.

Taking over command of the Swedish army, Lt.-Gen. Ivar Holmquist told soldiers that they needed "the support which religion gives."

For Quick Cough Relief, Mix This at Home

Saves You Much Money, and It's So Easily Mixed.

Here's an old home remedy your mother probably used, but, for real results, it is still one of the most effective and dependable, for coughs due to colds. Once tried, you'll swear by it.

It's no trouble. Make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar in 1 cup water a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—a child could do it.

Now put 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle, and add your syrup. This makes a full pint of truly splendid cough medicine, and gives you about four times as much for your money. It keeps perfectly, tastes fine, and lasts a family a long time.

And you'll say it's really amazing, for quick action. You can feel it take hold promptly. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Thus it makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep.

Pinex is a compound containing Norway Pine and palatable guaiacol, in concentrated form, well-known for its prompt action on throat and bronchial membranes. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Were they the "good" old days? There's education, for instance.

During the past 40 years, grade and high school attendance of America's children in proportion to population has increased nearly 50%, and enrollment in our colleges and universities more than 400%.

The so-called "good old days" become the better new days as more and more the wholesome influence of America's educators — its teachers — is evident in the lives of American youth.

THIS WEEK S GAMES

New London at Menasha Friday)

West DePere at Neenah (Saturday)

Clintonville - Shawano (Postponed)

Menasha — An improved New London High school football team will invade Butte des Morts field at 8 o'clock Friday night to meet the Menasha High school Bluejays Officials for the game will be A. C Denny and Ray Montieth, Appleton and George Hotchkiss, Oshkosh

The Menasha eleven will attempt to hold a tie for third place in the conference standings while New London will be out to improve its rather unusual position, second from the bottom The Bulldogs this year have defeated only Clintonville and that was by a 12 to 6 score They lost to Neenah 6 to 0, to West DePere 9 to 6 and to Kaukauna 21 to 7

On comparative scores the Bluejays should be favored as they defeated Clintonville easily by a 19 to 0 score and trounced West De Pere 26 to 13 They lost to Kaukauna 25 to 0 and to Shawano 19 to 0 However, the New London-Kaukauna game indicates that the Jays will have a job Friday night. New London held Kaukauna scoreless through the first half and made several serious scoring threats themselves even though Kaukauna regulars were playing

Harold Pues, a senior back, is the chief threat of the New London team. He is a hard runner and does most of the passing which has been the most effective scoring threat for the Bulldogs. New London also has a strong pair of ends although the center of their line has been weak

The Jays will be in good shape for the contest Roland O'Brien, shifty left half, did not play at West DePere because of a leg injury but he should be ready to go

ROCKET BACKS WHO'LL OPPOSE PHANTOMS—Neenah High school clashes with West DePere Saturday afternoon at Neenah in a game dedicated to the parents of the Neenah gridders It also is a Northeastern Wisconsin conference game and will show the teams battling to retain a third place tie in the standings. Four Neenah backs who'll see a lot of action Saturday are above (left to right) Buxton Kettering, Dino Burts, George Strohmeyer and Cliff Bunker. (Post-Crescent Photo)

McFadden Tops Pro Gridders

Replaces White in Ground Gaining List; Looney Best Receiver

New York — (AP) — Former all-America backs are showing the way in ground gaining in the National Football league, according to the statistics for the seventh week of play.

Banks McFadden, Brooklyn rookie from Clemson, moved back into first place with a record of 325 yards in 42 attempts, an average of 7.7 yards Byron (Whizzer) White, ex-Colorado star and 1938 league ground gaining champion, dropped back to second with 299 yards.

Philadelphia's rookie Don Looney, remained ahead in pass receiving, Sammy Baugh of Washington continued his hot pace in forward passing and Dick Todd, also of Washington, topped the scorers.

Baugh has an aerial record of 61 completions in 88 tosses for 834 yards, an efficiency mark of 69 per cent. He has thrown eight touchdown passes Although Davey O'Brien of Philadelphia still has the most completions with 67, his efficiency of 42 per cent dropped him to ninth while New York's Eddie Miller moved into second place with 30 out of 56 for 53 per cent with his fine showing against the Chicago Bears

Looney, with a record of 33 passes caught, is only one pass reception away from last year's final total of 34 made by Green Bay's Don Hutson Hutson has caught 25

Todd moved into the lead in scoring with 36 points, three more than Ward Cuff of the Giants Bob Masterson, Washington and Ace Parker, Brooklyn have contributed the most extra points, 10 each while Clark Hinkle Green Bay and Armand Niccola Pittsburgh are tied with five field goals apiece

Joe Medwick Signed by Brooklyn for Next Year

Brooklyn — (AP) — The Brooklyn Dodgers announced last night that outfielder Joe Medwick a chronic holdout when he was with the St Louis Cardinals already had agreed to terms for 1941 He settled with President Larry MacPhail on a figure estimated at $20 000 the day after the season closed, it was revealed

Names 29 Bulldogs

New London — The New London High school band will lend its moral support to the grid team when the Red and White travels to Menasha Friday night for a Northeastern Wisconsin conference football game under the lights at Buttes des Morts field. The band will travel in its own bus

The gridders will try for another victory in an attempt to close the season with a 50-50 rating. Since defeating Clintonville they have lost close scraps to West De Pere, Neenah and Kaukauna, and hope to take the Bluejays. They are in fifth place while Menasha has broken even in four games, winning over Clintonville and De Pere and losing to Kaukauna and Shawano The Jays are tied with Neenah for third.

Twenty-nine boys will go in uniform according to Coach G M. Charlesworth The regular lineup will be in order according to prospects Wednesday night, except in the matter of guards Practice was held under the lights Wednesday night Tuesday, because of rain, an indoor session was held in the high school gym

New boys making the trip in uniform are Lynton Otis, Donald Crain and Howard Thompson, sophomores, and Lee Loughrin, junior Three boys have dropped from the squad and another was added

Dodgers Recall J. Hinkle

New York — (AP) — The New York Giants of the National Pro Football league recalled Jack Hinkle, former Syracuse backfield ace, from the Jersey City farm club yesterday in an effort to bolster their team for Sunday's game with the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Army Gridders are Out to 'Win This One for Heffner'

West Point— (AP) — If it's in the books that Army should register the greatest upset of the season by tripping Notre Dame this Saturday you can credit the victory to a player whose name won't even appear in the program

Not only that, but the new West Point hero will be hundreds of miles removed from Yankee Stadium, New York, the scene of battle. He will be lying flat on his back in a hospital at Hot Springs, Ark. His name is Harry Heffner

Coach Bill Wood's revitalized squad is out to "win this one for Heffner," and if pre-game spirit and determination has anything to do with it, the Irish are as good as licked right now.

Heffner was stricken with infantile paralysis while visiting his parents, Captain and Mrs. Pete T Heffner, at Fort Sill, Okla., last summer. There followed many anxious weeks when physicians wouldn't predict how much longer the boy might live

But Heffner today is back on the road to recovery Despite his absence Harry is still maintained on the cadet roster of the military academy He is still a member of the corps—that to him is everything

Heffner and Johnny Hatch, both sons of Fort Sill army officers, were close friends, entered West Point together The pair was inseparable

Heffner won't play in this Notre Dame game There probably will be no more Notre Dame games for him. Hatch, too, will be missing this Saturday when Army engages the Irish. He hurt his ankle three weeks ago.

But from the Yankee Stadium bench on the Army side, Hatch will be yelling encouragement to his teammates 'Win this one for Heffner."

Vike Freshmen Play Tomorrow

Meet St. Norbert in Second Game; Won Last Week by 14 to 0

The Lawrence college freshmen football team will play a return game with the St Norbert college yearlings at Minahan Stadium, West DePere, Friday afternoon. St Norbert will be out to avenge last week's 14 to 0, defeat and the Lawrence frosh are looking to an even more decisive victory

Last week's game was Lawrence all the way giving Coach Dick Garvey, co captain of last year's varsity, the opportunity to try out his entire squad in its first outside competition of the season Earlier workouts were dominated by scrimmages with the varsity

Outstanding on the Lawrence squad last week were Joe Greco of Milwaukee, diminutive center who spent the entire afternoon breaking up the St Norbert backfield and blocked the put for the second tally of the game, George Lucht, also of Milwaukee, playing quarterback and passing to Maertzwiler for the first touchdown and kicking both extra points and Al Zupek of Racine at left half

Although the freshmen end their season with Friday's game, it has been long enough to give Coach Bernie Heselton a pretty fair idea where his sophomore strength will lie next year

Bill McDonald Back In Carroll Lineup

Waukesha —(AP)— Coach Johnny Bicen has named Ed Albright, senior fullback, to captain of the Carroll college Pioneers in their football game against Wheaton Saturday. Bill McDonald, halfback who was injured three weeks ago, was back in uniform yesterday and said he was ready for the game.

Bring 'Em Back

Randolph, Neb. —(AP)— Brownie, bird dog owned by Floyd Coon brings 'em back alive

The dog pointed a pheasant then bounded into the brush after it He returned carrying the bird carefully in his mouth

Waupaca Pointed For Westfield

Waupaca — Victory starved after four brilliant performances, Waupaca High school will meet Westfield on the latters' gridiron Friday in a non-conference engagement Failing to realize that this is the first season of football for the Spudders, Westfield is prepared to defeat the team from the larger city north of them so Waupaca can expect no mercy

Coach LeRoy Haberkorn has been working his men lightly, emphasizing their passes and trick plays, as well as getting a look at the various formations used by Don Unferth's team The Blue and White came out of the Kimberly game with no serious injuries and should be at full strength for Friday night Westfield has lost but one game this year and is highly regarded.

Waupaca's line, which fought so brilliantly in its last game, will remain the same with Stinemates at center, Uhl and Beach at guards, Durrant and Deuel at tackles, and McLean and Jensen at ends The backfield will consist of Rudersdorf at full, Holly at quarter, and Christofferson and Taylor at the halves.

Kaws Taking It Easy This Week

N.E.W. Champions Have 12 Days to Pass Before Next Game

Kaukauna — With 12 days until the final game of the season, here under the lights Nov 11, Coach Paul E Little's squad is engaging in comparatively light practices daily Yesterday the boys ran through a signal drill and held a brief scrimmage

Despite the fact that St Mary's of Menasha apparently is not the team the Kaws are, no one is taking the contest lightly. They all remember last season, when the Kaws murdered a conference slate and then were lucky to tie a nonconference opponent East DePere, 6 to 6 after trailing by a touchdown, on Armistice day

Three substitutes have been lost to the squad. Jack Peterson has a wrist injury, Jack Damro a broken bone in his hand, and Eldor Stanelle has been declared ineligible

Statistics for Kaukauna's six conference games show the Kaws piling up 81 first downs to opponents' 53; completing 48 of 73 passes while the enemy connected on 31 of 94, and recovered 11 enemy fumbles Only one Kaukauna fumble was recovered by the opposition.

There appears small hope that Little can fill the open date this Saturday All the teams in this vicinity, and some a considerable distance away, have been contacted without result.

Driscoll Names Team For Duquesne Battle

Milwaukee — (AP) — Coach Paddy Driscoll named 31 Marquette football players to leave for Pittsburgh tonight for the game against Duquesne Saturday

It was doubtful, however, whether tackle Jack Peifer or end Dick Roche would make the trip. Both men are recovering from injuries.

The first team was unable to stop many of the Duquesne plays in defensive scrimmage against the freshmen yesterday.

On offense, Harvey Baerwald Fred Rice, Bill Phillips and Doug Renzel, backs, tore through the freshmen, with Renzell looking particularly good

Chaff'n Chatter

By Gordon R. McIntyre

You can't say the Koehn family isn't helping to put Little Chute on the football map. Frankie Koehn got off a long gallop last week to help Eddie Kotal's Stevens Point Teachers win a game. Roger plays with the Flying Dutchmen of the village and Jimmy and Clyde have been doing things to help St. John High school win the valley Catholic title. And a fifth member of the family, Kenny, is on the St. John grade team and aims to outdo the rest of the boys when he grows up.

Personal note: Lawrence college gridders were guests of Dr. Barrows at a chicken dinner at Hortonville last night. The only trouble was the boys couldn't do their best because they had to go home and study for six-weeks' exams. And studying on a full stomach isn't done so easily Fathers of the team's co-captains were among the non-gridders present. They were Arthur Jones of Appleton and A L Kaemmer, Kiel.

There's a helluva situation up at Yale
With a football team that learned the game by mail
What with linemen who are shackled
And four backs who faint when tackled.
It's one helluva situation up at Yale.

It's the old Puritan spirit Yale coming to the surface as it does ever and anon.

Whenever Yale turns up with an extra poor football team, it feels called upon by its New England conscience to explain the good teams it had in more fortunate years, and so it disowns them like sins publicly repented.

When Old Eli is riding high there is no sin in having a good football team however Yale's present situation, characterized by Pete Cagle, the sage of Chapel street, as 'the brink of an abscess," is that of having a lot of players who are described by one of my New Haven friends noted for his euphemisms, as 'contact shy'

They shrink quite unlike Yaleman Malcolm Stevens' N. Y U. Violets, from a tackle.

Instead of 'Bulldog Bulldog, Wow, Wow, Wow' their theme song this year should be "Don't You Remember Sweet Alice Ben Bolt?"

Harvard men of a vintage prior to the McKinley administration will tell you that Sweet Alice was the drip who 'wept with delight when you gave her a smile and trembled with fear at your frown"

One lad on the squad can boot a shoat's epidermis 70 yards in a series of figure eights but let a vulgar tackler approach him and he screams 'Mercy me!"

Most of the players are under the impression that the caste system of India prevails at their football games and that they are Untouchables

Naturally, Yale wants to deemphasize football at a time like this Old Eli would like it forgotten entirely, if possible But a few years hence, after the "old grads" have put in their licks and the football revenue falls off, watch Yale come back with a good team as it always has in the past.

But meantime:

There's a helluva situation up at Yale.
The football team deserves a term in jail.
While old grads holler: "Bring back
"The good old double wing back"
There's a helluva situation up at Yale.

—Dan Parker in one of the New York sheets.

Laughs from the football season: 'That Elmer Layden and I have a lot of problems in common," remarked Coach Bob Zuppke with one of his more puckish grins. "Elmer has trouble deciding which 36 men he'll take on his trips and I have trouble finding 36 for a traveling squad"

Dialogue on the train speeding the University of Illinois' football forces from Ann Arbor to Champaign:

Characters: Coach Bob Zuppke, Sophomore Back Myron Pfeifer

Zuppke: "Say, Pfeifer, what was holding you back this afternoon? You were barely moving when you ran with the ball."

Pfeifer (grinning): "Coach, I just look slow. I'm really moving."

"The Mail Animal?"

Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern isn't getting much Monday morning howl mail this season, but he turns back on occasion to his now famous "Crank" File just to remember how those letters can read. The best ever to be filed was a long epistle that came after Illinois' 6-0 victory over the Purple in '37 The letter started out this way: "Dear Coach —As a former varsity football player, an 'N' man, I'm ashamed of the way your team played. . ." It went on at length stressing the writer's shame at Northwestern's defeat, repeating his qualifications as a former Purple gridder. The letter was signed, and Waldorf was moved to look into the writer's playing record

What he found was that the poor, crushed, humiliated alumnus had played as a reserve guard on the 1908 Wildcat team that lost to Illinois 64 to 8

It's Bo McMillin's story, told to Coach Lynn Waldorf during Indiana's visit to Dyche Stadium and relayed by Waldorf to Monday Quarterback Club members recently

"When Texas A. and M. went to the West Coast, equipped with their 227-pound, power-running fullback, John Kimbrough, the U C. L. A. guard was addressed by the Texas Aggie guard, Robnett, as follows: 'Brother, I don't know what you intend to do on this play but our quarterback has called Kimbrough right through the spot and I'm going to get the hell outta' the way!'"

After the Boston College-Tulane game was finished the Eagle captain sought out the Green Wave leader 'I hope you don't feel too badly because we Yankees beat you today?"

"Don't let this Southern accent fool you" retorted the Tulane captain "I got it from drinking out of Dixie cups My home is in Gary, Ind"

Zup's Assistant Says Irish Better Than Wolverines

Western Conference Teams Doing Well Outside Their Loop

BY TOM SILER

Chicago —(AP)— Nobody seems to know just how good Notre Dame is, but one coach says that the talented Irish are better than Michigan.

This is the unqualified opinion of Doug Mills, one of Bob Zuppke's trusted aides at Illinois, which played both teams.

"Notre Dame's strength is in its great store of reserves," Mills quoted Zuppke as saying after the Irish slapped a 26-0 defeat on the Illini Saturday.

"In beating the drums for fullback Milt Piepul, many have overlooked the brilliant work of Steve Juzwik, right halfback at Notre Dame" Mills added. "Yet Zuppke maintains that Juzwik is as good as Tom Harmon of Michigan '

That's about as high praise as you can give a football player at this time

There may be many explanations of their reversal of form but Western conference teams are having a banner year against non-conference rivals in contrast to last season Big Ten teams won less than half their games with outsiders in 1939 . . . In the first half of this season conference teams have won 12 and lost six . . In these 18 games they have amassed 376 points to 167 for their opponents, a little better than doubling the score . . The intersectional record gives conference teams victories over Syracuse Harvard, Penn California and Washington. . . Defeats by Texas, Cornell and Southern California.

The Minnesota Gophers are playing as if they set aside the 1940 season for revenge only . . In 1939 the Gophers lost four games and tied one, their poorest record in many years . . Now they have already settled accounts with three of their conquerors of last fall—Nebraska Iowa and Ohio State . . Northwestern is next on their list, these two meeting Saturday at Evanston in a clash of two undefeated teams . . Later on the Gophers will have a try at Purdue which tied them in 1939.

On the Big Ten practice fronts yesterday Minnesota stressed defensive tactics against Northwestern running and passing plays for the second straight day Northwestern got in more contact work in which Bill de Correvont participated although he still limped from an injury received in the Wisconsin game

Purdue virtually abandoning hope that the injured Mike Byelene might play Saturday, practiced maneuvers designed to halt the versatile Iowa attack. The Hawkeyes meantime, continued to polish their offensive weapons.

Illinois, which may be without the services of guard Joe Turek for the Wisconsin game, avoided contact work in a workout given over to blocking and a tag scrimmage Mild touches of stomach flu sidelined guard Fred Gage and quarterback Fred Bronson at Wisconsin, but both were expected to be available Saturday

Ohio State worked out against an Indiana defense as provided by the freshmen. The big item at the Hoosier school, however, was that of perfecting a scoring punch when near the goal line Michigan, idle this week, held a rehearsal of plays it plans to spring on Minnesota next week.

Girl Cheer Leaders, Banned in 1939, Happy As Denver Recalls Them

BY ROBERT E. GEIGER

Denver—(AP)—Just as the girls predicted, a gentlemen's agreement for the abolishment of college drum majorettes and female cheer leaders clad in eye-attracting, short-skirted uniforms didn't last long in the Big Seven football conference.

The girls are at it again this year, after being "abolished" for a season, at the University of Denver. Uniforms are trickier and "showier" than ever.

Jean Knorr and Ruth McIntosh, the two DU cheer provokers, predict the colorful profession will spread once more through all of the Big Seven schools.

"And why not?" asks platinum-haired, slim-limbed Jean. "Don't we contribute to the pep and the general all-around glamour of the football scene?"

Togs Undignified?

The "gentlemen's agreement" was entered into by college band officials who said "it isn't dignified for a college girl to display herself in scanty uniforms" and a few football players who complained "the fans pay for football games, not girlish acrobatic stunts — and besides the girls attract too much attention."

Getting back to Jean and Ruth, cheer leading is a matter of strenuous calisthenics. Out of training for a year, they had to get back into form gradually.

First, they limber up with the "soldier's stretch," then the knees are exercised with the "duck waddle." After some hand springs, they prance and strut. And then they're ready to cry. "Give 'em three times three, fellows," and leap into the air.

There are a few schools that teach drum majoring, the high prances and intricate twirls of the baton. Some college drum majorettes have gone to these schools. Others gained experience in high school bands, but the majority learn their routine after they reach college.

Few in East

There are many girl cheer leaders and drum majorettes in Southern Far Western and Southwestern schools and a few in the midwest but few Eastern schools have them. Many colleges have girl cheer leaders but leave the drum majoring to the boys.

One professional football team, at least, has gone further than any of the colleges along the music line. The Washington Redskins of the National Football league has a jazz orchestra parked in an Indian wigwam above the bleacher seats, in addition to a large marching band.

RUTH McINTOSH does the "Soldier's Stretch" to limber up for cheer leading acrobatics.

Pretty platinum - haired JEAN KNOBR practices the "Strut," with high knee action.

Another Badger Gridder Hit by Intestinal Flu

Gage in Infirmary; Expect He, Bronson To be Ready for Play

Madison—The University of Wisconsin football team's hospital list had another name Wednesday as Fred Gage, senior right guard from Green Bay, went to the infirmary with a touch of intestinal flu.

Gage joined Sophomore Paul Bronson, who was hit by the flu Tuesday. Coach Harry Stuhldreher believed both would be sufficiently recovered to participate in the Badgers' home-coming game against Illinois Saturday.

Meanwhile Stuhldreher put the finishing touches on the squad's preparations for Saturday's battle with Bob Zuppke's Illini by sending the squad through its final heavy workout.

Lorenz Doubtful

Don Miller, 205 pound right half, was used at fullback in yesterday's practice as well as at right half so that if George Paskvan is not able to go at full speed against Illinois there will be capable reserves.

Paskvan should be ready by Saturday. The condition of Al Lorenz's ankle, however, is causing some worry as it has not responded to treatment. Lorenz worked out for a short while yesterday and then retired for treatment.

Mark Hoskins, sophomore left half, was still on the sidelines but his ankle has improved rapidly this week and he will probably suit up Thursday.

Dick Embick took part in the line scrimmage again yesterday. He will start.

Kreick To Center

A second shift made yesterday saw Ray Kreick, end, moved to center. The Badgers could stand some offensive strength at this spot and Stuhldreher has decided to give Kreick a chance at it. He is big, moves fast, and is tough.

Jim McFadzean, right half, was still working at left half as well as his regular spot and John Tennant was at left half on the first team with Hoskins on the sidelines.

Title Chances Have Beloit Campus Excited

Beloit—(AP)—For the first time in fifteen years the Beloit Blue Devils have a chance to win or share the Midwest conference football championship and campus excitement is boiling over with two decisive home games on the November schedule.

To share in the top spot the Devils have to win from both Grinnell and Lawrence on successive Saturdays and Carleton must defeat or tie Grinnell.

Grid Captain Recalls Several Real 'Iron Men'

Lincoln, Neb.—(AP)—The original University of Nebraska footballers know what the term "iron men" meant.

Ebenezer E. Mockett, captain of the university's first team in 1890, recalled that the squad had only one substitute "and he didn't get to play very often."

The next year there was no substitute, and "if a man got hurt we played with 10 men, or nine men."

Now a resident of Lincoln, Mockett sees the Huskers play every fall.

Future-Book For ALL-AMERICA

By DILLON GRAHAM

Sports Editor, AP Feature Service

The gridiron season is still young but here are some stars who, by their consistently brilliant play in the earlier games, have already put in their bid for All-American team consideration:

JIM (SWEET) LALANNE, North Carolina passer, is one of the nation's top stars.

GEORGE FRANCK, swift halfback, has been the spearhead of Minnesota's powerful attack. This triple-threat ace was particularly effective in the Nebraska and Washington games.

FRANK REAGAN'S long, twisting runs helped Penn's surprising Quakers pile up big scores against early foes. One of the nation's top scorers, he tallied five times against Princeton.

BOB FOXX, successor to George Cafego as the kingpin of the Tennessee backfield, sparked the Vols to their major win over Duke. He played well against Alabama until an injury removed him. This passer-punter-runner also is a great blocker.

Frank Kroiss Paces League With 257, 629

Frank Kroiss cut loose with a 257 game and a 629 series for individual honors during S. S. A. C. league matches at Barn Tavern alleys recently. White House had top team game of 946.

Matches scores:

White (1)	798	754	946
Schaefer (2)	723	768	712
Van Dyck (1)	688	678	727

With Rosenthel getting a 213 game and Armstrong a 605 series, Schultz Pure Ice company rolled up top team marks of 926 and 2,679 during Neenah-Menasha R. F. D. league matches at Barn Tavern alleys this week. Schultz Fuel company scored a 3-game win.

DiMaggio, brother of Joe, lives at nearby Hermosa Beach. He is fortieth on call in his district, while Stringer, who has been with the Los Angeles Angels two years, is forty-ninth.

Gullixon Stars For S.S.A.C. Team; Eagles Drill Tonight

S S A C. Blue Eaglets romped to a 40 to 20 victory over Pierce Park Pirates at McKinley school field last evening. With the return of Elmer Gullixon to the lineup, the shifting of Schrimpf from end to the backfield and the moving of Mushinski to a regular end berth, the Eaglets presented a strengthened team. The Pirates were handicapped by lack of equipment, especially football shoes.

Gullixon took the opening kickoff on his goal line and twisted 100 yards to a touchdown. He scored three other times, once on an end run and twice on long passes from Schrimpf. Mushinski also tallied on a long pass and R. Quella drove over from the 2-yard stripe. Quella converted two points and the other two were made on a safety.

The Blue Eagles, Eastern Marine league entrants, will practice at 7 o'clock tonight in preparation for two tough games with Sheboygan and Manitowoc. Wins over these two teams would mean second round laurels and a crack at the league championship.

Milwaukee Chiefs in Drills for Boston 11

Pepped up from their civic banquet Tuesday, the Chiefs went at practice with a will.

Milwaukee's youngsters will be given a break Sunday. Tickets are priced at 10 cents if purchased in advance by representatives of youth groups.

Alumni Will Fete Milwaukee Teachers

Milwaukee — (AP) — Milwaukee State Teacher's college letterman will be feted tomorrow at the annual "M" club dinner. Carroll Pearce, president of Milwaukee Normal from 1913 to 1922, is the featured speaker. Saturday afternoon the Green Gulls will dedicate their new stadium in honor of Pearce in the homecoming football game against Stevens Point.

Packers Seek Revenge Sunday

Green Bay Hopes to Avenge 41-10 Loss Earlier in Season

Green Bay — One of the oldest gridiron rivalries in the annals of the National Football league will be resumed next Sunday when the title defending Green Bay Packers battle the Chicago Bears at Wrigley field.

It promises to attract a record crowd, as Packer-Bear tilts always do in the "Windy City," and it should be a hard and bitter fight as the Packers are out for revenge for a 41 to 10 shellacking at the hands of the "Bruins" at City stadium in Green Bay earlier this season.

Want to Get Even

The Bay squad is bent on only one mission in its practice sessions this week — that's to "beat the Bears" and Coaches E. L. (Curly) Lambeau and Richard (Red) Smith haven't had to put up any signs to remind their footballers what's ahead. In short the contest is a "natural" to key the Bay club for an important game.

The Packer-Bear rivalry dates to 1921, and in the home and home series over the 19-year period the "Bruins" hold the edge in the 43 meetings between the teams with 21 wins to 18 for the Packers. Four of the contests ended in ties. For the last four years the deadly rivals have split in the home and home series and the Packers are set to do the same thing on Sunday.

Win for Bears Cinches It

The Bears, with a loss of only one game so far this season, are out to retain that lead. If they beat the Packers it will just about cinch the Western division championship for them as Green Bay has dropped two and is in second place in the division. Should the Bays win, they would be tied with the Chicagoans for the top of the heap and then the title honors will be a neck and neck affair until perhaps the close of the season.

Students Courteous And Team Considerate

Good seats are scarce in the antiquated Clemson stadium and for two consecutive years the students consented to sit in the end zones for the big games with Wake Forest so that Mr. and Mrs. Public might have the best seats.

Last year the Tigers beat Wake Forest 20 to 7 and scored all their touchdowns on the students' end of the field. This year, routing Wake Forest 30 to 0, the Tigers scored four of their six touchdowns in the student body's lap.

America OUT-OF-DOORS

REMEMBER TO STORE YOUR BOAT PROPERLY

By Jack Ryan

Fishing days are over for this year for most of us unless we are among the fortunate ones who can get in some time in the South. Many of us have taken much of our pleasure in fishing from a boat. The same boat, if personally owned, may bring the same sport next year if it isn't neglected.

Any boat, whether it be wooden or steel, or canvas, deserves care in the off season. It cannot just be forgotten. If the boat is wood it should be protected from the weather so that there will be no chance for it to rot. Canvas also can rot if not protected. The metal boat is in danger of rusting and becoming leaky unless it is stored in a dry place.

Put your boat where they will be safely housed and don't forget that they will be just as good as new if stored so that they don't break their backs or get banged around. Most boats are better off if they are placed on elevated saw horses and covered by a canvas.

The horses should be placed so that the weight is evenly distributed and so that there is no strain on any particular part of the boat. A boat left to stand idle for many months will break down if there is improper strain not natural to its structure.

Boats should be dried out thoroughly before they are put up for the winter. A sponge and dry cloths will save damage if a bit of elbow grease is applied before the storage period. Weeds and other foreign matter which has accumulated in the bottom of a boat should be cleaned out. It is a sight easier to put the boat away in a clean condition than to have to scrape it in the spring after the refuse has dried tightly to the boat.

There isn't any particular reason that I have ever been able to see why a boat cannot be repainted in the fall or winter months as well as in the spring. If it is put in shape for next season ahead of time it will be ready for the first days of the fishing season and a tough job will be well out of the way.

Oars, paddles and motors all should be carefully stored. The former may be hung from racks or shelves and the latter should be boxed away from dust and dampness. Caution and care at this time will mean dividends for there won't be the costly replacements in the future.

Cornell Holds Top Offensive Honors in U. S.

Team Performance Keeps Pace With Popular Favor

BY GAIL FOWLER

Seattle— (AP)—Team performance continued to keep pace with popular favor as Cornell's football team again ranked first today as the nation's outstanding offensive unit.

For the first three weeks Cornell placed first in the weekly Associated Press sports writers' poll, and for those same three weeks, figures compiled by the American Football Statistical Bureau have borne out the selection.

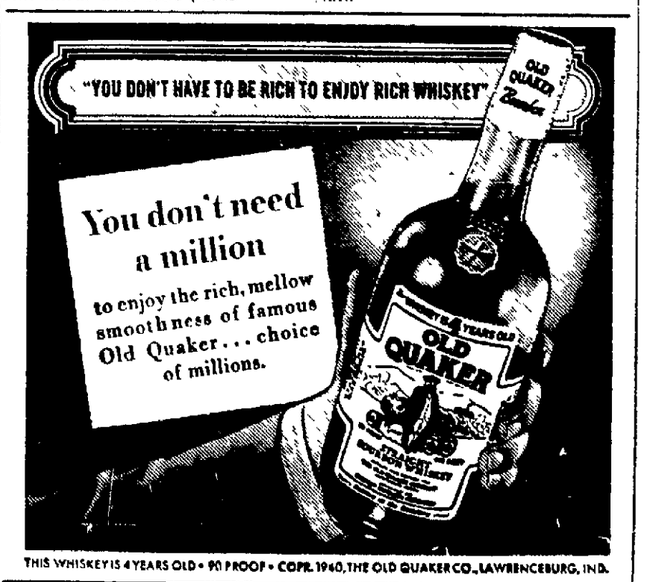

The "Big Red" eleven leads in total offense with an average of 424.3 yards per game by rushing and passing some 35 yards ahead of the nearest contender. And for the fourth straight week the Cornellians capture honors as the "passingest" team, being 63 yards per game above second place Princeton.

Complete 45 Passes

In four games Cornell, in 249 plays has lugged the ball 788 yards and thrown it 909 for a total advance of 1,697 yards. The club completed 45 of 75 passes with 5 intercepted.

Undefeated teams top four of this week's six divisions. LaFayette's Leopards boast the greatest rushing offense. The Navy has the most impregnable ground and air defenses. Texas A. & M., 1939 leader in defense against rushing, finally took over first place in that classification. Twice defeated and once-tied Utah has the best pass defense record, and Texas Mines, with a similar record is the top punting team.

In total offensive action Notre Dame, among the leaders for the first time, has 338.5 yards for eighth place. In pass offense Marquette is still third, with 162.5 yards.

The World of STAMPS

Berlin — Stamp prices in Germany are booming.

The new German standard catalogue for 1941 which just appeared noted higher prices throughout. In some cases jumps by 300 per cent were recorded.

Expert philatelists in Berlin explain this upward trend by an unexpected increase in the ranks of collectors. This in turn, they say, is an indirect result of Germany's strict war economy

The demand for stamps and complete collections has increased by leaps and bounds. The declining sales offers no longer meet the situation.

The same rigid restrictions which govern the export of currency have been invoked to prevent an illegal trade in postage stamps, at least as far as "swapping" with collectors abroad is concerned.

The German government is reaping good profits from the stamp boom. It is estimated many million marks have been obtained from revenues in surcharges on special issues.

Reports British Order For U. S. Freight Ships

Washington —(AP)—Secretary Morgenthau disclosed today that the British government has ordered "a large number" of freight ships in this country.

The treasury head said that he did not know whether the orders involved construction of a new shipyard in the United States for exclusive British use, but he added:

"They have ordered a large number of one standardized type of freight ship."

Wisconsin Health

BY DR. CORNELIUS A. HARPER
State Health Officer

The season of furnace heat is here again and is being saluted with a statewide broadside of coughing and sneezing despite the fact that we know of many simple measures which will prevent common colds.

Providing indoor moisture is one of the important means of warding off colds. If your home or office heating system is not equipped to supply moisture with the heat, setting out pans of water near the heating units will take care of this important item. Dry indoor heat dries the delicate nose membranes, which normally are coated with a layer of moisture which prevents germs from reaching the throat and lungs.

General resistance is even more important. If you keep your hours of sleep long and regular, eat at regular hours and eat conservatively, drink plenty of water, avoid constipation, keep your feet dry, avoid sudden changes of body temperature by dressing properly, and avoid overexertion, your general resistance will be strong enough to put down attacks not only of the common cold but of various other communicable ills which seem to increase their incidence during the winter months.

Do not be afraid of sleeping in a cold bedroom. Shut the heat off in sleeping quarters when bedtime approaches, and open the windows. Direct drafts upon the sleeper may be dangerous, but these can be avoided by means of improvised screens if necessary.

A number of races appear to thrive in climates colder than ours, and without benefit of furnace heat. We would not trade with them, but they show us that we are inclined to overdo the luxury of indoor heat.

New Deal Record on Reds Is Not What Pegler Calls Good

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—The Democratic national committee has been trying to expunge the record of President Roosevelt's tolerance of communists and their activities by citing the fact that, in his second adminstraton, Earl Browder was convicted of violating the passport law. I think it was unwise of the boys to do this, but now that they have opened the door let us see what the wind blows in.

Pegler

The truth is that the evidence against Browder was turned up by the Dies committee, which had persisted in its work despite acts of political sabotage by President Roosevelt himself, by Mrs. Roosevelt and the New Deal's Washington newspaper claque. Mr. Roosevelt took it upon himself to attempt to discredit this agency of congress when its revelations embarrassed some of his political supporters, and Mrs. Roosevelt, with corny political ostentation, showed up at the sessions of the committee at a time when the American Youth Congress was under inquiry and sat there knitting, perhaps a red stitch now and again, to demonstrate publicly her sympathy with an organization whose muscovite character was being disclosed day by day.

Mrs. Roosevelt also invited a number of the young things to lunch at the White House, and her entire conduct obviously was intended to rebuke the Dies committee for daring to hear evidence that her favorite youth movement was a communist Trojan horse—or, let us say, foal.

Much evidence of communist domination was revealed, and J. B. Matthews, the backslid bolo who was both witness and investigator for the committee, wrote, out of his own long and intimate experience as a fellow-traveler, that the young communist league, in concert with left-wing socialists, captured the congress in its infancy.

As to the character of the young communist league, the dominant influence in the youth congress, Ben Gitlow, another backslider who formerly was the head man of the communist movement in the United States, wrote in his book, I Confess: "If a young girl insisted on maintaining her chastity she was frowned upon as a bourgeois Many of the young communists considered the giving up of one's chastity as a mark of distinction. The orgies and debaucheries among the youth were spoken about in whispers, never seriously discussed and considered. Many of them turned out to be really tragic figures—intellectually infantile; others, cynically worldly and senile."

These reminders will be promptly denounced as a personalized smear of Mr. Roosevelt, whom the Democratic national committee now openly compares with Abe Lincoln, but the fact is, nevertheless, that the fauntleroy railsplitter, as Mr. Ickes might call him if he were vituperating on this side of the argument, actually did try to kill off the Dies committee when its revelations were going against the communists.

Only Nazi, Fascist Side Was Condemned

Mrs Roosevelt's part in the case also is a matter of recent memory, and representative Dies once openly protested that individuals in the New Deal press delegation not only distorted descriptions and accounts of the hearings but pursed their lips and blew loud, lewd notes at witnesses as they gave evidence against various cells, fractions and individuals.

Not only that but for years, or approximately until the time that Stalin openly joined Hitler against civilization, the sympathy of this administration was distinctly with communists and others who denounced and damned the capitalistic or American, system of economy, as such, was not opposed.

Only the fascist and nazi dictatorships were condemned, and those who had the fortitude to insist that there was no important difference between Stalin, on one hand, and Hitler, on the other, caught hell from the left. The administration did not openly take part in this phase of the play, but those who did berate the persons who could see no difference were pals and house pets of the administration.

And Mrs. Roosevelt, Ickes and Robert Jackson evidenced a taunting and provocative preference for organizations which were either openly communistic or known to be dominated by Moscow, such as the Lawyers' Guild, the Workers' alliance, the Newspaper Guild and the League for Peace and Democracy—and, of course, the youth congress.

The individual himself apparently is unimportant, but it has been interesting to observe the dogged resourcefulness of the administration in finding job after job, all these years, for Paul Sifton, who wrote for the official publication of a communist transmission belt a memorable damnation of the "whole capitalist shell game," and in retaining until very recently Dr. David Saposs, the chief economist of the communistic labor relations board, who wrote that "if political action fails, then the workers must unhesitatingly resort to organized force."

So notwithstanding the conviction of Browder in an action forced on the administration by Martin Dies against strong White House opposition, the record of the New Deal on communists and communism is not one that the Democratic national committee can safely boast of.

Urges Reelection of President Roosevelt

Milwaukee —(AP)— Francis E. McGovern, Democratic candidate for governor, last night urged reelection of President Roosevelt, saying that "there is scarcely a phase of life which the New Deal has not touched and improved."

"During seven years the Roosevelt administration has fought its way inch by inch to bring about recovery that will endure without the blemishes that would soon bring on another breakdown of our economic system worse than the Hoover catastrophies," McGovern told a women's Democratic club meeting.

Discussing his own campaign, McGovern, a former governor, said:

"I have served this state for two terms as governor, and I stand on that record of service to the common people, especially in behalf of the needy aged, working women and mothers, and in the interest of workers."

Volunteers Make Up Personnel Of Waupaca Fire Department

(This is one of a number of articles describing the fire fighting equipment and personnel in the towns, villages and cities of this area. They are designed to acquaint readers with the types of fire fighting apparatuses and systems in vogue in this area. Another article will appear in the near future.)

Waupaca—Motorized fire equipment has replaced the horses and a siren has replaced the old fire bell, but the personnel of Waupaca's Fire department, which was organized May 11, 1871, still is composed of volunteers.

Until 1938 there were two divisions, the hose company with 30 to 36 members, and the hook and ladder company with 15 to 18 on its roll.

During the days when Page Knight was secretary, from 1878 to 1888, Waupaca had horses to haul equipment to its fires, but the animals made their last stand in 1934. The department still has the 1882 Manchester locomotive fire wagon, but it has been years since it was used. The wagon usually is referred to as No 613.

The hook and ladder truck was secured in 1907 and a triple combination truck boasting 2,500 feet of hose, dates from 1926. The siren replaced the fire bell in 1928.

The firemen have set up rules to discipline the members. Note these fines: disobeying orders, 10 cents; not appearing in uniform when ordered, 10 cents; neglect of duty, 20 to 50 cents; and using improper language, 10 cents.

Fire A Month

Waupaca averages about a fire a month. In the last 18 months there have been 18 fires and 25 false alarms. The last big fire was the April 1939 burning of the Parish-Fabricious tavern with a loss of $15,000. The summer of 1939 saw the 150-acre fire in the Quimby woods west of the city. The foundry fire less than a year ago caused a loss of nearly $8,000 damage.

Old timers say these are nothing as compared to the starch factory fire and the Y. M. C. A. fire at 40 below zero. Fire at the Cary Manufacturing plant on Dec. 28, 1962 almost destroyed what was once known as the old woolen mills, and proved a heavy loss to the company. Another cold winter fire was that of the Abstract and Loan building on Main street about a year later.

In the old days, water was pumped from fire wells, but with the advent of hydrants but one of the wells remains and that is never used.

The election records of the fire department show several men who were faithful fire fighters for many years. F. C. Anderson was foreman from 1902 to 1915. Alfred Johnson, 80-year-old honorary member, was secretary from 1899 to 1905 and fire chief from 1917 to 1919. Nels Anderson was assistant foreman from 1904 to 1915.

The present chief, Vigo Jensen, has been in the department more than 30 years. When he was 21 he served as foreman of the hook and ladder company. His first assistant now is Richard Peterson; second assistant, Henry Rassmussen; secretary and treasurer, Paul Niles. Other members are Gerald Cook, the youngest on the rolls; Donald Ware, Edwin Hoppe, Carl Cook, Irving Lewis, Lester Laux, Ellsworth Barrington, Andrew Peterson, Holger Lund, Ralph Pugmire, and Ray Wakefield. Headquarters are at the city hall.

'A Man Named Grant' Among Volumes Added at Library

New London—Helen Todd's "A Man Named Grant," a new type of biography and the first non-fiction book to receive a Literary Fellowship award, is among the new books available at the New London Public library this week.

A biography on the life of Ulysses S. Grant, it is concerned not with a man who made history, but with how history made a man.

A story of a year in a Norwegian farm community between our own Waupaca and Stevens Point, Wis., is told by George V. Martin in "For Our Vines Have Tender Grapes."

Another powerful story of human emotions in Nazi Germany is unfolded in the tale of Emmy Ritter in Ethel Vance's "Escape."

"Mr. and Mr. Meigs" presents Elizabeth's Corbett's famous character, Mrs. Meigs, in one of the most interesting and eventful periods of her fictitious life. Carrie Meigs in her forties fills the gap between "She Was Carrie Eaton" and "The Young Mrs. Meigs."

Zane Grey's "30,000 on the Hoof" is a story of a man and woman who carve a home for themselves and their future family in the wilderness of central Arizona.

Margaret Culkin Banning has turned out another sparkling new novel of modern young people in "Enough to Live On," in which untold numbers of young Americans can recognize themselves.

LaFollette Hits Heil Record in Campaign Talk

Senator Says Sales Tax Will be Adopted If Republicans Win

New London — Attacking governor Heil's administration of the state with figures from its own Blue Book statements, Senator Robert M. LaFollette, Jr., declared the "Milwaukee Athletic club Republicans" in power the last two years violated practically every campaign promise they made. He spoke for an hour before several hundred persons at the Veterans of Foreign Wars hall at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon in his only campaign appearance in Waupaca county.

LaFollette warned against a general sales tax which he charged would be imposed by the Heil administration, if it is returned to office, in order to make up for the 12 million dollar deficit he said it has produced in the last two years. Progressives, he said, would make it up by graduated income taxes and inheritance taxes, levies which he pointed out were altered greatly by the Republicans to increase the lower income brackets and decrease the load on the higher brackets.

Auto Fees the Same

Other broken promises he charged were reduced auto license fees, more school aids, reduced taxes to farmer, laborer, property owner and small business man. The only reduction in license fees, he said, were for the busses of the large public utilities; taxes to the prosperous telephone companies. He charged the 5-million dollar cigaret tax reduced the buying power of the general public by that much.

Heil said he would apply business methods to government and save money. LaFollette charged, when actually the last legislative session was the longest and most costly in the history of the state, and the budget and total tax levies reached a new peak. Many of the proven agencies inaugurated by the Progressives have been destroyed, particularly those benefiting the farmer, he continued.

He opposes U. S. entry into the European war, stating his opinion that this country can render better service to the world by staying out of it.

Scout Troop Hears Talk on Astronomy

New London—A talk on astronomy was given by the Rev. F. S. Dayton before Boy Scouts of Troop 7 at their regular meeting at the Methodist church Tuesday night.

Plans for establishing a joint library with the Girls Scouts Troop 2 was planned with the donation of a set of boys' books by Mrs. Gordon Meiklejohn. The boys and girls will seek to collect more books and will welcome donations of material for readers of their age. A book case will be secured or built and placed in the scout meeting room. Scoutmaster W. T. Maxted, Assistant Ira Joubert, or Scoutmistress Mrs. Ralph Mortenson will accept donations.

Everett Darrow presided over Tuesday's meeting as acting patrol leader. A new plan will provide for a different acting leader every week with Jim Kuehlman in charge next week.

At least six members of the adult troop committee plan to attend the annual fall conference at Gardner Dam camp Saturday and Sunday. Those planning to attend are Maxted, Joubert, Harry Macklin, William Sagar, Frank Beckman and Irving Darrow. Others also may go.

Course Is Closed but Women Golfers Will Play Anyway

New London—The clubhouse at Springvale Golf course was closed today, flags have been removed from the greens and the place has been formally closed for the season but the Women's Golf club plans to meet out there again next week so long as the fine autumn weather continues.

Eighteen members played on regular Ladies' day yesterday and prizes were awarded by lot to Mrs. Gimmestad and Mrs. J. W. Monsted. Lunch after the game consisted of hot dogs roasted over the open fireplaces on the parking grounds.

Mrs. Leonard Dernbach was hostess to the L. S. club at her home Tuesday evening and had Mrs. Elmer Helgeson as a guest. Mrs. Clarence Laux and Mrs. Clair Rickaby won prizes. In two weeks Mrs. Glen Marks will entertain.

The American Legion clubhouse was the secret rendezvous for the Halloween party of the Business and Professional Women's club last night. About 40 guests were "taken for a ride" at the start and brought to the clubhouse by the hostesses. New teachers in the public and Emanuel Lutheran schools were guests. After frightening by ghosts and witches, a scavenger hunt was held and lunch concluded the party.

ROYAL SOCIETY

While Robert Boyle was a young man, much fighting took place between Puritans and Cavaliers. That was in the time of Oliver Cromwell.

Boyle did not care to join either army. His interest was in science; he wanted to learn new facts about the world of Nature.

While studying in England, he found other men who had their main interest in science. They met together now and then, and talked about problems of many kinds.

The meetings of the little group of thinkers later led to the starting of the Royal Society. That society has lived to the present day, and contains the leading scientists of Great Britain.

Here are some of the questions the members of the society talked about in early meetings:

"What are comets? Are comets different from new stars? How can we explain the shape of the planet Saturn? What is the weight of the air?"

The answers to those questions are rather well known today, but in Boyle's time, there was not nearly so much knowledge. Only by tests and debates could the truth be brought out, and the answers came slowly.

Boyle was most interested in tests of air. Galileo had proved that air weighed something. He had forced an extra amount of air into a glass jar, and had found that the jar weighed a little more when the air was added.

Ways had been found to take air out of jars and other containers. Boyle and a friend named Hooke built a machine for this purpose, and it worked very well.

With the machine, Boyle was able to take almost all the air out of a glass jar. In that way he produced a "vacuum."

Boyle could not obtain a perfect vacuum, but he came near enough to it to learn some interesting facts.

"What would happen to a butterfly if it were placed in a jar from which the air had been taken?" he wondered.

To find the answer, he put a butterfly in the jar. It died.

Mice were tested in a vacuum, and they also died—except one which got out alive and scampered across the floor. "I'll let you go!" exclaimed Boyle. "You have gone through enough danger for one little mouse!"

Uncle Ray

How high does the air exist above the earth? Why do people easily grow tired when they go to a mountain top and exercise? Those are two of the questions Uncle Ray will answer in his next story.

Auburn, Me.—(AP)—Motorist Gilbert B. Caron of Lewiston told Auburn police that a passing carthorse reared, swerved toward his car and raked one side of the machine from front fender to door with his forelegs. The car was dented badly. The horse, unharmed, placidly went his way.

CITY'S NEW 18-HOLE GOLF COURSE—The golf season is nearly over but municipal golfers can look forward to a remodeled and sporty 18-hole course next spring. The sketch shows the clubhouse, marked X, and opposite No. 1 tee. The circular spots are greens, the holes are numbered and show the yardage and par on each hole. The nine new greens have been seeded and workmen are finishing the installation of water lines on the course. (Post-Crescent Photo.)

Political Battle Ground

For the remaining days of the presidential campaign, this space will be provided for the major political parties to present their arguments in behalf of their candidates. The material is provided by the national committees of the two parties.

Republican

BY CARTER FIELD

Look how much better off we are now than in 1932, says the third term candidate.

Let's look at that just a minute.

In 1932 things were terrible. No doubt about that.

There were some ten million people unemployed.

What's different now?

There are ten million unemployed right now.

But there are some eighteen million people on some sort of relief or other.

They are being supported partly by taxation, partly by borrowed money. There are more than a million people on the federal payroll proper. Almost twice what there were in 1932.

All of these people are spending your money, or spending money borrowed that eventually you will have to pay.

All that spending ought to make prosperity. It ought to make lots of jobs.

Yet there are practically the same number of unemployed there were in 1932.

Simple logic would seem to indicate that we are actually worse off than in 1932; headed at a rapid rate for a condition worse than that.

But that's only part of it.

Look at the munitions orders—for planes, tanks, guns, ammunition, factories to make them, cantonments to house the draft boys, and so forth.

How many unemployed would there be without this war spending?

How much worse off would we be today if it were not for this war spending?

What will happen when the war spending ends?

Imagine a down and out bum back in 1932?

Suppose he had been borrowing $5 every day ever since—and spending it. The bum would think things were a lot better.

But next month he finds he can't borrow any more.

The folks who loaned him the $5 a day don't think he can ever pay! He is right back to being a bum again.

Plus the fact that any credit he ever had now is gone.

Don't kid yourselves. That can happen to governments as well as bums. It has happened to governments.

It will happen to ours if we keep on.

Elect Wendell Willkie and get the country back on a sound basis, with jobs in private industry, jobs that don't require spending your money or borrowing money you will have to pay. Jobs that will help you carry the load.

It's Willkie or chaos. You have your choice!

Democratic

DEMOCRATIC
"THE PARTY OF OPPOSITION"

The great debater of Wall street and Rushville, Ind., "misspoke himself" again Monday night in Louisville, Ky., and in so doing he revealed himself so clearly as the political opportunist he really is that no one who heard his remark could any longer have any doubt about it.

Mr. Willkie came right out and attempted to excuse the efforts of Republican leaders in congress to hamper, delay and destroy national defense legislation on the ground that they represented the "opposition party."

In other words, because they represented the Republican party, they were behaving in an entirely ethical and patriotic manner if they opposed a national defense program solely on the ground that it was being launched by the Democratic party.

Went Beyond Speech

This from the crusader himself—after all he and his fellow crusaders have had to say about politics in the national defense program and about the cynics he says surround the president in Washington.

Following his custom, Mr. Willkie Tuesday night—as reported in the New York Times—continued talking beyond his regular speech repeating his charge that President Roosevelt and the Democratic congress had failed to build armed defenses as fast as Mr. Willkie now thinks they should have been built he said:

"The third term candidate may now call attention to the fact that some Republicans spoke against the defense program.

"The Republican party was the party of opposition.

"The Democratic party was in control, and if it had had a leader who knew how to lead it, America today would not be defenseless."

President at Garden

Apparently Mr. Willkie's schoolboyish ambition to shine as a debater led him into this performance.

Earlier in the evening, President Roosevelt, speaking in Madison Square Garden, had gone right down the line, discussing in detail what his administration and the Democratic congress had done to preserve our neutrality and to build up our armed defenses—in spite of the opposition of Republicans in congress.

The president named names and quoted voting records—from such indisputable sources as the Congressional Record.

President Roosevelt used facts—and he had plenty of them at his disposal and the facts, available to anyone who care to check them.

Show beyond any question that the majority of the Republicans in congress have in the past bitterly and consistently fought the defense program.

Mr. Willkie—whose followers love to boast about his ability to "think on his feet"—apparently added these unfortunate remarks to his prepared speech, which followed that of President Roosevelt under the illusion that he was showing off his prowess as a debater.

Will Need Help

A search through the political speeches of all American candidates for political office in the last 150 years—from president to dog-catcher—could hardly reveal a more cynical or opportunistic attitude than that revealed by Mr. Willkie.

So—says Mr. Wendell Willkie—members of a political party in congress are justified in opposing a program backed by an opposition party, entirely on a political basis, regardless of its value or necessity to the national well being.

And after tacitly admitting that the Republicans in congress had fought the defense and neutrality bills because they represented the "opposition party," Mr. Willkie wound up his attempt at debating with this gem:

"And, may I add, if you elect me president, I will need help in Washington. I would like to make a special appeal for the Republican candidates for senator and members of congress from this district."

Bulbs Easiest to Plant, Are Most Certain to Bloom

Fall Bulbs and Their Best Planting Depths

Of all garden subjects, the bulbs are probably the easiest to plant and the most certain to bloom. It is almost impossible to plant the modern bulbs without some kind of success when spring rolls around.

Because they are so obliging, however, does not mean that they should be planted without regard to their likes and dislikes. The tiny scilla bulbs should manifestly not be planted so deep as the huge narcissus bulb. When beginning operations, consult a chart of planting depths, or read carefully the directions on the package, making sure that bulbs of each type are planted about the same depth, so that they will appear simultaneously in the spring.

A good rule to follow when in doubt, is to plant on the deep side. In other words less harm will be done from planting too deep, than too shallow. In the case of candidum lilies, the converse is true, and these giant bulbs, which appear to want at least 6 inches, need but a scant 3 inches.

Tulips will burrow through 18 inches, but 5 to 6 inches is the proper planting depth. The crocus, snowdrop and scilla should be planted 2 to 3 inches below the soil. The lilies need the deepest planting. The stem-rooters can go a full foot deep with good results. The distance apart is a matter of preference, although, 5 inches should be the minimum.

Drainage is an important part of any bulb planting, and every precaution should be taken to avoid standing water, or over-soaked beds, which will cause rotting of the bulbs. In cases where doubt arises as to what will occur during the wet days of early spring, or where the soil is particularly heavy, raise the bed about 6 inches from the level of the garden.

Bulbs do not need a very rich soil, as they have considerable food stored up in themselves. An application of plant food will, however, help them to produce bigger flowers. Do not apply a barnyard manure, as they have a particular aversion to it.

School Play to Be Staged Nov. 13

Bear Creek—The all-school play, "The Ready-Made Family," will be presented at the high school gymnasium Nov. 13. This is a three-act farce by Jay Tobias to be given by ten girls and boys from the student body. Miss Margaret Dixon is coaching the play.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Flanagan, Anita and Pat Flanagan were at Oshkosh Sunday where they attended a banquet.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bechard and family who formerly resided at Wild Rose moved to this village Monday and are occupying rooms at the Mrs. Gertrude Long home.

Milo Calkins, a resident of Eston, Saskatchewan, Canada, who came here about two weeks ago to attend the golden wedding of his sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jepson, became ill shortly after his arrival here and was confined to his bed about a week. He is recuperating from his illness and left here Wednesday for his home in Canada.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Webster of Waukon, Iowa, arrived here Saturday for a visit at the home of their daughter, Mrs. Stanley B. Helms. Mr. Webster returned to his home Monday while his wife remained here for a longer visit.

Shrimp Industry Is Based on Nickels

Southport, N. C. — (AP) — If you see a Southport man carrying a bucket of nickels it's nothing unusual. This is a nickel town. It all comes about through the shrimp industry in which a five-cent piece is the pay for beheading a bucket of shrimp for shipment to northern cities.

Each "picker" has a galvanized bucket into which the beheaded shrimp is dropped. A good picker averages several dollars a day when the shrimp are plentiful and of good size.

The pickers carry pinned-on bags for their nickels. Some slip the coins into their shoes. When the shrimp runs are heavy the nickel consumption of this town of about 2,5000 persons runs around $1,000 a day.

Hollywood—"During the past few months movie production has resembled nothing so much as a 'smoking car' story session. Each studio having tasted a few juicy financial returns from the peddling of salacious scenes, racy dialogue and anatomical exposures, now seems hell-bent on topping its previous breaches of good taste with others still more flagrant But — a prophesy — the piper must be paid before long. The desk of this reporter, already covered with letters from indignant parents, is a warning. . . ."

Fidler

THE ABOVE PARAGRAPH IS QUOTED VERBATIM FROM AN EDITORIAL I PENNED SEVEN YEARS AGO'

It was written at a time when screen smut brought the Legion of Decency into being, and public disapproval forced Hollywood to clean house

THE SAME PARAGRAPH COULD BE WRITTEN AGAIN TODAY WITHOUT CHANGING ONE WORD! My desk is again littered with parental protests against recent pictures. The Legion of Decency, quiescent for several years, is again re-arming. And Hollywood, through its own sheer stupidity, is again facing trial.

When will the men at the helm of this industry learn a lasting lesson? When will they realize that millions of Americans still resent flippant disregard of the accepted decencies? And when will they wake up to the fact that real cleverness need not depend upon dirty implications to put over its points?

The answer to all three questions had better be "SOON!" For the current stir against risque films should be a warning. First offenders get off lightly. Habitual offenders pay the maximum penalty.

IDOL CHATTER: Warner Brothers' new word for Ann Sheridan, since she ultimatumed for more pay, is just "Hoomph!" Add names that confuse: Bonnie Baker and Bonnie King. Any role is well padded—if Mae West plays it. What is it about young Robert Stack that prompts so many secretly-married rumors? Peas-in-a-pod: Charles A. Lindbergh and movie producer Robert Sherwood. Maybe Claudette Colbert's performance in "Arise My Love" will win no award, but she gave her role the best tears of her life. Pome: Rita Hayworth's a lassie whose chassis is classy. In-a-word description of Milton Berle's antics: Berle-esques. Many a star who is averse to wearing glasses would be wiser to avoid emptying the same. How would YOU rate John Barrymore's performances—fair to maudlin?

CUFF NOTES: Despite "it's-all-off" rumors, Peggy Kent and radio announcer Don Wilson have bought a home and will wed next month. . . . Is Clark Gable getting exclusive? Before buying a '41 model car, he exacted the dealer's guarantee that its color scheme would not be duplicated in these parts . . . Wot's this about 20th Century execs nixing radio offers made to Charlotte Greenwood, whom they hold under contract? . . . All current chuckles: Barbara (Vera Vague) Allen's battle to squelch the studio's "pretty girl" publicity—she's afraid it will wreck her radio career.

Groucho Marx tells it: Seems that he and Harpo were stopped by a speed cop during a recent Nevada trek. Harpo talked fast, and the officer finally agreed to tear up the ticket. "Thanks, pal," enthused Harpo, "I want to show my gratitude Can't we send you an autographed picture?" The cop looked a bit worried. "If you do," he begged, "send it to the police station. If my wife ever knew I had you on a speed rap—and let you off—she'd never forgive me She can't stand you guys!'

2-Word Part Makes Star of Helen Craig

Leading Lady of Show Doesn't Utter Sound Until Finis

BY FERD BROWNING

New York—The boss said it was to be an interview with a "gal who won't talk."

He wasn't exactly right.

As Belinda, the deaf mute leading lady of "Johnny Belinda," Helen Craig doesn't utter a sound for three acts. Only at the final curtain does she speak. Just "Johnny, Johnny."

A soft job you say? No lines to learn? Hardly. Belinda "talks," but she doesn't speak — she uses her eyes, gestures, the sign language of the deaf and dumb. Take it from Helen, who is a good conversationalist off stage, the role is no cinch

"It's the toughest I've ever tackled," she says. "Just imagine In three hours Belinda must meet the audience, make it feel the loneliness she has known for 18 years, gain its sympathy, and make it understand her emotions as she becomes an unwed mother, as she experiences love and as she kills to keep her child"

All that without speaking a word Quite a large order.

The story is one of a motherless deaf mute in a small town in Nova Scotia. To prepare for the part, Miss Craig studied the sign language for five weeks under Mrs Florence May at a school for deaf and dumb in Hartford, Conn. Helen is proud that teachers have told her she is an "excellent signer." She says deaf persons are "intensely interested" in seeing their problems presented in a play.

The role brought unexpected difficulties. All Miss Craig's stage training had stressed the importance of reacting naturally to any stage sounds. A terrific thunderclap in one scene gave her trouble at first.

"I knew it was coming but it scared me every time. I had to dig my toes into the stage boards and grab at a table to keep from jumping straight into the air. Wouldn't that have been a pretty performance?"

At Atlantic City, after the tryout, boardwalk strollers stopped Miss Craig and asked if she really could talk. They seemed to think somebody else had spoken Belinda's two-word part.

Belinda is not Helen's debut in a leading role. She does consider it her biggest chance, though a "real challenge." She was the heroine of last season's "The Unconquered," has played other important roles.

A vivacious personality off stage, she has trouble keeping her flashing eyes toned down to mere fright and puzzlement in the early scenes of Johnny Belinda. She has a sturdy figure, gives the impression she could really handle Belinda's grain mill job—but she's far from out of place in the very feminine curves of Belinda's clothes.

'Talked' With Hands Before

Born in Chile, the daughter of American mining people Helen lived there until she came to America at 16 to study for the stage. People teased her, she says, about how she gestured as she spoke.

After eight or nine years, she worked out of that habit. But now, talking in her dressing room about the play and her part, she emphasizes a point here and there—and uses her hands in sign language, to do it.

She is the wife of John Beal, film actor. He kidded her plenty about her non-talking role, wrote that he was glad to learn she had been given a part, even if it was just a walk-on.

To her indignant reply that she spoke two words, he wired back:

"Congratulations on promotion to bit part"

Jewish Monthly Is For Both Candidates

Washington —(AP)— The national Jewish monthly said today there were no issues involving race or religion in next Tuesday's elections and that many members of the Jewish race would vote for each presidential candidate.

President Roosevelt and Wendell L. Willkie the presidential candidates, were described as "fine examples of the highest type of American manhood."

Germans Announce New Curfew for Bordeaux

Vichy, France—(AP) — German authorities in Bordeaux have abolished the curfew for Frenchmen in that city, it was announced today. Public places in Bordeaux will be closed at 11:30 p. m., half an hour later than heretofore.

172 Jap Businessmen Depart From England

London —(AP)— Acting on advice of their government, 172 Japanese, carrying gas masks and steel helmets, left Euston station today on the long voyage home.

Most of them were representatives of Japanese banks and business houses in London.

Kiyoshi Uchiyama, consul general, who headed the party, said about 600 Japanese were remaining in Britain.

Double Trouble

Lake City, S. C. —(AP)— The fire engines rushed away from a fire here. Yep, the fire house caught on fire!

Assess Tax 30 Years After Man's Death

Milwaukee—(AP)—Thirty years after his death, an inheritance tax of $2942 has been assessed against the estate of Samuel A. Field, a real estate man whose homestead now is part of Juneau park.

Field, who died in 1909, left a life interest in his $233,145 holdings to his widow and provided that upon her death the estate be divided among his nieces and nephews.

Mrs. Field died in 1918 and an inheritance tax tender was made then but final settlement was delayed pending sale of the property. County Judge Charles W. Hansen fixed the amount of the tax yesterday.

Quintuplets Reported In France; One Dies

Vichy, France—(AP)—French newspapers reported today that a miner's wife at Lens, near Lille, has given birth to quintuplets—four boys and one girl, who was reported to have died.

Pheasant Forced to Alight on 42nd Street

New York—(P)—Of all the places to make a forced landing, 42nd street at the rush hour probably is the worst

And of all the creatures to make such a landing who'd ever expect it to be a Mongolian cock pheasant?

But it happened that way yesterday. The bird landed with a thud on an auto fender and was captured by passersby, who turned him over to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals

Navy Acquires Dozen High Speed Oil Tankers

Washington—(P)—The navy has acquired 12 high speed oil tankers as part of what Secretary Knox called its "vigorous and aggressive" effort to increase the fleet's operating effectiveness.

Knox, announcing yesterday the acquisition of the tankers which had been built for commercial oil companies, said the navy had "to put the pressure on" to obtain them.

Dorothy Thompson Hits at Republicans

New York—(P)—Dorothy Thompson, newspaper columnist, declared last night that the Republican presidential campaign had been "carefully designed to rob the American people of their wits"

Miss Thompson said that the "real story" behind the campaign of Wendell Willkie was that about a month ago his backers "decided he was not pulling in the orders so a lot of high pressure sales boys and public relations counsels took him over."

The "technique" of the Republican "sales boys and public relations counsels," she said in a broadcast sponsored by the Businessmen's League for Roosevelt, was "first to create fear and then to offer a branded antidote"

"The Republican boys," Miss Thompson added, "want to come in not because times are bad and they want to save the nation. They want to come in because they know times are good and they want to be sure that they get what they quaintly call 'their share' of the pickings.

"And if they get their share—or what they think is their share—the pickings will very shortly be very bad for all of us, because that's not the way you get steady prosperity, as most of us can still remember."

National Guardsmen Now Have Newspaper

Alexandria, La.—(P)—A mimeographed camp paper devoted to the 32nd division has been established by Wisconsin and Michigan national guardsmen under the direction of Lieut. Col. George L. Simpson, of Eau Claire, division intelligence officer. Col. Simpson has selected an editorial staff and each company and battery has chosen its own reporter.

Clothes for Finland

Washington—(P)— The Red Cross is buying $324,000 worth of underwear, socks, stockings and shoes for distribution in Finland.

The purchases are being handled by the treasury procurement division, which made the announcement today.

vorces Company om Two Utilities

Washington —(AP)— The securities mission ruled yesterday that Wisconsin Valley Improvement pany was not a subsidiary of consin Public Service corpora- or Wisconsin Power and Light pany. These two companies a total of more than 52 per t of the improvement company's ing stock.

The commission said that while applicant was subject to a con- ling influence by the two utili- companies, it believed that from character of the improvement pany's business and the extent the statutory control resulting m the legislation under which company was organized, that re appeared to be no danger to the public interest or the interests of investors or consumers.

Wisconsin Valley Improvement company was established to build and operate dams by which the level of the Wisconsin and Tomahawk rivers is kept at a proper height. Its control rests in utilities and paper companies along the rivers.

Perkins Reports Less Strikes Than in 1939

Washington—(AP)— Secretary Perkins said today that preliminary estimates showed there were 1,750 strikes during the first nine months this year, or 82 per cent of the number during the corresponding period in 1939.

"The number of workers involved in the 1940 period was only 37 per cent as great as in 1939, 68 per cent as great as in 1938 and only 22 per cent as many as in 1937," she said

Santa Will Have Tough Pickings in Foreign Countries

Washington — (AP) — It's 55 days until Christmas, but if you're playing Santa Claus to people in foreign lands, you'd better start doing something about it right now.

Packages, particularly those designed to hang on European Christmas trees, are going to be the worst problem.

The post office department has suspended holiday parcel post service to 39 countries, a list which reads like a trip through the atlas

Among those countries, however which the old United States mail will try to help Santa reach are England, France, Scotland, Ireland, Spain and Portugal.

Ironically, Christmas parcels may not be sent to the Vatican City state and Palestine, the Holy Land

Packages for the accepted places should be mailed immediately, and Christmas cards and letters should be posted as early in November as possible.

The post office department has rescinded a rule against allowing Christmas stamps or stickers on the address side of articles mailed to foreign countries.

Urges Jobless To Register for Defense Work

Demand Is Growing For Skilled Men, Employment Head Says

Neenah — Harry D. Gates, manager of the Neenah-Menasha office of the Wisconsin state employment service, urged that skilled workers who are unemployed or working at some other than their regular trade to register at the employment service, for there is a big demand for skilled labor in the national defense program.

In preparations for national defense, securing skilled labor for the factories and shipyards is basic and important because skilled and experienced workers are needed before military equipment and materials can be produced.

The employment service, Gates said, has been studying the supply of labor and the labor needs in the state relative to the defense needs for several months. He said a study was made of occupations essential to the defense industries to determine the workers needed.

Within the last few months, a large number of skilled workers have registered. The demand has been only for highly skilled mechanics in particular trades, but as the defense program continues, it is anticipated that less skilled persons will be demanded.

Vocational schools in 36 Wisconsin cities, including Neenah and Menasha, are giving traning courses in certain fields, and the employment service is assisting the United States civil service commission to secure workers for the arsenals and shipyards by helping applicants fill out the application blanks and referring men directly.

Expect 2,000 Children to Attend Halloween Carnival

Neenah—With 2,000 children participating in the Halloween carnival at the recreation building and 55 Neenah High school boys patroling the streets as junior policemen, Neenah police are anticipating a tranquil Halloween observance tonight.

The carnival is being sponsored for Neenah children by the Kiwanis club and the Recreation commission and accommodations for 2,000 children have been arranged, according to Paul Stacker, manager.

Police Chief Irving Stilp has recruited 55 high school boys to serve as junior police, patroling the streets on their bicycles in pairs and trios. The boys will be given a lunch at the Neenah club after their work is completed.

An added attraction to the carnival program will be the showing of motion pictures taken of three Neenah football games with Menasha St. Mary, New London and Kaukauna. The films were taken by Dr. William Schultz.

The carnival program also will include a floor show, sound motion pictures, jitterbug contests, dancing, consessions and guessing games. The children will receive free ice cream cones and apples, and numerous prizes will be awarded to winners of contests.

The carnival will be divided into two sections, one for children 12 years of age and under beginning at 5.30, and the other for older children beginning at 8:30 with a parade from the business district to the recreation center.

Kiwanians, high school football players and police will supervise and run the carnival.

The Kiwanis club committee which has been assisting Stacker in promoting the carnival is composed of Ed Christoph, chairman, Otto Steffenhagen, Gaylord Loehning, Lyall Stilp, A. H. Angermeyer and Dr. Truman J. Seiler.

Keefe Charges New Deal With Force Methods

Points to Efforts To Push Legislation Through Congress

Menasha—Frank B. Keefe, Oshkosh, sixth district congressman, charged the New Deal with "force methods" in attempting to push bills and financial measures through congress at a Republican rally Wednesday night at Germania hall.

Keefe said that attempts are made to rush bills through committees without even permitting the committeemen to read the bills. The speaker declared that he never will act so hastily in consideration of any bill.

The Republican congressman has been named to the important committee on appropriations, the first time in 50 years that a Wisconsin man has served on the committee. The appointment also marks the first time that a congressman was appointed to the appropriations committee during his first term in office. The committee is so important that it requires that a congressman resign from all other house committees.

Find Communists

As a member of the appropriations committee Keefe said that he attempted to hold up the salary of any known communist on the government payroll. Working with the Dies committee, Keefe said over 500 communists were found.

The congressman charged that the New Deal never considers the cost of legislation or where the money is coming from. If a congressman attempts to argue the point he is scoffed at and told that the social results of the act are the most important thing, not the cost.

Keefe said Wendell Willkie approves of many New Deal acts but said there's room for improvement in many of them. In the CCC the cost of keeping a moy is $1,000 a year but the boy receives only $30 a month, he pointed out. The "barnacles on the system, the political party workers, get the rest," he declared. The speaker charged that the FHA slum clearance program has not worked ony benefit because not one slum dweller is living in the apartment which cost $6,200 to build and are rented for $19.20. The apartments are rented by party workers.

"An ordinary WPA worker would be horrified if he knew the number of political and non-relief people who have high-paying WPA jobs through politics and not because of their need," he continued.

A parade headed by the C. Y. O. band preceded the rally at Germania hall. The band also played a short concert at the hall. Dr. F. M. Corry traced the early history of the United States and pointed out that many sacrifices were made to establish the democratic form of government. He said that the public should resent the third term attempt because it is not democratic.

Post-Crescent Oshkosh Bureau

Oshkosh—With most of the county offices uncontested, a sharp decrease in campaign expenditures for the general election, as compared with the primary expenses, was noted in reports filed yesterday with County Clerk A. E. Hedke.

The greatest expenses were incurred by the Republican party clubs. The Republican Committee of Winnebago county listed receipts at $2,738.13 and expenses as $1,070.08; the Republican Party of Winnebago county declared its receipts to be $2,141.81 and expenses as $761.20; the Willkie for President Club of Neenah filed receipts of $127.40 and expenses as $115.79; and the Winnebago County Young Republican club stated it received $406, spent $358.89, and owed $37. The Winnebago County Progressive club showed receipts of $46.75 and expenses of $37.50.

Individual expenditures by Republican candidates for county offices were: A. E. Hedke, county clerk, $25.45; Earl Fuller, county treasurer, $6.80; George B. Young, register of deeds, $6.80; E. C. Abell, clerk of court, $6.80; Lewis C. Magnusen, district attorney, $8.30; Dr. G. W. Steele, coroner, $2.60; James C. Fritzen, Neenah, assemblyman from second county district, $46.57; and Robert F. Wolverton, county surveyor, $5.68. Julius Holtz, Republican candidate for sheriff, who reported expenses of $544.57 for the primary election, state that he had not spent any money for the general election.

Council Purchases Land to Widen Smith Street to 50 Feet

Neenah—The city council purchased land on Smith street to widen it to a 50-foot thoroughfare from William Quinn for $770 at a special meeting last night at the city hall.

The strip of land purchased by the council is 16 feet wide and about 150 feet long.

Quinn offered to sell the land for $770, explaining that the amount would cover the cost of removing the garage which is located on the property and rebuilding another one.

Part of the street still is 60 feet, and Alderman Edward Schultz proposed vacating 10 feet to eliminate a jog. The roadway opposite the Quinn property is only 34 feet wide.

Heil Criticizes Progressive Foe

Cites Cost of Special Prosecutors in Phone Company Legal Action

Neenah—Asserting that "We don't want to pay taxes to support loafers who don't want to work," Governor Julius P. Heil in a campaign address here late yesterday afternoon told a small audience that "I fulfilled my promises of two years ago by reducing the cost of government and straightening affairs of state."

Heil, who was more than a half hour late for the talk, scored Orland S. Loomis, his opponent in the race for the state's chief executive position, charging that the former attorney general wouldn't prosecute the telephone company suit "because he was tired." Heil further charged that Loomis' special prosecutors, whom he called lobsters, assessed fees of $9,000, while "My so-called 'millionaire attorneys' didn't charge anything."

Heil rebuked a youngster who heckled the governor. He said, "That's the trouble with young America. It's got to be built up," and he recommended that the boy be reported to his teachers for special instruction in Americanism.

1,055 Laid Off

The governor told Neenah people that he laid off 1,055 persons from state service because they weren't needed, saving the state $2,000,000 a year. He said that he asked for a $67,000,000 budget, but the Progressives handed him a $98,000,000 budget. It finally was reduced to $75,000,000, which was $16,000,000 more than the legislature had provided ways of raising.

"I didn't call the legislature back in session but I called the emergency committee together and $4,000,000 was cut from all departments, and it didn't impair the work of those departments."

Heil got mixed up in the district, and urged the people to vote for Congressman Johns and not Kresky, "a wolf in sheep's clothing," but somebody informed him that this is Congressman Frank Keefe's district, and he asked for the support of Keefe. He also gave the nod to Assemblyman James C. Fritzen, Neenah, and he urged the people to "Retire the while father and elect Willkie."

Day School to Offer Minstrel Show in Swing

Student Written and Planned Production Will be Staged Nov. 4

Menasha—Winnebago Day school students will present their own production, a minstrel show in swing, at 8 o'clock Monday night at the school auditorium. The entire show, which will be quite different from the usual minstrel show with its interlocutor and end men, has been produced by the children.

The original scrip was written by seventh and eighth grade students, Chrissie Turner, Emilie Reimer, Jojo Kimberly, Betty Falvey and Bill Rounds. Chrissie Turner and Jojo Kimberly are the two directors of the production while Betty Falvey and Emilie Reimer are the art directors and will supervise the scenery, costumes and make-up.

Fifth and sixth grade youngsters are assisting with the costuming and make-up. Velda Reimer and Julie Pickard are helping with the costumes while Carole Lucile Swanson and Doris Rogers are helping with the make-up. Nootie Smith has charge of properties. All of the committee members also will have roles in the show.

The children aren't telling much about the show except that it will be different. Even the name, "It Couldn't Happen in Harlem or Straw is Cheaper," is different. It will have a large number of Negro folk songs and old favorites.

Two Scenes

The production will be in two parts, one at the old plantation and the other at the Darktown Strutter's ball. For the plantation scene the students are preparing a backdrop showing fields of cotton. The cotton really is tufts of cotton batton and the stems are painted on the background. The "Old Kentucky Home" also will be part of the scenery.

Fifth and sixth grade students included in the cast in addition to those working on committees are Oliver Smith, Tom Stilp, Don Turner, Derry Harvey, Judy Pickard, Skippy Koehler, Bob Kimberly and Patsey Leach.

Third and fourth graders in the cast include Phoebe Harvey, Robin Long, Sue Yonan, Ted Sutherland, Tom Pickard, and Pudge Gilbert. Dickie and Bill Kimberly, Sonny Pickard, Danny Koehler, and Sonny Swanson are first and second graders in the cast.

OF VITAL IMPORTANCE — TO — Prospective Home Builders

Something has happened that is of vital importance to EVERY PROSPECTIVE HOME BUILDER — These are not ordinary times and events transpire around us with such rapidity as to leave us a trifle slow to realize the full effect of their influence.

Three or four months ago the prospective home owner was not faced with a real shortage of lumber with consequent rising prices – But TODAY – RIGHT NOW – there is a definite shortage of Building materials with a consequent increase in prices.

The Reason -?-

The Federal government has poured in orders for tremendous quantities of lumber for camps, defense projects, new plants, housing for workers, etc., Railroads are placing large orders for new freight car requirements and are repairing the old.

The situation is so acute that in ONE SINGLE WEEK, WEST COAST LUMBER MILLS SOLD 432 MILLION FEET OF LUMBER AND PRODUCED ONLY 345 MILLION FEET — A SHORTAGE OF 77 MILLION FEET IN ONLY ONE WEEK — and that was several weeks ago.

THINK OF WHAT THE SUPPLY AND PRICE SITUATION WILL BE IN THE VERY NEAR FUTURE.

WE HAVE A COMPLETE STOCK!

We anticipated this demand and bought huge quantities of lumber and building materials at normal prices — IF YOU PLAN TO BUILD NOW OR IN THE VERY NEAR FUTURE (and You'll be wise to build this Fall rather than next Spring) get in touch with us immediately - - - -

WE CAN STILL SAVE YOU BETWEEN $300 to $600 ON A NEW HOME

N. Y. Stocks Shoot Upward In Brisk Trade

Numerous Extreme Gains are Reduced At Close of Market

New York —(P)— Traders stepped on the buying accelerator in crafts, rails and industrial specialties today's stock market and steels, airlines shot up 1 or more than 3 points at the best.

Transfers of about 1,400,00 shares formed one of the biggest turnovers in the past several months.

High price marks for the session were attained in the majority of cases around noon. Profit taking then made its appearance and numerous extreme gains were reduced at the close.

Brokers suggested various reasons for the vigorous early runup. Some wishful thinkers argued that a little more political optimism in boardrooms had much to do with reviving the purchasing urge. Others, however, felt that considerable vitality was imparted to the list by the continued cheerful business outlook and the growing belief that a number of companies would expand sufficiently to more than offset bounding taxes. War news seemingly was a secondary market factor.

General Motors and Chrysler kept to a relatively narrow path most of the day, although it was predicted October automotive output would make a record for this month.

There Should be 1 for Every Alley

Santa Fe, N. W. —(P)— Robert M. Budlong hasn't anything against cats in general, but against the cats which are tempted by birds at Morro National Monument he has directed an inventive genius that relegates old shoes and crockery to the horse-and-buggy days.

Budlong has built a "cat spanker," which, he says, protects cats against the baser side of their nature and protects his birds from the cats. He is custodian of the monument.

His spanker consists of a platform on which salmon is placed as bait and an arrangement whereby the weight of an investigating cat releases a bent lath which strikes the animal and sends it tumbling over the salmon and into a metal chute leading to a tub of water.

"The cat emerges at great speed, streaks for the nearest fence and never returns," Budlong explains.
